

1 Preamble: A Lawyer's Responsibilities.

2 [1] A lawyer; is a representative of clients, an officer of the legal system and a public
3 citizen having special responsibility for the quality of justice. Every lawyer is responsible
4 to observe the law and the Rules of Professional Conduct, shall take the Attorney's
5 Oath upon admission to the practice of law, and shall be subject to the Rules of Lawyer
6 Discipline and Disability. ~~as a member of the legal profession, is a representative of~~
7 ~~clients, an officer of the legal system and a public citizen having special responsibility~~
8 ~~for the quality of justice.~~

9 Attorney's Oath

10 "I do solemnly swear that I will support, obey and defend the 11 Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of Utah; that I will 12 discharge the duties of attorney and counselor at law as an officer of the 13 courts of this State with honesty and fidelity; and that I will strictly observe 14 the Rules of Professional Conduct promulgated by the Supreme Court of 15 the State of Utah."

16 [2] As a representative of clients, a lawyer performs various functions. As advisor, a 17 lawyer provides a client with an informed understanding of the client's legal rights and 18 obligations and explains their practical implications. As advocate, a lawyer zealously
19 asserts the client's position under the rules of the adversary system. As negotiator, a 20 lawyer seeks a result advantageous to the client but consistent with requirements of 21 honest dealings with others. As an evaluator, a lawyer acts by examining a client's legal 22 affairs and reporting about them to the client or to others. A lawyer's representation of a 23 client, including representation by appointment, does not constitute an endorsement of 24 the client's political, economic, social or moral views or activities.

25 [3] In addition to these representational functions, a lawyer may serve as a third-26 party neutral, a nonrepresentational role helping the parties to resolve a dispute or other 27 matter. Some of these Rules apply directly to lawyers who are or have served as third-28 party neutrals. See, e.g., Rules 1.12 and 2.4. In addition, there are rules that apply to 29 lawyers who are not active in the practice of law or to practicing lawyers even when they 30 are acting in a nonprofessional capacity. For example, a lawyer who commits fraud in the conduct of a business is subject to discipline for engaging in conduct involving dishonesty, fraud, deceit or misrepresentation. See Rule 8.4.

[4] In all professional functions a lawyer should be competent, prompt and diligent. A lawyer should maintain communication with a client concerning the representation. A lawyer should keep in confidence information relating to representation of a client except so far as disclosure is required or permitted by the Rules of Professional Conduct or other law.

[5] A lawyer's conduct should conform to the requirements of the law, both in professional service to clients and in the lawyer's business and personal affairs. A lawyer should use the law's procedures only for legitimate purposes and not to harass or intimidate others. A lawyer should demonstrate respect for the legal system and for those who serve it, including judges, other lawyers and public officials. While it is a lawyer's duty, when necessary, to challenge the rectitude of official action, it is also a lawyer's duty to uphold legal process.

[6] As a public citizen, a lawyer should seek improvement of the law, access to the legal system, the administration of justice and the quality of service rendered by the legal profession. As a member of a learned profession, a lawyer should cultivate knowledge of the law beyond its use for clients, employ that knowledge in reform of the law and work to strengthen legal education. In addition, a lawyer should further the public's understanding of and confidence in the rule of law and the justice system because legal institutions in a constitutional democracy depend on popular participation and support to maintain their authority. A lawyer should be mindful of deficiencies in the administration of justice and of the fact that the poor, and sometimes persons who are not poor, cannot afford adequate legal assistance and therefore, all lawyers should devote professional time and resources and use civic influence in their behalf to ensure equal access to our system of justice for all those who because of economic or social barriers cannot afford or secure adequate legal counsel. A lawyer should aid the legal profession in pursuing these objectives and should help the Bar regulate itself in the public interest.

[7] Many of a lawyer's professional responsibilities are prescribed in the Rules of Professional Conduct, as well as substantive and procedural law. However, a lawyer is also guided by personal conscience and the approbation of professional peers. A lawyer should strive to attain the highest level of skill, to improve the law and the legal profession and to exemplify the legal profession's ideals of public service.

[8] A lawyer's responsibilities as a representative of clients, an officer of the legal system and a public citizen are usually harmonious. Thus, when an opposing party is well represented, a lawyer can be a zealous advocate on behalf of a client and at the same time assume that justice is being done. So also, a lawyer can be sure that preserving client confidences ordinarily serves the public interest because people are more likely to seek legal advice, and thereby heed their legal obligations, when they know their communications will be private.

[9] In the nature of law practice, however, conflicting responsibilities are encountered. Virtually all difficult ethical problems arise from conflict between a lawyer's responsibilities to clients, to the legal system and to the lawyer's own interest in remaining an ethical person while earning a satisfactory living. The Rules of Professional Conduct often prescribe terms for resolving such conflicts. Within the framework of these Rules, however, many difficult issues of professional discretion can arise. Such issues must be resolved through the exercise of sensitive professional and moral judgment guided by the basic principles underlying the Rules. These principles include the lawyer's obligation zealously to protect and pursue a client's legitimate interests, within the bounds of the adversarial system, while maintaining a professional, courteous and civil attitude toward all persons involved in the legal system.

[10] The legal profession is largely self-governing. Although other professions also have been granted powers of self-government, the legal profession is unique in this respect because of the close relationship between the profession and the processes of government and law enforcement. This connection is manifested in the fact that ultimate authority over the legal profession is vested largely in the courts.

[11] To the extent that lawyers meet the obligations of their professional calling, the occasion for government regulation is obviated. Self-regulation also helps maintain the legal profession's independence from government domination. An independent legal profession is an important force in preserving government under law, for abuse of legal

92 authority is more readily challenged by a profession whose members are not dependent 93 on government for the right to practice.

94 [12] The legal profession's relative autonomy carries with it special responsibilities of 95 self-government. The profession has a responsibility to ensure that its regulations are 96 conceived in the public interest and not in furtherance of parochial or self-interested 97 concerns of the Bar. Every lawyer is responsible for observance of the Rules of 98 Professional Conduct. A lawyer should also aid in securing their observance by other 99 lawyers. Neglect of these responsibilities compromises the independence of the 100 profession and the public interest which it serves.

101 [13] Lawyers play a vital role in the preservation of society. The fulfillment of this role 102 requires an understanding by lawyers of their relationship to our legal system. The 103 Rules of Professional Conduct, when properly applied, serve to define that relationship.

104 Scope.

105 [14] The Rules of Professional Conduct are rules of reason. They should be 106 interpreted with reference to the purposes of legal representation and of the law itself.
107 Some of the Rules are imperatives, cast in the terms "shall" or "shall not." These define 108 proper conduct for purposes of professional discipline. Others, generally cast in the term 109 "may," are permissive and define areas under the Rules in which the lawyer has 110 discretion to exercise professional judgment. No disciplinary action should be taken 111 when the lawyer chooses not to act or acts within the bounds of such discretion. Other 112 Rules define the nature of relationships between the lawyer and others. The Rules are 113 thus partly obligatory and disciplinary and partly constitutive and descriptive in that they 114 define a lawyer's professional role. Many of the Comments use the term "should."
115 Comments do not add obligations to the Rules but provide guidance for practicing in 116 compliance with the Rules.

117 [15] The Rules presuppose a larger legal context shaping the lawyer's role. That 118 context includes court rules and statutes relating to matters of licensure, laws defining 119 specific obligations of lawyers and substantive and procedural law in general. The 120 Comments are sometimes used to alert lawyers to their responsibilities under such 121 other law.

[16] Compliance with the Rules, as with all law in an open society, depends primarily upon understanding and voluntary compliance, secondarily upon reinforcement by peer and public opinion and finally, when necessary, upon enforcement through disciplinary proceedings. The Rules do not, however, exhaust the moral and ethical considerations that should inform a lawyer, for no worthwhile human activity can be completely defined by legal rules. The Rules simply provide a framework for the ethical practice of law.

[17] Furthermore, for purposes of determining the lawyer's authority and responsibility, principles of substantive law external to these Rules determine whether a client-lawyer relationship exists. Most of the duties flowing from the client-lawyer relationship attach only after the client has requested the lawyer to render legal services and the lawyer has agreed to do so. But there are some duties, such as that of confidentiality under Rule 1.6, that attach when the lawyer agrees to consider whether a client-lawyer relationship shall be established. See Rule 1.18. Whether a client-lawyer relationship exists for any specific purpose can depend on the circumstances and may be a question of fact.

[18] Under various legal provisions, including constitutional, statutory and common law, the responsibilities of government lawyers may include authority concerning legal matters that ordinarily reposes in the client in private client-lawyer relationships. For example, a lawyer for a government agency may have authority on behalf of the government to decide upon settlement or whether to appeal from an adverse judgment. Such authority in various respects is generally vested in the attorney general and the state's attorney in state government, and their federal counterparts, and the same may be true of other government law officers. Also, lawyers under the supervision of these officers may be authorized to represent several government agencies in intragovernmental legal controversies in circumstances where a private lawyer could not represent multiple private clients. These Rules do not abrogate any such authority.

[19] Failure to comply with an obligation or prohibition imposed by a Rule is a basis for invoking the disciplinary process. The Rules presuppose that disciplinary assessment of a lawyer's conduct will be made on the basis of the facts and circumstances as they existed at the time of the conduct in question and in recognition of the fact that a lawyer often has to act upon uncertain or incomplete evidence of the

153 situation. Moreover, the Rules presuppose that whether or not discipline should be 154 imposed for a violation, and the severity of a sanction, depend on all the circumstances, 155 such as the willfulness and seriousness of the violation, extenuating factors and 156 whether there have been previous violations.

157 [20] Violation of a Rule should not itself give rise to a cause of action against a 158 lawyer nor should it create any presumption in such a case that a legal duty has been 159 breached. In addition, violation of a rule does not necessarily warrant any other 160 nondisciplinary remedy, such as disqualification of a lawyer in pending litigation. The 161 Rules are designed to provide guidance to lawyers and to provide a structure for 162 regulating conduct through disciplinary agencies. They are not designed to be a basis 163 for civil liability. Furthermore, the purpose of the Rules can be subverted when they are 164 invoked by opposing parties as procedural weapons. The fact that a Rule is a just basis 165 for a lawyer's self-assessment, or for sanctioning a lawyer under the administration of a 166 disciplinary authority, does not imply that an antagonist in a collateral proceeding or 167 transaction has standing to seek enforcement of the Rule. Nevertheless, since the 168 Rules do establish standards of conduct by lawyers, a lawyer's violation of a rule may 169 be evidence of breach of applicable standard of conduct.

170 [21] The Comment accompanying each Rule explains and illustrates the meaning
171 and purpose of the Rule. The Preamble and this note on Scope provide general 172 orientation. The Comments are intended as guides to interpretation, but the text of 173 each Rule is authoritative.

1 Rule 1.0. Terminology.

2 (a) “Belief” or “believes” denotes that the person involved actually supposed the fact
3 in question to be true. A person's belief may be inferred from circumstances.

4 (b) “Confirmed in writing,” when used in reference to the informed consent of a 5 person, denotes informed consent that is given in writing by the person or a writing that 6 a lawyer promptly transmits to the person confirming an oral informed consent. See 7 paragraph (f) for the definition of “informed consent.” If it is not feasible to obtain or 8 transmit the writing at the time the person gives informed consent, then the lawyer must 9 obtain or transmit it within a reasonable time thereafter.

10 (c) “Consult” or “consultation” denotes communication of information reasonably 11 sufficient to permit the client to appreciate the significance of the matter in question.

12 (d) “Firm” or “law firm” denotes a lawyer or lawyers in a ~~private firm, law partnership,~~
13 ~~professional corporation, sole proprietorship or other association authorized to practice~~
14 ~~law; or~~ lawyers employed in a legal services organization or the legal department of a 15 corporation or other organization ~~and lawyers employed in a legal services organization.~~
16 ~~See Comment, Rule 1.10.~~

17 (e) “Fraud” or “fraudulent” denotes conduct ~~having that is fraudulent under the~~ 18 ~~substantive or procedural law of the applicable jurisdiction and has~~ a purpose to deceive
19 ~~and not merely negligent misrepresentation or failure to apprise another of relevant~~ 20 ~~information.~~

21 (f) “Informed consent” denotes the agreement by a person to a proposed course of 22 conduct after the lawyer has communicated adequate information and explanation
23 about the material risks of and reasonably available alternatives to the proposed course 24 of conduct.

25 (g) “Knowingly,” “know~~n~~” or “knows” denotes actual knowledge of the fact in 26 question. A person's knowledge may be inferred from circumstances.

27 (h) “Partner” denotes a member of a partnership ~~and~~, a shareholder in a law firm 28 organized as a professional corporation, or a member of an association authorized to 29 practice law.

30 (i) “Reasonable” or “reasonably” when used in relation to conduct by a lawyer
31 denotes the conduct of a reasonably prudent and competent lawyer.

(j) "Reasonable belief" or "reasonably believes" when used in reference to a lawyer denotes that the lawyer believes the matter in question and that the circumstances are such that the belief is reasonable.

(k) "Reasonably should know" when used in reference to a lawyer denotes that a lawyer of reasonable prudence and competence would ascertain the matter in question.

(l) "Screened" denotes the isolation of a lawyer from any participation in a matter through the timely imposition of procedures within a firm that are reasonably adequate under the circumstances to protect information that the isolated lawyer is obligated to protect under these Rules or other law.

(m) "Substantial" when used in reference to degree or extent denotes a material matter of clear and weighty importance.

(n) "Tribunal" denotes a court, an arbitrator in a binding arbitration proceeding or a legislative body, administrative agency or other body acting in an adjudicative capacity. A legislative body, administrative agency or other body acts in an adjudicative capacity when a neutral official, after the presentation of evidence or legal argument by a party or parties, will render a binding legal judgment directly affecting a party's interests in a particular matter.

(o) "Writing" or "written" denotes a tangible or electronic record of a communication or representation, including handwriting, typewriting, printing, photostating, photography, audio or videorecording and e-mail. A "signed" writing includes an electronic sound, symbol or process attached to or logically associated with a writing and executed or adopted by a person with the intent to sign the writing.

Comment

Confirmed in Writing

[1] If it is not feasible to obtain or transmit a written confirmation at the time the client gives informed consent, then the lawyer must obtain or transmit it within a reasonable time thereafter. If a lawyer has obtained a client's informed consent, the lawyer may act in reliance on that consent so long as it is confirmed in writing within a reasonable time thereafter.

Firm

[2] Whether two or more lawyers constitute a firm within paragraph (d) can depend on the specific facts. For example, two practitioners who share office space and occasionally consult or assist each other ordinarily would not be regarded as constituting a firm. However, if they present themselves to the public in a way that suggests that they are a firm or conduct themselves as a firm, they should be regarded as a firm for purposes of these Rules. The terms of any formal agreement between associated lawyers are relevant in determining whether they are a firm, as is the fact that they have mutual access to information concerning the clients they serve. Furthermore, it is relevant in doubtful cases to consider the underlying purpose of the rule that is involved. A group of lawyers could be regarded as a firm for purposes of the rule that the same lawyer should not represent opposing parties in litigation, while it might not be so regarded for purposes of the rule that information acquired by one lawyer is attributed to another.

[3] With respect to the law department of an organization, including the government, there is ordinarily no question that the members of the department constitute a firm within the meaning of the Rules of Professional Conduct. There can be uncertainty, however, as to the identity of the client. For example, it may not be clear whether the law department of a corporation represents a subsidiary or an affiliated corporation, as well as the corporation by which the members of the department are directly employed. A similar question can arise concerning an unincorporated association and its local affiliates.

[4] Similar questions can also arise with respect to lawyers in legal aid and legal services organizations. Depending upon the structure of the organization, the entire organization or different components of it may constitute a firm or firms for purposes of these Rules.

Fraud

[5] When used in these Rules, the terms “fraud” or “fraudulent” refer to conduct that is characterized as such under the substantive or procedural law of the applicable jurisdiction and has a purpose to deceive. This does not include merely negligent misrepresentation or negligent failure to apprise another of relevant information. For purposes of these Rules, it is not necessary that anyone has suffered damages or relied on the misrepresentation or failure to inform.

Informed Consent

[6] Many of the Rules of Professional Conduct require the lawyer to obtain the informed consent of a client or other person (e.g., a former client or, under certain circumstances, a prospective client) before accepting or continuing representation or pursuing a course of conduct. See, e.g., Rules 1.2(c), 1.6(a) and 1.7(b). The communication necessary to obtain such consent will vary according to the rule involved and the circumstances giving rise to the need to obtain informed consent. The lawyer must make reasonable efforts to ensure that the client or other person possesses information reasonably adequate to make an informed decision. Ordinarily, this will require communication that includes a disclosure of the facts and circumstances giving rise to the situation, any explanation reasonably necessary to inform the client or other person of the material advantages and disadvantages of the proposed course of conduct and a discussion of the client's or other person's options and alternatives. In some circumstances it may be appropriate for a lawyer to advise a client or other person to seek the advice of other counsel. A lawyer need not inform a client or other person of facts or implications already known to the client or other person; nevertheless, a lawyer who does not personally inform the client or other person assumes the risk that the client or other person is inadequately informed and the consent is invalid. In determining whether the information and explanation provided are reasonably adequate, relevant factors include whether the client or other person is experienced in legal matters generally and in making decisions of the type involved, and whether the client or other person is independently represented by other counsel in giving the consent. Normally, such persons need less information and explanation than others, and generally a client or other person who is independently represented by other counsel in giving the consent should be assumed to have given informed consent.

[7] Obtaining informed consent will usually require an affirmative response by the client or other person. In general, a lawyer may not assume consent from a client's or other person's silence. Consent may be inferred, however, from the conduct of a client or other person who has reasonably adequate information about the matter. A number of rules require that a person's consent be confirmed in writing. See Rules 1.7(b) and 1.9(a). For a definition of "writing" and "confirmed in writing," see paragraphs (o) and (b). Other rules require that a client's consent be obtained in a writing signed by the client. See, e.g., Rules 1.8(a) and (g). For a definition of "signed," see paragraph (o).

Screened

[8] This definition applies to situations where screening of a personally disqualified lawyer is permitted to remove imputation of a conflict of interest under Rules 1.11, 1.12 or 1.18.

[9] The purpose of screening is to assure the affected parties that confidential information known by the personally disqualified lawyer remains protected. The personally disqualified lawyer should acknowledge the obligation not to communicate with any of the other lawyers in the firm with respect to the matter. Similarly, other lawyers in the firm who are working on the matter should be informed that the screening is in place and that they may not communicate with the personally disqualified lawyer with respect to the matter. Additional screening measures that are appropriate for the particular matter will depend on the circumstances. To implement, reinforce and remind all affected lawyers of the presence of the screening, it may be appropriate for the firm to undertake such procedures as a written undertaking by the screened lawyer to avoid any communication with other firm personnel and any contact with any firm files or other materials relating to the matter, written notice and instructions to all other firm personnel forbidding any communication with the screened lawyer relating to the matter, denial of access by the screened lawyer to firm files or other materials relating to the matter and periodic reminders of the screen to the screened lawyer and all other firm personnel.

[10] In order to be effective, screening measures must be implemented as soon as practical after a lawyer or law firm knows or reasonably should know that there is a need for screening.

1 Rule 1.1. Competence.

2 A lawyer shall provide competent representation to a client. Competent
3 representation requires the legal knowledge, skill, thoroughness, and preparation
4 reasonably necessary for the representation.

5 Comment

6 Legal Knowledge and Skill

7 [\[1\]](#) In determining whether a lawyer employs the requisite knowledge and skill in a
8 particular matter, relevant factors include the relative complexity and specialized nature 9 of the matter, the lawyer's general experience, the lawyer's training and experience in 10 the field in question, the preparation and study the lawyer is able to give the matter and 11 whether it is feasible to refer the matter to, or associate or consult with, a lawyer of 12 established competence in the field in question. In many instances, the required 13 proficiency is that of a general practitioner. Expertise in a particular field of law may be 14 required in some circumstances.

15 [\[2\]](#) A lawyer need not necessarily have special training or prior experience to handle
16 legal problems of a type with which the lawyer is unfamiliar. A newly admitted lawyer
17 can be as competent as a practitioner with long experience. Some important legal skills, 18 such as the analysis of precedent, the evaluation of evidence and legal drafting, are 19 required in all legal problems. Perhaps the most fundamental legal skill consists of 20 determining what kind of legal problems a situation may involve, a skill that necessarily 21 transcends any particular specialized knowledge. A lawyer can provide adequate 22 representation in a wholly novel field through necessary study. Competent 23 representation can also be provided through the association of a lawyer of established 24 competence in the field in question.

25 [\[3\]](#) In an emergency a lawyer may give advice or assistance in a matter in which the 26 lawyer does not have the skill ordinarily required where referral to or consultation or 27 association with another lawyer would be impractical. Even in an emergency, however, 28 assistance should be limited to that reasonably necessary in the circumstances, for 29 ill-considered action under emergency conditions can jeopardize the client's interest.

[4] A lawyer may accept representation where the requisite level of competence can be achieved by reasonable preparation. This applies as well to a lawyer who is appointed as counsel for an unrepresented person. See also Rule 6.2.

Thoroughness and Preparation

[5] Competent handling of a particular matter includes inquiry into and analysis of the factual and legal elements of the problem and use of methods and procedures meeting the standards of competent practitioners. It also includes adequate preparation. The required attention and preparation are determined in part by what is at stake; major litigation and complex transactions ordinarily require more ~~elaborate~~ extensive treatment than matters of lesser complexity and consequence. An agreement between the lawyer and the client regarding the scope of the representation may limit the matters for which the lawyer is responsible. See Rule 1.2(c).

Maintaining Competence

[6] To maintain the requisite knowledge and skill, a lawyer should keep abreast of changes in the law and its practice, engage in continuing study and education and comply with all continuing legal education requirements to which the lawyer is subject. ~~If a system of peer review has been established, the lawyer should consider making use of it in appropriate circumstance.~~

Rule 1.2. Scope of Representation and Allocation of Authority Between Client and Lawyer.

(a) A-Subject to paragraphs (c) and (d), a lawyer shall abide by a client's decisions concerning the objectives of representation, ~~subject to paragraphs (b), (c), (d), and and,~~ as required by Rule 1.4, shall consult with the client as to the means by which they are to be pursued. A lawyer may take such action on behalf of the client as is impliedly authorized to carry out the representation. A lawyer shall abide by a client's decision whether to ~~accept an offer of settlement of settle~~ a matter. In a criminal case, ~~a the~~ lawyer shall abide by the client's decision, after consultation with the lawyer, as to a plea to be entered, whether to waive jury trial and whether the client will testify.

(b) A lawyer's representation of a client, including representation by appointment, does not constitute an endorsement of the client's political, economic, social or moral views or activities.

(c) A lawyer may limit the ~~objectives-scope~~ of the representation if the ~~client consents after consultation~~ limitation is reasonable under the circumstances and the client gives informed consent.

~~(e)(d)~~ A lawyer shall not counsel a client to engage, or assist a client, in conduct that the lawyer knows is criminal or fraudulent, but a lawyer may discuss the legal consequences of any proposed course of conduct with a client and may counsel or assist a client to make a good faith effort to determine the validity, scope, meaning or application of the law.

~~(d) When a lawyer knows that a client expects assistance not permitted by the Rules of Professional Conduct or other law, the lawyer shall consult with the client regarding the relevant limitations on the lawyer's conduct.~~

Comment

Scope of Representation

Allocation of Authority between Client and Lawyer

[1] Both lawyer and client have authority and responsibility in the objectives and means of representation. The client has Paragraph (a) confers upon the client the ultimate authority to determine the purposes to be served by legal representation, within the limits imposed by law and the lawyer's professional obligations. ~~Within those limits,~~

~~a client also has a right to consult with the lawyer. The decisions specified in paragraph (a), such as whether to settle a civil matter, must also be made by the client. See Rule 1.4(a)(1) for the lawyer's duty to communicate with the client about such decisions. With respect to the means by which the client's objectives are to be pursued, the lawyer shall consult with the client as required by Rule 1.4(a)(2) and may take such action as is impliedly authorized to carry out the representation.~~

~~[2] On occasion, however, a lawyer and a client may disagree about the means to be used in pursuing those objectives. At the same time, a lawyer is not required to pursue objectives or employ means simply because a client may wish that the lawyer do so. A clear distinction between objectives and means sometimes cannot be drawn, and in many cases the client-lawyer relationship partakes of a joint undertaking. In questions of means, the lawyer should assume responsibility for technical and legal tactical issues but should to accomplish the client's objectives. Clients normally defer to the special knowledge and skill of their lawyer with respect to the means to be used to accomplish their objectives, particularly with respect to technical, legal and tactical matters. Conversely, lawyers usually defer to the client regarding such questions as the expense to be incurred and concern for third persons who might be adversely affected. Law defining the lawyer's scope of authority in litigation varies among jurisdictions. Because of the varied nature of the matters about which a lawyer and client might disagree and because the actions in question may implicate the interests of a tribunal or other persons, this Rule does not prescribe how such disagreements are to be resolved. Other law, however, may be applicable and should be consulted by the lawyer. The lawyer should also consult with the client and seek a mutually acceptable resolution of the disagreement. If such efforts are unavailing and the lawyer has a fundamental disagreement with the client, the lawyer may withdraw from the representation. See Rule 1.16(b)(4). Conversely, the client may resolve the disagreement by discharging the lawyer. See Rule 1.16(a)(3).~~

~~Services Limited in Objectives or Means~~

~~[3] At the outset of a representation, the client may authorize the lawyer to take specific action on the client's behalf without further consultation. Absent a material~~ change in circumstances and subject to Rule 1.4, a lawyer may rely on such an advance authorization. The client may, however, revoke such authority at any time.

[4] In a case in which the client appears to be suffering diminished capacity, the lawyer's duty to abide by the client's decisions is to be guided by reference to Rule 1.14.

Independence from Client's Views or Activities

[5] Legal representation should not be denied to people who are unable to afford legal services or whose cause is controversial or the subject of popular disapproval. By the same token, representing a client does not constitute approval of the client's views or activities.

Agreements Limiting Scope of Representation

[6] ~~The objectives or scope of services~~ The scope of services to be provided by a lawyer may be limited by agreement with the client or by the terms under which the lawyer's services are made available to the client. ~~For example, a retainer may be for a specifically defined purpose. Representation provided through a legal aid agency may be subject to limitations on the types of cases the agency handles.~~ When a lawyer has been retained by an insurer to represent an insured, for example, the representation may be limited to matters related to the insurance coverage. TheA limited representation may be appropriate because the client has limited objectives for the representation. In addition, the terms upon which representation is undertaken may exclude specific ~~objectives or means~~ means that might otherwise be used to accomplish the client's objectives. Such limitations may exclude ~~objectives or means~~ actions that the client thinks are too costly or that the lawyer regards as repugnant or imprudent.

[7] Although this Rule affords the lawyer and client substantial latitude to limit the representation, the limitation must be reasonable under the circumstances. If, for example, a client's objective is limited to securing general information about the law the client needs in order to handle a common and typically uncomplicated legal problem, the lawyer and client may agree that the lawyer's services will be limited to a brief telephone consultation. Such a limitation, however, would not be reasonable if the time allotted were not sufficient to yield advice upon which the client could rely. Although an agreement for a limited representation does not exempt a lawyer from the duty to provide competent representation, the limitation is a factor to be considered when determining the legal knowledge, skill, thoroughness and preparation reasonably necessary for the representation. See Rule 1.1.

[8] All agreements concerning a lawyer's representation of a client ~~An agreement concerning the scope of representation~~ must accord with the Rules of Professional Conduct and other law. ~~Thus, the client may not be asked to agree to representation so limited in scope as to violate Rule 1.1 or to surrender the right to terminate the lawyer's services or the right to settle litigation that the lawyer might wish to continue. See, e.g., Rules 1.1, 1.8 and 5.6.~~

Criminal, Fraudulent and Prohibited Transactions

~~A lawyer is required to give~~ [9] Paragraph (d) prohibits a lawyer from knowingly counseling or assisting a client to commit a crime or fraud. This prohibition, however, does not preclude the lawyer from giving an honest opinion about the actual consequences that appear likely to result from a client's conduct. ~~The~~ Nor does the fact that a client uses advice in a course of action that is criminal or fraudulent ~~does not, of itself, make a lawyer a party to the course of action. However, a lawyer may not knowingly assist a client in criminal or fraudulent conduct.~~ There is a critical distinction between presenting an analysis of legal aspects of questionable conduct and recommending the means by which a crime or fraud might be committed with impunity.

[10] When the client's course of action has already begun and is continuing, the lawyer's responsibility is especially delicate. The ~~lawyer is not permitted to reveal the client's wrongdoing, except where permitted by Rule 1.6. However, the~~ lawyer is required to avoid ~~furthering the purpose, for example, by suggesting how it~~ assisting the client, for example, by drafting or delivering documents that the lawyer knows are fraudulent or by suggesting how the wrongdoing might be concealed. A lawyer may not continue assisting a client in conduct that the lawyer originally ~~supposes is supposed~~ was legally proper but then discovers is criminal or fraudulent. ~~Withdrawal~~ The lawyer must, therefore, withdraw from the representation, ~~therefore, may be required, of the client in the matter. See Rule 1.16(a). In some cases, withdrawal alone might be insufficient. It may be necessary for the lawyer to give notice of the fact of withdrawal and to disaffirm any opinion, document, affirmation or the like. See Rule 4.1.~~

123 [11] Where the client is a fiduciary, the lawyer may be charged with special 124 obligations in dealings with ~~the~~a beneficiary.

125 [12] Paragraph ~~(e)~~(d) applies whether or not the defrauded party is a party to the 126 transaction. Hence, a lawyer ~~should~~must not participate in ~~a sham transaction, for~~ 127 ~~example,~~ a transaction to effectuate criminal or fraudulent ~~escape~~avoidance of tax
128 liability. Paragraph ~~(e)~~(d) does not preclude undertaking a criminal defense incident to a 129 general retainer for legal ~~service~~services to a lawful enterprise. The last clause of 130 paragraph ~~(e)~~(d) recognizes that determining the validity or interpretation of a statute or 131 regulation may require a course of action involving disobedience of the statute or 132 regulation or of the interpretation placed upon it by governmental authorities.

133 [13] If a lawyer comes to know or reasonably should know that a client expects 134 assistance not permitted by the Rules of Professional Conduct or other law or if the 135 lawyer intends to act contrary to the client's instructions, the lawyer must consult with 136 the client regarding the limitations on the lawyer's conduct. See Rule 1.4(a)(5).

137 [14] Lawyers are encouraged to advise their clients that their representations are 138 guided by the Utah Standards of Professionalism and Civility and to provide a copy to 139 their clients.

Rule 1.3. Diligence.

A lawyer shall act with reasonable diligence and promptness in representing a client.

Comment

[1] A lawyer should pursue a matter on behalf of a client despite opposition, obstruction or personal inconvenience to the lawyer and ~~may~~ take whatever lawful and ethical measures are required to vindicate a client's cause or endeavor. A lawyer ~~should~~ must act with commitment and dedication to the interests of the client and with zeal in advocacy upon the client's behalf. ~~However, a~~ lawyer is not bound, however, to press for every advantage that might be realized for a client. For example, A lawyer has may have authority to exercise professional discretion in determining the means by which a matter should be pursued. See Rule 1.2. ~~A~~ The lawyer's duty to act with reasonable diligence does not require the use of offensive tactics or preclude the treating of all persons involved in the legal process with courtesy and respect.

[2] A lawyer's work load ~~should~~ must be controlled so that each matter can be handled ~~adequately~~ competently.

[3] ~~Clients resent Perhaps no~~ professional ~~procrastination~~ shortcoming is more widely resented than procrastination. A client's interests often can be adversely affected by the passage of time or the change of conditions; in extreme instances, as when a lawyer overlooks a statute of limitations, the client's legal position may be destroyed. Even when the client's interests are not affected in substance, however, unreasonable delay can cause a client needless anxiety and undermine confidence in the lawyer's trustworthiness. A lawyer's duty to act with reasonable promptness, however, does not preclude the lawyer from agreeing to a reasonable request for a postponement that will not prejudice the lawyer's client.

[4] Unless the relationship is terminated as provided in Rule ~~1.14~~ 1.16, a lawyer should carry through to conclusion all matters undertaken for a client. If a lawyer's employment is limited to a specific matter, the relationship terminates when the matter has been resolved. If a lawyer has served a client over a substantial period in a variety of matters, the client sometimes may assume that the lawyer will continue to serve on a continuing basis unless the lawyer gives notice of withdrawal. Doubt about whether a client-lawyer relationship still exists should be clarified by the lawyer, preferably in

32 writing, so that the client will not mistakenly suppose the lawyer is looking after the 33 client's affairs when the lawyer has ceased to do so. For example, if a lawyer has 34 handled a judicial or administrative proceeding that produced a result adverse to the 35 client and the lawyer and the client have not agreed that the lawyer will handle the 36 matter on~~but has not been specifically instructed concerning pursuit of an~~ appeal, the 37 lawyer ~~should advise~~ must consult with the client about ~~of~~ the possibility of appeal 38 before relinquishing responsibility for the matter. See Rule 1.4(a)(2). Whether the 39 lawyer is obligated to prosecute the appeal for the client depends on the scope of the 40 representation the lawyer has agreed to provide to the client. See Rule 1.2.

41 [5] To prevent neglect of client matters in the event of a sole practitioner's death or 42 disability, the duty of diligence may require that each sole practitioner prepare a plan, in 43 conformity with applicable rules, that designates another competent lawyer to review 44 client files, notify each client of the lawyer's death or disability, and determine whether 45 there is a need for immediate protective action. Cf. Rule 27 of the Utah Rules for 46 Lawyer Discipline and Disability (providing for court appointment of a lawyer to inventory 47 files and take other protective action in absence of a plan providing for another lawyer to 48 protect the interests of the clients of a deceased or disabled lawyer).

Rule 1.4. Communication.

(a) A lawyer shall:

(a)(1) promptly inform the client of any decision or circumstance with respect to which the client's informed consent, as defined in Rule 1.0(e), is required by these Rules;

(a)(2) reasonably consult with the client about the means by which the client's objectives are to be accomplished;

(a)(3) keep a-the client reasonably informed about the status of a-the matter; and

(a)(4) promptly comply with reasonable requests for information; and-

(a)(5) consult with the client about any relevant limitation on the lawyer's conduct when the lawyer knows that the client expects assistance not permitted by the Rules of Professional Conduct or other law.

(b) A lawyer shall explain a matter to the extent reasonably necessary to enable permit the client to make informed decisions regarding the representation.

Comment

[1] Reasonable communication between the lawyer and the client is necessary for the client effectively to participate in the representation.

Communicating with Client

[2] If these Rules require that a particular decision about the representation be made by the client, paragraph (a)(1) requires that the lawyer promptly consult with and secure the client's consent prior to taking action unless prior discussions with the client have resolved what action the client wants the lawyer to take. The client should have sufficient information to participate intelligently in decisions concerning the objectives of the representation and the means by which they are to be pursued, to the extent the client is willing and able to do so. For example, a lawyer negotiating on behalf of a client should provide the client with facts relevant to the matter, inform the client of communications from another party and take other reasonable steps that permit the client to make a decision regarding a serious offer from another party. A lawyer who receives from opposing counsel an offer of settlement in a civil controversy or a proffered plea bargain in a criminal case shall-must promptly inform the client of its substance unless prior discussions with the client have left it clear- the client has previously indicated that the proposal will be ~~unacceptable~~. ~~See Rule 1.2(a). Even when~~

~~a client delegates authority to the lawyer, the client should be kept advised of~~ ~~acceptable or unacceptable or has authorized the lawyer to accept or to reject the offer.~~
See Rule 1.2(a).

[3] Paragraph (a)(2) requires the lawyer to reasonably consult with the client about the means to be used to accomplish the client's objectives. In some situations — depending on both the importance of the action under consideration and the feasibility of consulting with the client — this duty will require consultation prior to taking action. In other circumstances, such as during a trial when an immediate decision must be made, the exigency of the situation may require the lawyer to act without prior consultation. In such cases the lawyer must nonetheless act reasonably to inform the client of actions the lawyer has taken on the client's behalf. Additionally, paragraph (a)(3) requires that the lawyer keep the client reasonably informed about the status of the matter, such as significant developments affecting the timing or the substance of the representation.

[4] A lawyer's regular communication with clients will minimize the occasions on which a client will need to request information concerning the representation. When a client makes a reasonable request for information, however, paragraph (a)(4) requires prompt compliance with the request, or if a prompt response is not feasible, that the lawyer, or a member of the lawyer's staff, acknowledge receipt of the request and advise the client when a response may be expected. Client telephone calls should be promptly returned or acknowledged.

Explaining Matters

[5] The client should have sufficient information to participate intelligently in decisions concerning the objectives of the representation and the means by which they are to be pursued, to the extent the client is willing and able to do so. Adequacy of communication depends in part on the kind of advice or assistance that is involved. For example, ~~in negotiations where when~~ there is time to explain a proposal made in a negotiation, the lawyer should review all important provisions with the client before proceeding to an agreement. In litigation, a lawyer should explain the general strategy and prospects of success and ordinarily should consult the client on tactics that ~~might~~ are likely to result in significant expense or to injure or coerce others. On the other hand, a lawyer ordinarily ~~cannot~~will not be expected to describe trial or negotiation strategy in detail. The guiding principle is that the lawyer should fulfill reasonable client expectations for information, ~~whether written or oral~~, consistent with the duty to act in the client's best ~~interest~~interests and the client's overall requirements as to the character of representation. In certain circumstances, such as when a lawyer asks a client to consent to a representation affected by a conflict of interest, the client must give informed consent, as defined in Rule 1.0(e).

[6] Ordinarily, the information to be provided is that appropriate for a client who is a comprehending and responsible adult. However, fully informing the client according to this standard may be impracticable, for example, where the client is a child or suffers from ~~mental disability~~diminished capacity. See Rule 1.14. When the client is an organization or group, it is often impossible or inappropriate to inform every one of its members about its legal affairs; ordinarily, the lawyer should address communications to the appropriate officials of the organization. See Rule 1.13. Where many routine matters are involved, a system of limited or occasional reporting may be arranged with the client. ~~Practical exigency may also require a lawyer to act for a client without prior consultation.~~

Withholding Information

[7] In some circumstances, a lawyer may be justified in delaying transmission of information when the client would be likely to react imprudently to an immediate communication. Thus, a lawyer might withhold a psychiatric diagnosis of a client when the examining psychiatrist indicates that disclosure would harm the client. A lawyer may not withhold information to serve the lawyer's own interest or convenience or the interests or convenience of another person. Rules or court orders governing litigation may provide that information supplied to a lawyer may not be disclosed to the client. Rule 3.4(c) directs compliance with such rules or orders.

Rule 1.5. Fees.

(a) A lawyer shall not ~~enter into~~ make an agreement for, charge or collect an ~~illegal or clearly excessive fee. A fee is clearly excessive when, after a review of the facts, a lawyer of ordinary prudence would be left with a definite and firm conviction that the fee is in excess of a reasonable fee~~ unreasonable fee or an unreasonable amount for expenses. ~~Factors—~~ The factors to be considered ~~as guides~~ in determining the reasonableness of a fee include the following:

(a)(1) ~~T~~he time and labor required, the novelty and difficulty of the questions involved and the skill requisite to perform the legal service properly;

(a)(2) ~~T~~he likelihood, if apparent to the client, that the acceptance of the particular employment will preclude other employment by the lawyer;

(a)(3) ~~T~~he fee customarily charged in the locality for similar legal services;

(a)(4) ~~T~~he amount involved and the results obtained;

(a)(5) ~~T~~he time limitations imposed by the client or by the circumstances;

(a)(6) ~~T~~he nature and length of the professional relationship with the client;

(a)(7) ~~T~~he experience, reputation and ability of the lawyer or lawyers performing the services; and

(a)(8) ~~W~~hether the fee is fixed or contingent.

(b) ~~When the lawyer has not regularly represented the client, and it is reasonably foreseeable that total attorneys fees to the client will exceed $750.00, The scope of the representation and~~ the basis or rate of the fee ~~and expenses for which the client will be responsible~~ shall be communicated to the client, preferably in writing, before or within a reasonable time after commencing the representation, except when the lawyer will charge a regularly represented client on the same basis or rate. Any changes in the basis or rate of the fee or expenses shall also be communicated to the client.

(c) A fee may be contingent on the outcome of the matter for which the service is rendered, except in a matter in which a contingent fee is prohibited by paragraph (d) or other law. A contingent fee agreement shall be in a writing signed by the client and shall state the method by which the fee is to be determined, including the percentage or percentages that shall accrue to the lawyer in the event of settlement, trial or appeal; litigation and other expenses to be deducted from the recovery; and whether such expenses are to be deducted before or after the contingent fee is calculated. The agreement must clearly notify the client of any expenses for which the client will be liable whether or not the client is the prevailing party. Upon conclusion of a contingent fee matter, the lawyer shall provide the client with a written statement stating the outcome of the matter and, if there is a recovery, showing the remittance to the client and the method of its determination.

(d) A lawyer shall not enter into an arrangement for, charge or collect:

(d)(1) A any fee in a domestic relations matter, the payment or amount of which is contingent upon the securing of a divorce or upon the amount of alimony or support, or property settlement in lieu thereof; or (d)(2) A a contingent fee for representing a defendant in a criminal case.

(e) A division of a fee between lawyers who are not in the same firm may be made only if:

(e)(1) The division is in proportion to the services performed by each lawyer or, ~~by written agreement with the client,~~ each lawyer assumes joint responsibility for the representation;

(e)(2) The client is advised of and does not object to the participation of all lawyers involved; and the client agrees to the arrangement, including the share each lawyer will receive, and the agreement is confirmed in writing; and

(e)(3) The total fee is reasonable.

Comment

Reasonableness of Fee and Expenses

[1] Paragraph (a) requires that lawyers charge fees that are reasonable under the circumstances. The factors specified in (a)(1) through (a)(8) are not exclusive. Nor will each factor be relevant in each instance. Paragraph (a) also requires that expenses for which the client will be charged must be reasonable. A lawyer may seek reimbursement for the cost of services performed in-house, such as copying, or for other expenses incurred in-house, such as telephone charges, either by charging a reasonable amount to which the client has agreed in advance or by charging an amount that reasonably reflects the cost incurred by the lawyer.

Basis or Rate of Fee

[2] When the lawyer has regularly represented a client, they ordinarily will have evolved an understanding concerning the basis or rate of the fee and the expenses for which the client will be responsible. In a new client-lawyer relationship, however, an understanding as to ~~the fee should~~ fees and expenses must be promptly established ~~in writing, where it is reasonably foreseeable that the fees will exceed $750.00. It is not necessary to recite all the factors that underlie the basis of the fee, but only those that are directly involved in its computation. It is sufficient, for example, to state that the basic rate is an hourly charge or a fixed amount or an estimated amount or to identify the factors that may be taken into account in finally fixing the fee. When developments occur during the representation that render an earlier estimate substantially inaccurate, a revised estimate should be provided to the client. Generally, it is desirable to furnish the client with at least a simple memorandum or copy of the lawyer's customary fee arrangements that states the general nature of the legal services to be provided, the basis, rate or total amount of the fee and whether and to what extent the client will be responsible for any costs, expenses or disbursements in the course of the representation.~~ A written statement concerning the fee terms of the engagement reduces the possibility of misunderstanding. ~~Furnishing the client with a simple memorandum or a copy of the lawyer's customary fee schedule is sufficient if the basis or rate of the fee is set forth.~~

[3] Contingent fees, like any other fees, are subject to the reasonableness standard of paragraph (a) of this Rule. In determining whether a particular contingent fee is reasonable, or whether it is reasonable to charge any form of contingent fee, a lawyer must consider the factors that are relevant under the circumstances. Applicable law may impose limitations on contingent fees, such as a ceiling on the percentage allowable, or may require a lawyer to offer clients an alternative basis for the fee. Applicable law also may apply to situations other than a contingent fee, for example, government regulations regarding fees in certain tax matters.

Terms of Payment

[4] A lawyer may require advance payment of a fee but is obligated to return any unearned portion. See Rule ~~1.14(d)~~ 1.16(d). A lawyer may accept property in payment for services, such as an ownership interest in an enterprise, providing this does not involve acquisition of a proprietary interest in the cause of action or subject matter of the litigation contrary to Rule 1.8~~(f)~~(i). However, a fee paid in property instead of money may be subject to ~~special scrutiny because it involves questions concerning both the value of the services and the lawyer's special knowledge of the value of the property. the requirements of Rule 1.8(a) because such fees often have the essential qualities of a business transaction with the client.~~

[5] An agreement may not be made whose terms might induce the lawyer improperly to curtail services for the client or perform them in ~~any~~ way contrary to the client's interest. For example, a lawyer should not enter into an agreement whereby services are to be provided only up to a stated amount when it is foreseeable that more extensive services probably will be required, unless the situation is adequately explained to the client. Otherwise, the client might have to bargain for further assistance in the midst of a proceeding or transaction. However, it is proper to define the extent of services in light of the client's ability to pay. A lawyer should not exploit a fee arrangement based primarily on hourly charges by using wasteful procedures. ~~When there is doubt whether a contingent fee is consistent with the client's best interest, the lawyer should offer the client alternative bases for the fee and explain their implications. Applicable law may impose limitations on contingent fees, such as a ceiling on the percentage.~~

Prohibited Contingent Fees Division of Fee

[6] Paragraph (d) prohibits a lawyer from charging a contingent fee in a domestic relations matter when payment is contingent upon the securing of a divorce or upon the amount of alimony or support or property settlement to be obtained. This provision does not preclude a contract for a contingent fee for legal representation in connection with the recovery of post-judgment balances due under support, alimony or other financial orders because such contracts do not implicate the same policy concerns.

Division of Fees

[7] A division of fee is a single billing to a client covering the fee of two or more lawyers who are not in the same firm. A division of fee facilitates association of more than one lawyer in a matter in which neither alone could serve the client as well, and most often is used when the fee is contingent and the division is between a referring lawyer and a trial specialist. Paragraph (e) permits the lawyers to divide a fee either on the basis of the proportion of services they render or ~~by agreement between the participating lawyers if all assume if each lawyer assumes~~ responsibility for the representation as a whole, ~~and the client is advised and does not object. It does not require disclosure to the client of~~ In addition, the client must agree to the arrangement, including the share that each lawyer is to receive, and the agreement must be confirmed in writing. Contingent fee agreements must be in a writing signed by the client and must otherwise comply with paragraph (c) of this Rule. Joint responsibility for the representation entails ~~the obligations stated in Rule 5.1 for purposes of the matter involved. Rule 1.5(e) is not intended to prevent the sale of a law practice (including goodwill) if the sale otherwise complies with the Rules of Professional Conduct. financial and ethical responsibility for the representation as if the lawyers were associated in a partnership. A lawyer should only refer a matter to a lawyer whom the referring lawyer reasonably believes is competent to handle the matter. See Rule 1.1.~~

[8] Paragraph (e) does not prohibit or regulate division of fees to be received in the future for work done when lawyers were previously associated in a law firm.

Disputes over Fees

[9] If a procedure has been established for resolution of fee disputes, such as an arbitration or mediation procedure established by the ~~Bar~~ Bar, the lawyer must comply with the procedure when it is mandatory, and, even when it is voluntary, the lawyer should conscientiously consider submitting to it. Law may prescribe a procedure for determining a lawyer's fee, for example, in representation of an executor or administrator, a class or a person entitled to a reasonable fee, as part of the measure of damages. The lawyer entitled to such a fee and a lawyer representing another party concerned with the fee should comply with the prescribed procedure.

1 Rule 1.6. Confidentiality of Information.

2 (a) A lawyer shall not reveal information relating to the representation of a client
3 ~~except as stated in paragraph (b), unless the client consents after consultation~~ unless 4 the client gives informed consent, the disclosure is impliedly authorized in order to carry 5 out the representation or the disclosure is permitted by paragraph (b).

6 (b) A lawyer may reveal ~~such~~ information relating to the representation of a client to 7 the extent the lawyer reasonably believes necessary:

8 ~~(b)(1) To prevent the client from committing a criminal or fraudulent act that the~~ 9 ~~lawyer believes is likely to result in~~ to prevent reasonably certain death or substantial
10 bodily harm, ~~or substantial injury to the financial interest or property of another;~~

11 ~~(b)(2) to prevent the client from committing a crime or fraud that is reasonably~~ 12 ~~certain to result in substantial injury to the financial interest or property of another and in~~
13 ~~furtherance of which the client has used the lawyer's services;~~

14 ~~(b)(3) To to prevent, mitigate or rectify the consequences of a client's criminal or~~ 15 ~~fraudulent act in the commission of which the lawyer's services had been used~~
16 ~~substantial injury to the financial interests or property of another that is reasonably~~ 17 ~~certain to result or has resulted from the client's commission of a crime or fraud and in~~
18 ~~furtherance of which the client has used the lawyer's services;~~

19 ~~(b)(3)-(4) to secure legal advice about the lawyer's compliance with these Rules;~~

20 ~~(b)(5) To to~~ establish a claim or defense on behalf of the lawyer in a controversy 21 between the lawyer and the client ~~or~~, to establish a defense to a criminal charge or civil 22 claim against the lawyer based upon conduct in which the client was involved, or to 23 respond to allegations in any proceeding concerning the lawyer's representation of the 24 client; or

25 ~~(b)(6)(4) To to~~ comply with other the Rules of Professional Conduct or other law 26 or a court order.

27 (c) For purposes of this rule, Representation of a client includes counseling a 28 lawyer~~(s)~~ about the need for or availability of treatment for substance abuse or 29 psychological or emotional problems by members of the Utah State Bar serving on an 30 Utah State Bar endorsed lawyer assistance program ~~the Lawyers Helping Lawyers~~
31 Committee.

Comment

[1] A fundamental principle in the client-lawyer relationship is that the lawyer maintain confidentiality. This Rule governs the disclosure by a lawyer of information relating to the representation of a client during the lawyer's representation of the client. See Rule 1.18 for the lawyer's duties with respect to information provided to the lawyer by a prospective client, Rule 1.9(c)(2) for the lawyer's duty not to reveal information relating to the lawyer's prior representation of a former client and Rules 1.8(b) and 1.9(c)(1) for the lawyer's duties with respect to the use of such information to the disadvantage of clients and former clients.

[2] A fundamental principle in the client-lawyer relationship is that, in the absence of the client's informed consent, the lawyer must not reveal information relating to the representation. See Rule 1.0(e) for the definition of informed consent. This contributes to the trust that is the hallmark of the client-lawyer relationship. The client is thereby encouraged to seek legal assistance and to communicate fully and frankly with the lawyer even as to embarrassing or legally damaging subject matter. The lawyer needs this information to represent the client effectively and, if necessary, to advise the client to refrain from wrongful conduct. Almost without exception, clients come to lawyers in order to determine their rights and what is, in the complex of laws and regulations, deemed to be legal and correct. Based upon experience, lawyers know that almost all clients follow the advice given, and the law is upheld.

[3] The principle of client-lawyer confidentiality is given effect in two by related bodies of law: the attorney-client privilege in the law of evidence, the work-product doctrine and the rule of confidentiality established in professional ethics. The attorney-client privilege applies and work-product doctrine apply in judicial and other proceedings in which a lawyer may be called as a witness or otherwise required to produce evidence concerning a client. The rule of client-lawyer confidentiality applies in situations other than those where evidence is sought from the lawyer through compulsion of law. The confidentiality rule, for example, applies not merely only to matters communicated in confidence by the client but also to all information relating to the representation, whatever its source. A lawyer may not disclose such information except as authorized or required by the Rules of Professional Conduct or other law. See also Scope.

[4] Paragraph (a) prohibits a lawyer from revealing information relating to the representation of a client. This prohibition also applies to disclosures by a lawyer that do not in themselves reveal protected information but could reasonably lead to the discovery of such information by a third person. A lawyer's use of a hypothetical to discuss issues relating to the representation is permissible so long as there is no reasonable likelihood that the listener will be able to ascertain the identity of the client or the situation involved.

Authorized Disclosure

~~[5] A lawyer may disclose information~~ Except to the extent that the client's instructions or special circumstances limit that authority, a lawyer is impliedly authorized to make disclosures about a client when ~~necessary in the proper representation of the client. In litigation appropriate in carrying out the representation.~~ In some situations, for example, a lawyer may ~~disclose information by admitting~~ be impliedly authorized to admit a fact that cannot properly be disputed, ~~or in negotiation by making~~ or to make a disclosure that facilitates a satisfactory conclusion to the matter. Lawyers in a firm may, in the course of the firm's practice, disclose to each other information relating to a client of the firm, unless the client has instructed that particular information be confined to specified lawyers.

Disclosure Adverse to Client

~~The confidentiality rule is subject to limited exceptions. In becoming privy to information about a client, a lawyer may foresee that the client intends serious and perhaps irreparable harm to another person. To the extent a lawyer is prohibited from making disclosure, the interests of the potential victim are sacrificed in favor of preserving the client's confidences even though the client's purpose is wrongful. To the extent a lawyer is required or permitted to disclose a client's purposes, the client may be inhibited from revealing facts which would enable the lawyer to counsel against a wrongful course of action. A rule governing disclosure of threatened harm thus involves balancing the interests of one group of potential victims against those of another. On the assumption that lawyers generally fulfill their duty to advise against the commission of deliberately wrongful acts, the public is better protected if full disclosure by the client is encouraged than if it is inhibited.~~

94 ~~Generally speaking, information relating to the representation must be kept~~
95 ~~confidential, as stated in paragraph (a). However, where the client is or has been~~ 96 ~~engaged in criminal or fraudulent conduct or the integrity of the lawyer's own conduct is~~
97 ~~involved, the principle of confidentiality may have to yield, depending on the lawyer's~~
98 ~~knowledge about and relationship to the conduct in question and the seriousness of that~~
99 ~~conduct. Several situations must be distinguished.~~

100 ~~First, the lawyer may not counsel or assist a client in conduct that is criminal or~~ 101 ~~fraudulent. See Rule 1.2(d). As noted in the Comment to that Rule, there can be~~ 102 ~~situations where the lawyer may have to reveal information relating to the~~ 103 ~~representation in order to avoid assisting a client's criminal or fraudulent conduct.~~
104 ~~Paragraph 1.6(b)(4) permits doing so. Similarly, a lawyer has a duty under Rule~~
105 ~~3.3(a)(4) not to use false or fabricated evidence. This duty is essentially a special~~
106 ~~instance of the duty prescribed in Rule 1.2(d) to avoid assisting a client in criminal or~~
107 ~~fraudulent conduct. Rule 1.6(b)(4) permits revealing information to the extent necessary~~
108 ~~to comply with Rule 3.3(a). The same is true of compliance with Rule 4.1 concerning~~
109 ~~truthfulness of a lawyer's own representations.~~

110 ~~Second, the lawyer may have been innocently involved in past conduct by the client~~
111 ~~that was criminal or fraudulent. In such a situation, the lawyer has not violated Rule~~
112 ~~1.2(d), because to "counsel or assist" criminal or fraudulent conduct requires knowing~~
113 ~~that the conduct is of that character. Even if the involvement was innocent, however, the~~ 114 ~~fact remains that the lawyer's professional services were made the instrument of the~~ 115 ~~client's crime or fraud. The lawyer, therefore, has a legitimate interest in being able to~~
116 ~~rectify the consequences of such conduct and has the professional right, although not a~~
117 ~~professional duty, to rectify the situation. Exercising that right may require revealing~~
118 ~~information relating to the representation. Paragraph (b)(2) gives the lawyer~~
119 ~~professional discretion to reveal such information to the extent necessary to accomplish~~
120 ~~rectification.~~

121 ~~Third, the lawyer may learn that a client intends prospective conduct that is criminal~~ 122 ~~or fraudulent. Inaction by the lawyer is not a violation of Rule 1.2(d), except in the~~ 123 ~~limited circumstances where failure to act constitutes assisting the client. See Comment~~
124 ~~to Rule 1.2(d). However, the lawyer's knowledge of the client's purpose may enable the~~ lawyer to prevent commission of the prospective crime or fraud. If the prospective crime or fraud is likely to result in substantial injury, the lawyer may feel a moral obligation to take preventive action. When the threatened injury is grave, such as homicide or serious bodily injury, the lawyer may have an obligation under tort or criminal law to take reasonable preventive measures. Whether the lawyer's concern is based on moral or legal considerations, the interest in preventing the harm may be more compelling than the interest in preserving confidentiality of information relating to the client. As stated in paragraph (b)(1), the lawyer has professional discretion to reveal information in order to prevent substantial harm likely to result from a client's criminal or fraudulent act.

It is arguable that the lawyer should have a professional obligation to make a disclosure in order to prevent homicide or serious bodily injury which the lawyer knows is intended by a client. However, it is very difficult for a lawyer to "know" when such a heinous purpose will actually be carried out, for the client may have a change of mind. To require disclosure when the client intends such an act, at risk of disciplinary liability if the assessment of the client's purpose turns out to be wrong, would be to impose a penal risk that might interfere with the lawyer's resolution of an inherently difficult moral dilemma.

The lawyer's exercise of discretion requires consideration of such factors as the magnitude, proximity and likelihood of the contemplated wrong, the nature of the lawyer's relationship with the client and with those who might be injured by the client, the lawyer's own involvement in the transaction and factors that may extenuate the conduct in question. In any case, a disclosure adverse to the client's interest should be no greater than the lawyer believes necessary to the purpose. A lawyer's decision not to take preventive action permitted by paragraph (b)(1) does not violate this Rule. The term "another" in paragraph (b)(1) includes a person, organization and government.

Paragraph (b)(2) does not apply where a lawyer is employed after a crime of fraud has been committed to represent the client in matters ensuing therefrom.

Dispute Concerning Lawyer's Conduct

If the lawyer is charged with wrongdoing in which the client's conduct is implicated, the rule of confidentiality should not prevent the lawyer from defending himself.

[6] Although the public interest is usually best served by a strict rule requiring lawyers to preserve the confidentiality of information relating to the representation of their clients, the confidentiality rule is subject to limited exceptions. Paragraph (b)(1) recognizes the overriding value of life and physical integrity and permits disclosure reasonably necessary to prevent reasonably certain death or substantial bodily harm. Such harm is reasonably certain to occur if it will be suffered imminently or if there is a present and substantial threat that a person will suffer such harm at a later date if the lawyer fails to take action necessary to eliminate the threat. Thus, a lawyer who knows that a client has accidentally discharged toxic waste into a town's water supply may reveal this information to the authorities if there is a present and substantial risk that a person who drinks the water will contract a life-threatening or debilitating disease and the lawyer's disclosure is necessary to eliminate the threat or reduce the number of victims.

[7] Paragraph (b)(2) is a limited exception to the rule of confidentiality that permits the lawyer to reveal information to the extent necessary to enable affected persons or appropriate authorities to prevent the client from committing a crime or fraud, as defined in Rule 1.0(d), that is reasonably certain to result in substantial injury to the financial or property interests of another and in furtherance of which the client has used or is using the lawyer's services. The client can, of course, prevent such disclosure by refraining from the wrongful conduct. Although paragraph (b)(2) does not require the lawyer to reveal the client's misconduct, the lawyer may not counsel or assist the client in conduct the lawyer knows is criminal or fraudulent. See Rule 1.2(d). See also Rule 1.16 with respect to the lawyer's obligation or right to withdraw from the representation of the client in such circumstances, and Rule 1.13(c) which permits the lawyer, where the client is an organization, to reveal information relating to the representation in limited circumstances.

[8] Paragraph (b)(3) addresses the situation in which the lawyer does not learn of the client's crime or fraud until after it has been consummated. Although the client no longer has the option of preventing disclosure by refraining from the wrongful conduct, there will be situations in which the loss suffered by the affected person can be prevented, rectified or mitigated. In such situations, the lawyer may disclose information relating to the representation to the extent necessary to enable the affected persons to prevent or mitigate reasonably certain losses or to attempt to recoup their losses. Paragraph (b)(3) does not apply when a person who has committed a crime or fraud thereafter employs a lawyer for representation concerning that offense.

[9] A lawyer's confidentiality obligations do not preclude a lawyer from securing confidential legal advice about the lawyer's personal responsibility to comply with these Rules. In most situations, disclosing information to secure such advice will be impliedly authorized for the lawyer to carry out the representation. Even when the disclosure is not impliedly authorized, paragraph (b)(4) permits such disclosure because of the importance of a lawyer's compliance with the Rules of Professional Conduct.

[10] Where a legal claim or disciplinary charge alleges complicity of the lawyer in a client's conduct or other misconduct of the lawyer involving representation of the client, the lawyer may respond to the extent the lawyer reasonably believes necessary to establish a defense. The same is true with respect to a claim involving the conduct or representation of a former client. Such a charge can arise in a civil, criminal or professional, disciplinary or other proceeding and can be based on a wrong allegedly committed by the lawyer against the client or on a wrong alleged by a third person, for example, a person claiming to have been defrauded by the lawyer and client acting together. A lawyer entitled to a fee is not prevented by the rule of confidentiality from proving the services rendered in an action to collect it.

~~Disclosures Otherwise Required or Authorized~~

~~The attorney-client privilege is defined differently in various jurisdictions. If a lawyer is called as a witness to give testimony concerning a client, absent waiver by the client, Rule 1.6(a) requires the lawyer to invoke the privilege when it is applicable.~~

~~The Rules of Professional Conduct in various circumstances permit or require a lawyer to disclose information relating to the representation. See Rules 1.13, 2.2, 2.3, 3.3 and 4.1. In addition to these provisions, a lawyer may be obligated or permitted by other provisions of law to give information about a client. Whether another provision of law supersedes Rule 1.6 is a matter of interpretation beyond the scope of these Rules, but a presumption should exist against such a supersession.~~

~~Use of Information~~

~~A lawyer may not make use of information relating to the representation in a manner disadvantageous to the client. The duty of confidentiality continues after the client-lawyer relationship has terminated. See Rule 1.9.~~

The lawyer's right to respond arises when an assertion of such complicity has been made. Paragraph (b)(5) does not require the lawyer to await the commencement of an action or proceeding that charges such complicity, so that the defense may be established by responding directly to a third party who has made such an assertion. The right to defend also applies, of course, where a proceeding has been commenced.

[11] A lawyer entitled to a fee is permitted by paragraph (b)(5) to prove the services rendered in an action to collect it. This aspect of the rule expresses the principle that the beneficiary of a fiduciary relationship may not exploit it to the detriment of the fiduciary.

[12] Other law may require that a lawyer disclose information about a client. Whether such a law supersedes Rule 1.6 is a question of law beyond the scope of these Rules. When disclosure of information relating to the representation appears to be required by other law, the lawyer must discuss the matter with the client to the extent required by Rule 1.4. If, however, the other law supersedes this Rule and requires disclosure, paragraph (b)(6) permits the lawyer to make such disclosures as are necessary to comply with the law.

[13] A lawyer may be ordered to reveal information relating to the representation of a client by a court or by another tribunal or governmental entity claiming authority pursuant to other law to compel the disclosure. Absent informed consent of the client to do otherwise, the lawyer should assert on behalf of the client all nonfrivolous claims that the order is not authorized by other law or that the information sought is protected against disclosure by the attorney-client privilege or other applicable law. In the event of an adverse ruling, the lawyer must consult with the client about the possibility of appeal to the extent required by Rule 1.4. Unless review is sought, however, paragraph (b)(6) permits the lawyer to comply with the court's order.

[14] Paragraph (b) permits disclosure only to the extent the lawyer reasonably believes the disclosure is necessary to accomplish one of the purposes specified. Where practicable, the lawyer should first seek to persuade the client to take suitable action to obviate the need for disclosure. In any case, a disclosure adverse to the client's interest should be no greater than the lawyer reasonably believes necessary to accomplish the purpose. If the disclosure will be made in connection with a judicial proceeding, the disclosure should be made in a manner that limits access to the information to the tribunal or other persons having a need to know it and appropriate protective orders or other arrangements should be sought by the lawyer to the fullest extent practicable.

[15] Paragraph (b) permits but does not require the disclosure of information relating to a client's representation to accomplish the purposes specified in paragraphs (b)(1) through (b)(6). In exercising the discretion conferred by this Rule, the lawyer may consider such factors as the nature of the lawyer's relationship with the client and with those who might be injured by the client, the lawyer's own involvement in the transaction and factors that may extenuate the conduct in question. A lawyer's decision not to disclose as permitted by paragraph (b) does not violate this Rule. Disclosure may be required, however, by other rules. Some rules require disclosure only if such disclosure would be permitted by paragraph (b). See Rules 1.2(d), 4.1(b), 8.1 and 8.3. Rule 3.3, on the other hand, requires disclosure in some circumstances regardless of whether such disclosure is permitted by this Rule. See Rule 3.3(c).

Acting Competently to Preserve Confidentiality

[16] A lawyer must act competently to safeguard information relating to the representation of a client against inadvertent or unauthorized disclosure by the lawyer or other persons who are participating in the representation of the client or who are subject to the lawyer's supervision. See Rules 1.1, 5.1 and 5.3.

[17] When transmitting a communication that includes information relating to the representation of a client, the lawyer must take reasonable precautions to prevent the information from coming into the hands of unintended recipients. This duty, however, does not require that the lawyer use special security measures if the method of communication affords a reasonable expectation of privacy. Special circumstances, however, may warrant special precautions. Factors to be considered in determining the reasonableness of the lawyer's expectation of confidentiality include the sensitivity of the information and the extent to which the privacy of the communication is protected by law or by a confidentiality agreement. A client may require the lawyer to implement special security measures not required by this Rule or may give informed consent to the use of a means of communication that would otherwise be prohibited by this Rule.

Former Client

[18] The duty of confidentiality continues after the client-lawyer relationship has terminated. See Rule 1.9(c)(2). See Rule 1.9(c)(1) for the prohibition against using such information to the disadvantage of the former client.

[19] Paragraph (d) is an addition to ABA Model Rule 1.6 and provides for confidentiality of information between lawyers providing assistance to other lawyers under an Utah State Bar endorsed lawyer assistance program.

1 Rule 1.7. Conflict of interest: ~~general rule~~ Current Clients.

2 (a) Except as provided in paragraph (b), a lawyer shall not represent a client if the
3 representation involves a concurrent conflict of interest. A concurrent conflict of interest
4 exists if:

5 (a)(1) The representation of one client will be directly adverse to another client; or

6 (a)(2) There is a significant risk that the representation of one or more clients will be 7 materially limited by the lawyer's responsibilities to another client, a former client or a 8 third person or by a personal interest of the lawyer.

9 (b) Notwithstanding the existence of a concurrent conflict of interest under 10 paragraph (a), a lawyer may represent a client if:

11 (b)(1) the lawyer reasonably believes that the lawyer will be able to provide 12 competent and diligent representation to each affected client;

13 (b)(2) the representation is not prohibited by law;

14 (b)(3) the representation does not involve the assertion of a claim by one client
15 against another client represented by the lawyer in the same litigation or other 16 proceeding before a tribunal; and 17 (b)(4) each affected client gives informed consent, confirmed in writing.

18 Comment

19 General Principles

20 [1] Loyalty and independent judgment are essential elements in the lawyer's
21 relationship to a client. Concurrent conflicts of interest can arise from the lawyer's
22 responsibilities to another client, a former client or a third person or from the lawyer's 23 own interests. For specific rules regarding certain concurrent conflicts of interest, see 24 Rule 1.8. For former client conflicts of interest, see Rule 1.9. For conflicts of interest 25 involving prospective clients, see Rule 1.18. For definitions of "informed consent" and 26 "confirmed in writing," see Rules 1.0(e) and (b).

27 [2] Resolution of a conflict of interest problem under this Rule requires the lawyer
28 to: 1) clearly identify the client or clients; 2) determine whether a conflict of interest 29 exists; 3) decide whether the representation may be undertaken despite the existence 30 of a conflict, i.e., whether the conflict is consentable; and, 4) if so, consult with the 31 clients affected under paragraph (a)(1) and obtain their informed consent, confirmed in 32 writing. The clients affected under paragraph (a)(1) include both of the clients referred 33 to in paragraph (a)(1) and the one or more clients whose representation might be 34 materially limited under paragraph (a)(2).

35 [3] A conflict of interest may exist before representation is undertaken, in which 36 event the representation must be declined, unless the lawyer obtains the informed 37 consent of each client under the conditions of paragraph (b). To determine whether a 38 conflict of interest exists, a lawyer should adopt reasonable procedures, appropriate for 39 the size and type of firm and practice, to determine in both litigation and nonlitigation
40 matters the persons and issues involved. See also Comment to Rule 5.1. Ignorance 41 caused by a failure to institute such procedures will not excuse a lawyer's violation of 42 this Rule. As to whether a client-lawyer relationship exists or, having once been 43 established, is continuing, see Comment to Rule 1.3 and Scope.

44 [4] If a conflict arises after representation has been undertaken, the lawyer ordinarily 45 must withdraw from the representation, unless the lawyer has obtained the informed 46 consent of the client under the conditions of paragraph (b). See Rule 1.16. Where 47 more than one client is involved, whether the lawyer may continue to represent any of 48 the clients is determined both by the lawyer's ability to comply with duties owed to the 49 former client and by the lawyer's ability to represent adequately the remaining client or 50 clients, given the lawyer's duties to the former client. See Rule 1.9. See also 51 Comments [5] and [29].

52 [4a] To eliminate confusion, former Rule 2.2 "Intermediary" has been deleted
53 entirely. The term "intermediation" is changed in Rule 1.7 to "common representation".
54 Comment [4] sets out the analysis that a lawyer should make in order to determine 55 when common representation is improper. The comments to Rule 1.7 specifically 56 instruct lawyers on what informed consent means in the situations.

57 [5] Unforeseeable developments, such as changes in corporate and other 58 organizational affiliations or the addition or realignment of parties in litigation, might 59 create conflicts in the midst of a representation, as when a company sued by the lawyer 60 on behalf of one client is bought by another client represented by the lawyer in an 61 unrelated matter. Depending on the circumstances, the lawyer may have the option to 62 withdraw from one of the representations in order to avoid the conflict. The lawyer must seek court approval where necessary and take steps to minimize harm to the clients. See Rule 1.16. The lawyer must continue to protect the confidences of the client from whose representation the lawyer has withdrawn. See Rule 1.9(c).

Identifying Conflicts of Interest: Directly Adverse

[6] Loyalty to a current ~~As a general proposition, loyalty to a client~~ prohibits undertaking representation directly adverse to that client without ~~the client's consent~~. Paragraph (1) expresses that general rule. Thus, ~~a lawyer ordinarily may not act as advocate that client's informed consent. Thus, absent consent, a lawyer may not act as an advocate in one matter~~ against a person the lawyer represents in some other matter, even ~~if it is wholly unrelated~~ when the matters are wholly unrelated. The client as to whom the representation is directly adverse is likely to feel betrayed, and the resulting damage to the client-lawyer relationship is likely to impair the lawyer's ability to represent the client effectively. In addition, the client on whose behalf the adverse representation is undertaken reasonably may fear that the lawyer will pursue that client's case less effectively out of deference to the other client, i.e., that the representation may be materially limited by the lawyer's interest in retaining the current client. Similarly, a directly adverse conflict may arise when a lawyer is required to cross-examine a client who appears as a witness in a lawsuit involving another client, as when the testimony will be damaging to the client who is represented in the lawsuit. On the other hand, simultaneous representation in unrelated matters of clients whose interests are only generally economically adverse, such as representation of competing economic enterprises, ~~does in unrelated litigation, does not ordinarily constitute a conflict of interest and thus may~~ not require consent of the respective clients.

~~Paragraph (a) applies only when the representation of one client would be directly adverse to the other.~~

[7] Directly adverse conflicts can also arise in transactional matters. For example, if a lawyer is asked to represent the seller of a business in negotiations with a buyer represented by the lawyer, not in the same transaction but in another, unrelated matter, the lawyer could not undertake the representation without the informed consent of each client.

Loyalty to a client is also impaired when a lawyer cannot

Identifying Conflicts of Interest: Material Limitation

[8] Even where there is no direct adverseness, a conflict of interest exists if there is a significant risk that a lawyer's ability to consider, recommend or carry out an appropriate course of action for the client ~~because will be materially limited as a result of~~ the lawyer's other responsibilities or interests. For example, a lawyer asked to represent several individuals seeking to form a joint venture is likely to be materially limited in the lawyer's ability to recommend or advocate all possible positions that each might take because of the lawyer's duty of loyalty to the others. The conflict in effect forecloses alternatives that would otherwise be available to the client. ~~Paragraph (b) addresses such situations. A possible conflict~~ The mere possibility of subsequent harm does not itself ~~preclude the representation~~ require disclosure and consent. The critical questions are the likelihood that a difference in interests will eventuate and, if it does, whether it will materially interfere with the lawyer's independent professional judgment in considering alternatives or foreclose courses of action that reasonably should be pursued on behalf of the client. ~~Consideration should be given to whether the client wishes to accommodate the other interest involved.~~

Consultation and Consent

~~A client may consent to representation notwithstanding a conflict. However, as indicated in paragraph (a)(1) with respect to representation directly adverse to a client and paragraph (b)(1) with respect to material limitations on representation of a client, when a disinterested lawyer would conclude that the client should not agree to the representation under the circumstances, the lawyer involved cannot properly ask for such agreement or provide representation on the basis of the client's consent. When more than one client is involved, the question of conflict must be resolved as to each client. Moreover, there may be circumstances where it is~~

Lawyer's Responsibilities to Former Clients and Other Third Persons

[9] In addition to conflicts with other current clients, a lawyer's duties of loyalty and independence may be materially limited by responsibilities to former clients under Rule 1.9 or by the lawyer's responsibilities to other persons, such as fiduciary duties arising from a lawyer's service as a trustee, executor or corporate director.

Personal Interest Conflicts

[10] The lawyer's own interests should not be permitted to have an adverse effect on representation of a client. For example, if the probity of a lawyer's own conduct in a transaction is in serious question, it may be difficult or impossible for the lawyer to give a client detached advice. Similarly, when a lawyer has discussions concerning possible employment with an opponent of the lawyer's client, or with a law firm representing the opponent, such discussions could materially limit the lawyer's representation of the client. In addition, a lawyer may not allow related business interests to affect representation, for example, by referring clients to an enterprise in which the lawyer has an undisclosed financial interest. See Rule 1.8 for specific rules pertaining to a number of personal interest conflicts, including business transactions with clients. See also Rule 1.10 (personal interest conflicts under Rule 1.7 ordinarily are not imputed to other lawyers in a law firm).

[11] When lawyers representing different clients in the same matter or in substantially related matters are closely related by blood or marriage, there may be a significant risk that client confidences will be revealed and that the lawyer's family relationship will interfere with both loyalty and independent professional judgment. As a result, each client is entitled to know of the existence and implications of the relationship between the lawyers before the lawyer agrees to undertake the representation. Thus, a lawyer related to another lawyer, e.g., as parent, child, sibling or spouse, ordinarily may not represent a client in a matter where that lawyer is representing another party, unless each client gives informed consent. The disqualification arising from a close family relationship is personal and ordinarily is not imputed to members of firms with whom the lawyers are associated. See Rule 1.10.

[12] A lawyer is prohibited from engaging in sexual relationships with a client unless the sexual relationship predates the formation of the client-lawyer relationship. See Rule 1.8(j).

Interest of Person Paying for a Lawyer's Service

[13] A lawyer may be paid from a source other than the client, including a co-client, if the client is informed of that fact and consents and the arrangement does not compromise the lawyer's duty of loyalty or independent judgment to the client. See Rule 1.8(f). If acceptance of the payment from any other source presents a significant

156 risk that the lawyer's representation of the client will be materially limited by the lawyer's 157 own interest in accommodating the person paying the lawyer's fee or by the lawyer's 158 responsibilities to a payer who is also a co-client, then the lawyer must comply with the 159 requirements of paragraph (b) before accepting the representation, including 160 determining whether the conflict is consentable and, if so, that the client has adequate 161 information about the material risks of the representation.

162 Prohibited Representations

163 [14] Ordinarily, clients may consent to representation notwithstanding a conflict.
164 However, as indicated in paragraph (b), some conflicts are nonconsentable, meaning 165 that the lawyer involved cannot properly ask for such agreement or provide 166 representation on the basis of the client's consent. When the lawyer is representing 167 more than one client, the question of consentability must be resolved as to each client.

168 [15] Consentability is typically determined by considering whether the interests of 169 the clients will be adequately protected if the clients are permitted to give their informed 170 consent to representation burdened by a conflict of interest. Thus, under paragraph 171 (b)(1), representation is prohibited if in the circumstances the lawyer cannot reasonably 172 conclude that the lawyer will be able to provide competent and diligent representation.
173 See Rule 1.1 (competence) and Rule 1.3 (diligence).

174 [16] Paragraph (b)(2) describes conflicts that are nonconsentable because the 175 representation is prohibited by applicable law. For example, in some states substantive 176 law provides that the same lawyer may not represent more than one defendant in a 177 capital case, even with the consent of the clients, and under federal criminal statutes 178 certain representations by a former government lawyer are prohibited, despite the 179 informed consent of the former client. In addition, decisional law in some states limits 180 the ability of a governmental client, such as a municipality, to consent to a conflict of 181 interest.

182 [17] Paragraph (b)(3) describes conflicts that are nonconsentable because of the 183 institutional interest in vigorous development of each client's position when the clients
184 are aligned directly against each other in the same litigation or other proceeding before 185 a tribunal. Whether clients are aligned directly against each other within the meaning of 186 this paragraph requires examination of the context of the proceeding. Although this paragraph does not preclude a lawyer's multiple representation of adverse parties to a mediation (because mediation is not a proceeding before a "tribunal" under Rule 1.0(m)), such representation may be precluded by paragraph (b)(1).

Informed Consent

[18] Informed consent requires that each affected client be aware of the relevant circumstances and of the material and reasonably foreseeable ways that the conflict could have adverse effects on the interests of that client. See Rule 1.0(e) (informed consent). The information required depends on the nature of the conflict and the nature of the risks involved. When representation of multiple clients in a single matter is undertaken, the information must include the implications of the common representation, including possible effects on loyalty, confidentiality and the attorney-client privilege and the advantages and risks involved. See Comments [30] and [31] (effect of common representation on confidentiality).

[19] Under some circumstances it may be impossible to make the disclosure necessary to obtain consent. For example, when the lawyer represents different clients in related matters and one of the clients refuses to consent to the disclosure necessary to permit the other client to make an informed decision, the lawyer cannot properly ask the latter to consent. In some cases the alternative to common representation can be that each party may have to obtain separate representation with the possibility of incurring additional costs. These costs, along with the benefits of securing separate representation, are factors that may be considered by the affected client in determining whether common representation is in the client's interests.

Lawyer's Interests

~~The lawyer's own interests should not be permitted to have adverse effect on representation of a client. For example, a lawyer's need for income should not lead the lawyer to undertake matters that cannot be handled competently and at a reasonable fee. See Rules 1.1 and 1.5. If the probity of a lawyer's own conduct in a transaction is in serious question, it may be difficult or impossible for the lawyer to give a client detached advice. A lawyer may not allow related business interests to affect representation, for example, by referring clients to an enterprise in which the lawyer has an undisclosed interest.~~

Consent Confirmed in Writing

[20] Paragraph (b) requires the lawyer to obtain the informed consent of the client, confirmed in writing. Such a writing may consist of a document executed by the client or one that the lawyer promptly records and transmits to the client following an oral consent. See Rule 1.0(b). See also Rule 1.0(n) (writing includes electronic transmission). If it is not feasible to obtain or transmit the writing at the time the client gives informed consent, then the lawyer must obtain or transmit it within a reasonable time thereafter. See Rule 1.0(b). The requirement of a writing does not supplant the need in most cases for the lawyer to talk with the client, to explain the risks and advantages, if any, of representation burdened with a conflict of interest, as well as reasonably available alternatives, and to afford the client a reasonable opportunity to consider the risks and alternatives and to raise questions and concerns. Rather, the writing is required in order to impress upon clients the seriousness of the decision the client is being asked to make and to avoid disputes or ambiguities that might later occur in the absence of a writing.

Revoking Consent

[21] A client who has given consent to a conflict may revoke the consent and, like any other client, may terminate the lawyer's representation at any time. Whether revoking consent to the client's own representation precludes the lawyer from continuing to represent other clients depends on the circumstances, including the nature of the conflict, whether the client revoked consent because of a material change in circumstances, the reasonable expectations of the other client and whether material detriment to the other clients or the lawyer would result.

Consent to Future Conflict

[22] Whether a lawyer may properly request a client to waive conflicts that might arise in the future is subject to the test of paragraph (b). The effectiveness of such waivers is generally determined by the extent to which the client reasonably understands the material risks that the waiver entails. The more comprehensive the explanation of the types of future representations that might arise and the actual and reasonably foreseeable adverse consequences of those representations, the greater the likelihood that the client will have the requisite understanding. Thus, if the client agrees to consent to a particular type of conflict with which the client is already familiar, then the consent ordinarily will be effective with regard to that type of conflict. If the consent is general and open-ended, then the consent ordinarily will be ineffective, because it is not reasonably likely that the client will have understood the material risks involved. On the other hand, if the client is an experienced user of the legal services involved and is reasonably informed regarding the risk that a conflict may arise, such consent is more likely to be effective, particularly if, e.g., the client is independently represented by other counsel in giving consent and the consent is limited to future conflicts unrelated to the subject of the representation. In any case, advance consent cannot be effective if the circumstances that materialize in the future are such as would make the conflict nonconsentable under paragraph (b).

Conflicts in Litigation

[23] Paragraph ~~(a)~~(b)(3) prohibits representation of opposing parties in ~~litigation~~. ~~Simultaneous~~ the same litigation, regardless of the clients' consent. On the other hand, ~~simultaneous~~ representation of parties whose interests in litigation may conflict, such as ~~co-plaintiffs or co-defendants~~ coplaintiffs or codefendants, is governed by paragraph ~~(b)~~. ~~An impermissible (a)(2).~~ A conflict may exist by reason of substantial discrepancy in the parties' testimony, incompatibility in positions in relation to an opposing party or the fact that there are substantially different possibilities of settlement of the claims or liabilities in question. Such conflicts can arise in criminal cases as well as civil. The potential for conflict of interest in representing multiple defendants in a criminal case is so grave that ordinarily a lawyer should decline to represent more than one ~~co-defendant~~ codefendant. On the other hand, common representation of persons having similar interests in civil litigation is proper if ~~the risk of adverse affect is minimal and~~ the requirements of paragraph (b) are met. ~~Compare Rule 2.2, involving intermediation between clients.~~

~~Ordinarily, a lawyer may not act as advocate against a client the lawyer represents in some other matter, even if the other matter is wholly unrelated. However, there are circumstances in which a lawyer may act as an advocate against a client. For example, a lawyer representing an enterprise with diverse operations may accept employment as an advocate against the enterprise~~

[24] Ordinarily a lawyer may take inconsistent legal positions in different tribunals at different times on behalf of different clients. The mere fact that advocating a legal position on behalf of one client might create precedent adverse to the interests of a client represented by the lawyer in an unrelated matter if doing so will not adversely affect the lawyer's relationship with the enterprise or conduct of the suit and if both clients consent upon consultation. By the same token, government lawyers in some circumstances may represent government employees in proceedings in which a government agency is the opposing party. The propriety of concurrent representation can depend on the nature of the litigation. For example, a suit charging fraud entails conflict to a degree not involved in a suit for a declaratory judgment concerning statutory interpretation does not create a conflict of interest. A conflict of interest exists, however, if there is a significant risk that a lawyer's action on behalf of one client will materially limit the lawyer's effectiveness in representing another client in a different case; for example, when a decision favoring one client will create a precedent likely to seriously weaken the position taken on behalf of the other client. Factors relevant in determining whether the clients need to be advised of the risk include: where the cases are pending, whether the issue is substantive or procedural, the temporal relationship between the matters, the significance of the issue to the immediate and long-term interests of the clients involved and the clients' reasonable expectations in retaining the lawyer. If there is significant risk of material limitation, then absent informed consent of the affected clients, the lawyer must refuse one of the representations or withdraw from one or both matters.

~~A lawyer may represent parties having antagonistic positions on a legal question that has arisen in different cases, unless representation of either client would be adversely affected. Thus, it is ordinarily not improper to assert such positions in cases pending in different trial courts, but it may be improper to do so in cases pending at the same time in an appellate court.~~

Interest of Person Paying for Lawyer's Service

[25] When a lawyer represents or seeks to represent a class of plaintiffs or defendants in a class-action lawsuit, unnamed members of the class are ordinarily not considered to be clients of the lawyer for purposes of applying paragraph (a)(1) of this Rule. Thus, the lawyer does not typically need to get the consent of such a person before representing a client suing the person in an unrelated matter. Similarly, a lawyer seeking to represent an opponent in a class action does not typically need the consent of an unnamed member of the class whom the lawyer represents in an unrelated matter.

Nonlitigation Conflicts

~~A lawyer may be paid from a source other than the client if the client is informed of that fact and consents and the arrangement does not compromise the lawyer's duty of loyalty to the client. See Rule 1.8(f). For example, when an insurer and its insured have conflicting interests in a matter arising from a liability insurance agreement and the insurer is required to provide separate counsel for the insured, the arrangement should assure the separate counsel's professional independence. So also, when a corporation and its directors or employees are involved in a controversy in which they have conflicting interests, the corporation may provide funds for separate legal representation of the directors or employees, if the clients consent after consultation and the arrangement ensures the lawyer's professional independence.~~

Other Conflict Situations

[26] Conflicts of interest under paragraphs (a)(1) and (a)(2) arise in contexts other than litigation ~~sometimes may be difficult to assess.~~ For a discussion of directly adverse conflicts in transactional matters, see Comment [7]. Relevant factors in determining whether there is significant potential for ~~adverse effect—material limitation~~ include the duration and intimacy of the lawyer's relationship with the client or clients involved, the functions being performed by the lawyer, the likelihood that ~~actual—conflict~~ disagreements will arise and the likely prejudice to the client from the conflict ~~if it does arise~~. The question is often one of proximity and degree. See Comment [8].

~~For example, a lawyer may not represent multiple parties to a negotiation whose interests are fundamentally antagonistic to each other, but common representation is permissible where the clients are generally aligned in interest even though there is some difference of interest among them. Conflict questions may also [27] For example, conflict questions may~~ arise in estate planning and estate administration. A lawyer may be called upon to prepare wills for several family members, such as husband and wife, and, depending upon the circumstances, a conflict of interest may ~~arise~~ be present. In estate administration, the identity of the client may be unclear under the law of a particular jurisdiction. Under one view, the client is the fiduciary; under another view, the client is the estate or trust, including its beneficiaries. ~~The~~ In order to comply with conflict of interest rules, the lawyer should make clear the lawyer's relationship to the parties involved.

[28] Whether a conflict is consentable depends on the circumstances. For example, a lawyer may not represent multiple parties to a negotiation whose interests are fundamentally antagonistic to each other, but common representation is permissible where the clients are generally aligned in interest even though there is some difference in interest among them. Thus, a lawyer may seek to establish or adjust a relationship between clients on an amicable and mutually advantageous basis; for example, in helping to organize a business in which two or more clients are entrepreneurs, working out the financial reorganization of an enterprise in which two or more clients have an interest or arranging a property distribution in settlement of an estate. The lawyer seeks to resolve potentially adverse interests by developing the parties' mutual interests. Otherwise, each party might have to obtain separate representation, with the possibility of incurring additional cost, complication or even litigation. Given these and other relevant factors, the clients may prefer that the lawyer act for all of them.

Special Considerations in Common Representation

[29] In considering whether to represent multiple clients in the same matter, a lawyer should be mindful that if the common representation fails because the potentially adverse interests cannot be reconciled, the result can be additional cost, embarrassment and recrimination. Ordinarily, the lawyer will be forced to withdraw from representing all of the clients if the common representation fails. In some situations, the risk of failure is so great that multiple representation is plainly impossible. For example, a lawyer cannot undertake common representation of clients where contentious litigation or negotiations between them are imminent or contemplated. Moreover, because the lawyer is required to be impartial between commonly represented clients, representation of multiple clients is improper when it is unlikely that impartiality can be maintained. Generally, if the relationship between the parties has already assumed antagonism, the possibility that the clients' interests can be adequately served by common representation is not very good. Other relevant factors are whether the lawyer subsequently will represent both parties on a continuing basis and whether the situation involves creating or terminating a relationship between the parties.

[30] A particularly important factor in determining the appropriateness of common representation is the effect on client-lawyer confidentiality and the attorney-client privilege. With regard to the attorney-client privilege, the prevailing rule is that, as between commonly represented clients, the privilege does not attach. Hence, it must be assumed that if litigation eventuates between the clients, the privilege will not protect any such communications, and the client should be so advised.

[31] As to the duty of confidentiality, continued common representation will almost certainly be inadequate if one client asks the lawyer not to disclose to the other client information relevant to the common representation. This is so because the lawyer has an equal duty of loyalty to each client, and each client has the right to be informed of anything bearing on the representation that might affect that client's interests and the right to expect that the lawyer will use that information to that client's benefit. See Rule 1.4. The lawyer should, at the outset of the common representation and as part of the process of obtaining each client's informed consent, advise each client that information will be shared and that the lawyer will have to withdraw if one client decides that some matter material to the representation should be kept from the other. In limited circumstances, it may be appropriate for the lawyer to proceed with the representation when the clients have agreed, after being properly informed, that the lawyer will keep certain information confidential. For example, the lawyer may reasonably conclude that failure to disclose one client's trade secrets to another client will not adversely affect representation involving a joint venture between the clients and agree to keep that information confidential with the informed consent of both clients.

[32] When seeking to establish or adjust a relationship between clients, the lawyer should make clear that the lawyer's role is not that of partisanship normally expected in other circumstances and, thus, that the clients may be required to assume greater responsibility for decisions than when each client is separately represented. Any limitations on the scope of the representation made necessary as a result of the common representation should be fully explained to the clients at the outset of the representation. See Rule 1.2(c).

[33] Subject to the above limitations, each client in the common representation has the right to loyal and diligent representation and the protection of Rule 1.9 concerning the obligations to a former client. The client also has the right to discharge the lawyer as stated in Rule 1.16.

Organizational Clients

[34] A lawyer who represents a corporation or other organization does not, by virtue of that representation, necessarily represent any constituent or affiliated organization, such as a parent or subsidiary. See Rule 1.13(a). Thus, the lawyer for an organization is not barred from accepting representation adverse to an affiliate in an unrelated matter, unless the circumstances are such that the affiliate should also be considered a client of the lawyer, there is an understanding between the lawyer and the organizational client that the lawyer will avoid representation adverse to the client's affiliates, or the lawyer's obligations to either the organizational client or the new client are likely to limit materially the lawyer's representation of the other client.

[35] A lawyer for a corporation or other organization who is also a member of its board of directors should determine whether the responsibilities of the two roles may conflict. The lawyer may be called on to advise the corporation in matters involving actions of the directors. Consideration should be given to the frequency with which such situations may arise, the potential intensity of the conflict, the effect of the lawyer's resignation from the board and the possibility of the corporation's obtaining legal advice from another lawyer in such situations. If there is material risk that the dual role will compromise the lawyer's independence of professional judgment, the lawyer should not serve as a director or should cease to act as the corporation's lawyer when conflicts of interest arise. The lawyer should advise the other members of the board that in some circumstances matters discussed at board meetings while the lawyer is present in the capacity of director might not be protected by the attorney-client privilege and that-

Conflict Charged by an Opposing Party

~~Resolving questions of conflict of interest is primarily the responsibility of the lawyer undertaking the representation. In litigation, a court may raise the question when there~~

~~is reason to infer that the lawyer has neglected the responsibility. In a criminal case,~~
~~inquiry by the court is generally required when a lawyer represents multiple defendants.~~
~~Where the conflict is such as clearly to call in question the fair or efficient administration~~
~~of justice, opposing counsel may properly raise the question. Such an objection should~~
~~be viewed with caution, however, for it can be misused as a technique of harassment.~~ ~~See Scope.~~ considerations might require the lawyer's recusal as a director or might require the lawyer and the lawyer's firm to decline representation of the corporation in a matter.

1 Rule 1.8. Conflict of interest: ~~prohibited transactions~~ Current Clients: Specific Rules.

2 (a) A lawyer shall not enter into a business transaction with a client or knowingly
3 acquire an ownership, possessory, security or other pecuniary interest adverse to a 4 client unless:

5 (a)(1) ~~The the~~ transaction and terms on which the lawyer acquires the interest are 6 fair and reasonable to the client and are fully disclosed and transmitted in writing ~~to the~~ 7 ~~client~~ in a manner ~~which that~~ can be reasonably understood by the client; ~~and~~

8 (a)(2) ~~The client the client is advised in writing of the desirability of seeking and~~ is 9 given a reasonable opportunity to seek the advice of independent legal counsel ~~in on~~ 10 the transaction; and

11 (a)(3) ~~The client consents in writing thereto the client gives informed consent, in a~~
12 writing signed by the client, to the essential terms of the transaction and the lawyer's 13 role in the transaction, including whether the lawyer is representing the client in the 14 transaction.

15 (b) A lawyer shall not use information relating to representation of a client to the 16 disadvantage of the client unless the client ~~consents after consultation~~ gives informed 17 consent, except as permitted or required by these Rules.

18 (c) A lawyer shall not ~~prepare an instrument giving the lawyer or a person related to~~ 19 ~~the lawyer as parent, child, sibling or spouse~~ solicit any substantial gift from a client, 20 including a testamentary gift, ~~except where the client is related to the donee.~~ or prepare 21 on behalf of a client an instrument giving the lawyer or a person related to the lawyer 22 any substantial gift unless the lawyer or other recipient of the gift is related to the client.
23 For purpose of this paragraph, related persons include a spouse, child, grandchild,
24 parent, grandparent or other relative or individual with whom the lawyer or the client
25 maintains a close, familial relationship.

26 (d) Prior to the conclusion of representation of a client, a lawyer shall not make or 27 negotiate an agreement giving the lawyer literary or media rights to a portrayal or an 28 account based in substantial part on information relating to the representation.

29 (e) A lawyer shall not provide financial assistance to a client in connection with 30 pending or contemplated litigation, except that:

(e)(1) ~~A~~a lawyer may advance court costs and expenses of litigation, the repayment of which may be contingent on the outcome of the matter; and

(e)(2) ~~A~~a lawyer representing an indigent client may pay court costs and expenses of litigation, and minor expenses reasonably connected to the litigation, on behalf of the client.

(f) A lawyer shall not accept compensation for representing a client from one other than the client unless:

(f)(1) ~~The~~the client ~~consents after consultation~~ gives informed consent;

(f)(2) ~~There~~there is no interference with the lawyer's independence of professional judgment or with the client-lawyer relationship; and

(f)(3) ~~Information~~information relating to representation of a client is protected as required by Rule 1.6.

(g) A lawyer who represents two or more clients shall not participate in making an aggregate settlement of the claims of or against the clients or in a criminal case an aggregated agreement as to guilty or nolo contendere pleas, unless each client ~~consents after consultation, including disclosure of~~ gives informed consent, in writing signed by the client. The lawyer's disclosure shall include the existence and nature of all the claims or pleas involved and of the participation of each person in the settlement.

(h) A lawyer shall not:

(h)(1) make an agreement prospectively limiting the lawyer's liability to a client for malpractice unless ~~permitted by law and~~ the client is independently represented in making the agreement; or

(h)(2) settle a claim or potential claim for such liability with an unrepresented client or former client ~~without first advising that person in writing that independent representation is appropriate unless that person is advised in writing of the desirability of seeking and is given a reasonable opportunity to seek the advice of independent legal counsel~~ in connection therewith.

~~(i) A lawyer related to another lawyer as parent, child, sibling or spouse shall not represent a client in a representation directly adverse to a person who the lawyer knows is represented by the other lawyer except upon consent by the client after consultation regarding the relationship.~~

~~(i)~~(i) A lawyer shall not acquire a proprietary interest in the cause of action or subject matter of litigation the lawyer is conducting for a client, except that the lawyer may:

(i)(1) ~~Acquire-acquire~~ a lien ~~granted-authorized~~ by law to secure the lawyer's fee or expenses; and

(i)(2) ~~Contract-contract~~ with a client for a reasonable contingent fee in a civil case.

(i) A lawyer shall not engage in sexual relations with a client that exploit the lawyer-client relationship. For the purposes of this Rule:

(i)(1) "sexual relations" means sexual intercourse or the touching of an intimate part of another person for the purpose of sexual arousal, gratification, or abuse; and

(i)(2) except for a spousal relationship or a sexual relationship that existed at the commencement of the lawyer-client relationship, sexual relations between the lawyer and the client shall be presumed to be exploitive. This presumption is rebuttable.

(k) While lawyers are associated in a firm, a prohibition in the foregoing paragraphs (a) through (i) that applies to any one of them shall apply to all of them.

Comment

Business Transactions Between Client and Lawyer

~~As a general principle, all transactions between client and lawyer should be fair and reasonable to the client. In such transactions, a review by independent counsel on behalf of the client is often advisable. Furthermore, a lawyer may not exploit information relating to the representation to the client's disadvantage. For example, a lawyer who has learned that the client is investing in specific real estate may not, without the client's consent, seek to acquire nearby property where doing so would adversely affect the client's plan for investment. Paragraph (a) does not, however,~~

[1] A lawyer's legal skill and training, together with the relationship of trust and confidence between lawyer and client, create the possibility of overreaching when the lawyer participates in a business, property or financial transaction with a client, for example, a loan or sales transaction or a lawyer investment on behalf of a client. The requirements of paragraph (a) must be met even when the transaction is not closely related to the subject matter of the representation, as when a lawyer drafting a will for a client learns that the client needs money for unrelated expenses and offers to make a loan to the client. The Rule applies to lawyers engaged in the sale of goods or services related to the practice of law, for example, the sale of title insurance or investment services to existing clients of the lawyer's legal practice. See Rule 5.7. It also applies to lawyers purchasing property from estates they represent. It does not apply to ordinary fee arrangements between client and lawyer, which are governed by Rule 1.5, although its requirements must be met when the lawyer accepts an interest in the client's business or other nonmonetary property as payment of all or part of a fee. In addition, the Rule does not apply to standard commercial transactions between the lawyer and the client for products or services that the client generally markets to others, for example, banking or brokerage services, medical services, products manufactured or distributed by the client, and ~~utilities~~ utilities' services. In such transactions, the lawyer has no advantage in dealing with the client, and the restrictions in paragraph (a) are unnecessary and impracticable.

[2] Paragraph (a)(1) requires that the transaction itself be fair to the client and that its essential terms be communicated to the client, in writing, in a manner that can be reasonably understood. Paragraph (a)(2) requires that the client also be advised, in writing, of the desirability of seeking the advice of independent legal counsel. It also requires that the client be given a reasonable opportunity to obtain such advice. Paragraph (a)(3) requires that the lawyer obtain the client's informed consent, in a writing signed by the client, both to the essential terms of the transaction and to the lawyer's role. When necessary, the lawyer should discuss both the material risks of the proposed transaction, including any risk presented by the lawyer's involvement, and the existence of reasonably available alternatives and should explain why the advice of independent legal counsel is desirable. See Rule 1.0(e) (definition of informed consent).

[3] The risk to a client is greatest when the client expects the lawyer to represent the client in the transaction itself or when the lawyer's financial interest otherwise poses a significant risk that the lawyer's representation of the client will be materially limited by the lawyer's financial interest in the transaction. Here the lawyer's role requires that the lawyer must comply, not only with the requirements of paragraph (a), but also with the requirements of Rule 1.7. Under that Rule, the lawyer must disclose the risks associated with the lawyer's dual role as both legal adviser and participant in the transaction, such as the risk that the lawyer will structure the transaction or give legal advice in a way that favors the lawyer's interests at the expense of the client. Moreover, the lawyer must obtain the client's informed consent. In some cases, the lawyer's interest may be such that Rule 1.7 will preclude the lawyer from seeking the client's consent to the transaction.

[4] If the client is independently represented in the transaction, paragraph (a)(2) of this Rule is inapplicable, and the paragraph (a)(1) requirement for full disclosure is satisfied either by a written disclosure by the lawyer involved in the transaction or by the client's independent counsel. The fact that the client was independently represented in the transaction is relevant in determining whether the agreement was fair and reasonable to the client as paragraph (a)(1) further requires.

Use of Information Related to Representation

[5] Use of information relating to the representation to the disadvantage of the client violates the lawyer's duty of loyalty. Paragraph (b) applies when the information is used to benefit either the lawyer or a third person, such as another client or business associate of the lawyer. For example, if a lawyer learns that a client intends to purchase and develop several parcels of land, the lawyer may not use that information to purchase one of the parcels in competition with the client or to recommend that another client make such a purchase. The Rule does not prohibit uses that do not disadvantage the client. For example, a lawyer who learns a government agency's interpretation of trade legislation during the representation of one client may properly use that information to benefit other clients. Paragraph (b) prohibits disadvantageous use of client information unless the client gives informed consent, except as permitted or required by these Rules. See Rules 1.2(d), 1.6, 1.9(c), 3.3, 4.1(b), 8.1 and 8.3.

Gifts to Lawyers

[6] A lawyer may accept a gift from a client, if the transaction meets general standards of fairness. For example, a simple gift such as a present given at a holiday or as a token of appreciation is permitted. If a client offers the lawyer a more substantial gift, paragraph (c) does not prohibit the lawyer from accepting it, although such a gift may be voidable by the client under the doctrine of undue influence, which treats client

155 gifts as presumptively fraudulent. In any event, due to concerns about overreaching 156 and imposition on clients, a lawyer may not suggest that a substantial gift be made to 157 the lawyer or for the lawyer's benefit, except where the lawyer is related to the client as 158 set forth in paragraph (c).

159 [7] If effectuation of a substantial gift requires preparing a legal instrument such as a 160 will or conveyance, ~~however,~~ the client should have the detached advice that another 161 lawyer can provide. ~~Paragraph (c) recognizes an~~ The sole exception to this Rule is 162 where the client is a relative of the donee ~~or the gift is not substantial.~~

163 [8] This Rule does not prohibit a lawyer from seeking to have the lawyer or a partner
164 or associate of the lawyer named as executor of the client's estate or to another
165 potentially lucrative fiduciary position. Nevertheless, such appointments will be subject
166 to the general conflict of interest provision in Rule 1.7 when there is a significant risk
167 that the lawyer's interest in obtaining the appointment will materially limit the lawyer's 168 independent professional judgment in advising the client concerning the choice of an 169 executor or other fiduciary. In obtaining the client's informed consent to the conflict, the 170 lawyer should advise the client concerning the nature and extent of the lawyer's 171 financial interest in the appointment, as well as the availability of alternative candidates 172 for the position.

173 Literary Rights

174 [9] An agreement by which a lawyer acquires literary or media rights concerning the 175 conduct of the representation creates a conflict between the interests of the client and 176 the personal interests of the lawyer. Measures suitable in the representation of the client 177 may detract from the publication value of an account of the representation. Paragraph 178 (d) does not prohibit a lawyer representing a client in a transaction concerning literary 179 property from agreeing that the lawyer's fee shall consist of a share in ownership in the 180 property, if the arrangement conforms to Rule 1.5 ~~and paragraph (j).~~

181 ~~Person Paying for Lawyer's Services~~

182 ~~Rule 1.8(f) requires disclosure of the fact that the lawyer's services are being paid for~~ 183 ~~by a third party. Such an arrangement must also conform to the requirements of Rule~~
184 ~~1.6 concerning confidentiality and Rule 1.7 concerning conflict of interest. Where the~~

~~client is a class, consent may be obtained on behalf of the class by court-supervised procedure.~~

~~Family Relationships Between Lawyers~~

~~Rule 1.8(i) applies to related lawyers who are in different firms. Related lawyers in the same firm are governed by Rules 1.7, 1.9 and 1.10. The disqualification stated in Rule 1.8(i) is personal and is not imputed to members of firms with whom the lawyers are associated.~~

~~Acquisition of Interest in Litigation~~

~~Paragraph (j) states the traditional general rule that lawyers are prohibited from acquiring a proprietary interest in litigation. This general rule, which has its basis in common-law champerty and maintenance, is subject to specific exceptions developed in decisional law and continued in these Rules, such as the exception for reasonable contingent fees set forth in Rule 1.5 and the exception for certain advances of the costs of litigation set forth in paragraph (e).~~

~~This Rule is not intended to apply to customary qualifications and limitations in legal opinions and memoranda.~~

Financial Assistance

[10] Lawyers may not subsidize lawsuits or administrative proceedings brought on behalf of their clients, including making or guaranteeing loans to their clients for living expenses, because to do so would encourage clients to pursue lawsuits that might not otherwise be brought and because such assistance gives lawyers too great a financial stake in the litigation. These dangers do not warrant a prohibition on a lawyer lending a client court costs and litigation expenses, including the expenses of medical examination and the costs of obtaining and presenting evidence, because these advances are virtually indistinguishable from contingent fees and help ensure access to the courts. Similarly, an exception allowing lawyers representing indigent clients to pay court costs and litigation expenses and minor sums reasonably connected to the litigation, such as the cost of maintaining nominal basic local telephone service or providing bus passes to enable the indigent client to have means of contact with the lawyer during litigation, regardless of whether these funds will be repaid, is warranted.

[10a] Relative to the ABA Model Rule, Utah Rule 1.8(e)(2) broadens the scope of direct support that a lawyer may provide to indigent clients to cover minor expenses reasonably connected to the litigation. This would include, for example, financial assistance in providing transportation, communications or lodging that would be required or desirable to assist the indigent client in the course of the litigation.

Person Paying for a Lawyer's Services

[11] Lawyers are frequently asked to represent a client under circumstances in which a third person will compensate the lawyer, in whole or in part. The third person might be a relative or friend, an indemnitor (such as a liability insurance company) or a co-client (such as a corporation sued along with one or more of its employees). Because third-party payers frequently have interests that differ from those of the client, including interests in minimizing the amount spent on the representation and in learning how the representation is progressing, lawyers are prohibited from accepting or continuing such representations unless the lawyer determines that there will be no interference with the lawyer's independent professional judgment and there is informed consent from the client. See also Rule 5.4(c) (prohibiting interference with a lawyer's professional judgment by one who recommends, employs or pays the lawyer to render legal services for another).

[12] Sometimes, it will be sufficient for the lawyer to obtain the client's informed consent regarding the fact of the payment and the identity of the third-party payer. If, however, the fee arrangement creates a conflict of interest for the lawyer, then the lawyer must comply with Rule 1.7. The lawyer must also conform to the requirements of Rule 1.6 concerning confidentiality. Under Rule 1.7(a), a conflict of interest exists if there is significant risk that the lawyer's representation of the client will be materially limited by the lawyer's own interest in the fee arrangement or by the lawyer's responsibilities to the third-party payer (for example, when the third-party payer is a co-client). Under Rule 1.7(b), the lawyer may accept or continue the representation with the informed consent of each affected client, unless the conflict is nonconsentable under that paragraph. Under Rule 1.7(b), the informed consent must be confirmed in writing.

Aggregate Settlements

[13] Differences in willingness to make or accept an offer of settlement are among the risks of common representation of multiple clients by a single lawyer. Under Rule 1.7, this is one of the risks that should be discussed before undertaking the representation, as part of the process of obtaining the clients' informed consent. In addition, Rule 1.2(a) protects each client's right to have the final say in deciding whether to accept or reject an offer of settlement and in deciding whether to enter a guilty or nolo contendere plea in a criminal case. The rule stated in this paragraph is a corollary of both these Rules and provides that, before any settlement offer or plea bargain is made or accepted on behalf of multiple clients, the lawyer must inform each of them about all the material terms of the settlement, including what the other clients will receive or pay if the settlement or plea offer is accepted. See also Rule 1.0(e) (definition of informed consent). Lawyers representing a class of plaintiffs or defendants, or those proceeding derivatively, may not have a full client-lawyer relationship with each member of the class; nevertheless, such lawyers must comply with applicable rules regulating notification of class members and other procedural requirements designed to ensure adequate protection of the entire class.

Limiting Liability and Settling Malpractice Claims

[14] Agreements prospectively limiting a lawyer's liability for malpractice are prohibited unless the client is independently represented in making the agreement because they are likely to undermine competent and diligent representation. Also, many clients are unable to evaluate the desirability of making such an agreement before a dispute has arisen, particularly if they are then represented by the lawyer seeking the agreement. This paragraph does not, however, prohibit a lawyer from entering into an agreement with the client to arbitrate legal malpractice claims, provided such agreements are enforceable and the client is fully informed of the scope and effect of the agreement. Nor does this paragraph limit the ability of lawyers to practice in the form of a limited-liability entity, where permitted by law, provided that each lawyer remains personally liable to the client for his or her own conduct and the firm complies with any conditions required by law, such as provisions requiring client notification or maintenance of adequate liability insurance. Nor does it prohibit an agreement in accordance with Rule 1.2 that defines the scope of the representation, although a definition of scope that makes the obligations of representation illusory will amount to an attempt to limit liability.

[15] Agreements settling a claim or a potential claim for malpractice are not prohibited by this Rule. Nevertheless, in view of the danger that a lawyer will take unfair advantage of an unrepresented client or former client, the lawyer must first advise such a person in writing of the appropriateness of independent representation in connection with such a settlement. In addition, the lawyer must give the client or former client a reasonable opportunity to find and consult independent counsel.

Acquiring Proprietary Interest in Litigation

[16] Paragraph (i) states the traditional general rule that lawyers are prohibited from acquiring a proprietary interest in litigation. Like paragraph (e), the general rule has its basis in common law champerty and maintenance and is designed to avoid giving the lawyer too great an interest in the representation. In addition, when the lawyer acquires an ownership interest in the subject of the representation, it will be more difficult for a client to discharge the lawyer if the client so desires. The Rule is subject to specific exceptions developed in decisional law and continued in these Rules. The exception for certain advances of the costs of litigation is set forth in paragraph (e). In addition, paragraph (i) sets forth exceptions for liens authorized by law to secure the lawyer's fees or expenses and contracts for reasonable contingent fees. The law of each jurisdiction determines which liens are authorized by law. These may include liens granted by statute, liens originating in common law and liens acquired by contract with the client. When a lawyer acquires by contract a security interest in property other than that recovered through the lawyer's efforts in the litigation, such an acquisition is a business or financial transaction with a client and is governed by the requirements of paragraph (a). Contracts for contingent fees in civil cases are governed by Rule 1.5.

Client-Lawyer Sexual Relationships

[17] The relationship between lawyer and client is a fiduciary one in which the lawyer occupies the highest position of trust and confidence. The relationship is almost always unequal; thus, a sexual relationship between lawyer and client can involve unfair exploitation of the lawyer's fiduciary role, in violation of the lawyer's basic ethical obligation not to use the trust of the client to the client's disadvantage. In addition, such a relationship presents a significant danger that, because of the lawyer's emotional involvement, the lawyer will be unable to represent the client without impairment of the exercise of independent professional judgment. Moreover, a blurred line between the professional and personal relationships may make it difficult to predict to what extent client confidences will be protected by the attorney-client evidentiary privilege, since client confidences are protected by privilege only when they are imparted in the context of the client-lawyer relationship. Because of the significant danger of harm to client interests and because the client's own emotional involvement renders it unlikely that the client could give adequate informed consent, this Rule prohibits the lawyer from having sexual relations with a client regardless of whether the relationship is consensual and regardless of the absence of prejudice to the client.

[18] Spousal relationships and sexual relationships that predate the client-lawyer relationship are not prohibited. Issues relating to the exploitation of the fiduciary relationship and client dependency are diminished when the sexual relationship existed prior to the commencement of the client-lawyer relationship. However, before proceeding with the representation in these circumstances, the lawyer should consider whether the lawyer's ability to represent the client will be materially limited by the relationship. See Rule 1.7(a)(2).

[19] When the client is an organization, paragraph (j) of this Rule prohibits a lawyer for the organization (whether inside counsel or outside counsel) from having a sexual relationship with a constituent of the organization who supervises, directs or regularly consults with that lawyer concerning the organization's legal matters.

[19a] Utah Rule 1.8(j) is different from the ABA Model Rule. It follows the language from former Utah Rule 8.4(g) regarding the prohibition of sexual relations with a client. This Rule defines "sexual relations" and clarifies the presumption that sexual relations with a client are exploitive of the client.

Imputation of Prohibitions

[20] Under paragraph (k), a prohibition on conduct by an individual lawyer in paragraphs (a) through (i) also applies to all lawyers associated in a firm with the personally prohibited lawyer. For example, one lawyer in a firm may not enter into a business transaction with a client of another member of the firm without complying with

339 paragraph (a), even if the first lawyer is not personally involved in the representation of 340 the client. The prohibition set forth in paragraph (j) is personal and is not applied to 341 associated lawyers.

342

~~Rule 1.9. Conflict of interest: Former client.~~ Rule 1.9. Duties to Former Clients.

~~(a)~~ A lawyer who has formerly represented a client in a matter shall not thereafter:

~~(a) Represent~~ represent another person in the same or a substantially ~~factually~~ related matter in which that person's interests are materially adverse to the interests of the former client unless the former client ~~consents after consultation; or gives informed consent, confirmed in writing.~~

~~(b) Use~~ A lawyer shall not knowingly represent a person in the same or a substantially related matter in which a firm with which the lawyer formerly was associated had previously represented a client

(b)(1) whose interests are materially adverse to that person; and

(b)(2) about whom the lawyer had acquired information protected by Rules 1.6 and 1.9(c) that is material to the matter; unless the former client gives informed consent, confirmed in writing.

(c) A lawyer who has formerly represented a client in a matter or whose present or former firm has formerly represented a client in a matter shall not thereafter:

(c)(1) use information relating to the representation to the disadvantage of the former client except as ~~Rule 1.6~~ these Rules would permit or require with respect to a client, or when the information has become generally known; or

(c)(2) reveal information relating to the representation except as these Rules would permit or require with respect to a client.

Comment

[1] After termination of a client-lawyer relationship, a lawyer has certain continuing duties with respect to confidentiality and conflicts of interest and thus may not represent another client except in conformity with this Rule. ~~The principles in Rule 1.7 determine whether the interests of the present and former client are adverse. Thus, Under this Rule, for example,~~ a lawyer could not properly seek to rescind on behalf of a new client a contract drafted on behalf of the former client. So also a lawyer who has prosecuted an accused person could not properly represent the accused in a subsequent civil action against the government concerning the same transaction. Nor could a lawyer who has represented multiple clients in a matter represent one of the clients against the others in the same or a substantially related matter after a dispute arose among the clients in that matter, unless all affected clients give informed consent. See Comment [9]. Current and former government lawyers must comply with this Rule to the extent required by Rule 1.11.

[2] The scope of a "matter" for purposes of this Rule ~~1.9(a) may depend~~ depends on the facts of a particular situation or transaction. The lawyer's involvement in a matter can also be a question of degree. When a lawyer has been directly involved in a specific transaction, subsequent representation of other clients with materially adverse interests in that transaction clearly is prohibited. On the other hand, a lawyer who recurrently handled a type of problem for a former client is not precluded from later representing another client in a ~~wholly-factually~~ distinct problem of that type even though the subsequent representation involves a position adverse to the prior client. Similar considerations can apply to the reassignment of military lawyers between defense and prosecution functions within the same military-~~jurisdiction~~ jurisdictions. The underlying question is whether the lawyer was so involved in the matter that the subsequent representation can be justly regarded as a changing of sides in the matter in question.

[3] Matters are "substantially related" for purposes of this Rule if they involve the same transaction or legal dispute or if there otherwise is a substantial risk that confidential factual information as would normally have been obtained in the prior representation would materially advance the client's position in the subsequent matter. For example, a lawyer who has represented a businessperson and learned extensive private financial information about that person may not then represent that person's spouse in seeking a divorce. Similarly, a lawyer who has previously represented a client in securing environmental permits to build a shopping center would be precluded from representing neighbors seeking to oppose rezoning of the property on the basis of environmental considerations; however, the lawyer would not be precluded, on the grounds of substantial relationship, from defending a tenant of the completed shopping center in resisting eviction for nonpayment of rent. Information that has been disclosed to the public or to other parties adverse to the former client ordinarily will not be disqualifying. Information acquired in a prior representation may have been rendered obsolete by the passage of time, a circumstance that may be relevant in determining whether two representations are substantially related. In the case of an organizational client, general knowledge of the client's policies and practices ordinarily will not preclude a subsequent representation; on the other hand, knowledge of specific facts gained in a prior representation that are relevant to the matter in question ordinarily will preclude such a representation. A former client is not required to reveal the confidential information learned by the lawyer in order to establish a substantial risk that the lawyer has confidential information to use in the subsequent matter. A conclusion about the possession of such information may be based on the nature of the services the lawyer provided the former client and information that would in ordinary practice be learned by a lawyer providing such services.

Lawyers Moving Between Firms

[4] When lawyers have been associated within a firm but then end their association, the question of whether a lawyer should undertake representation is more complicated. There are several competing considerations. First, the client previously represented by the former firm must be reasonably assured that the principle of loyalty to the client is not compromised. Second, the rule should not be so broadly cast as to preclude other persons from having reasonable choice of legal counsel. Third, the rule should not unreasonably hamper lawyers from forming new associations and taking on new clients after having left a previous association. In this connection, it should be recognized that today many lawyers practice in firms, that many lawyers to some degree limit their practice to one field or another, and that many move from one association to another several times in their careers. If the concept of imputation were applied with unqualified rigor, the result would be radical curtailment of the opportunity of lawyers to move from one practice setting to another and of the opportunity of clients to change counsel.

[5] Paragraph (b) operates to disqualify the lawyer only when the lawyer involved has actual knowledge of information protected by Rules 1.6 and 1.9(c). Thus, if a lawyer while with one firm acquired no knowledge or information relating to a particular client of the firm, and that lawyer later joined another firm, neither the lawyer individually nor the second firm is disqualified from representing another client in the same or a related matter even though the interests of the two clients conflict. See Rule 1.10(b) for the restrictions on a firm once a lawyer has terminated association with the firm.

[6] Application of paragraph (b) depends on a situation's particular facts, aided by inferences, deductions or working presumptions that reasonably may be made about the way in which lawyers work together. A lawyer may have general access to files of all clients of a law firm and may regularly participate in discussions of their affairs; it should be inferred that such a lawyer in fact is privy to all information about all the firm's clients. In contrast, another lawyer may have access to the files of only a limited number of clients and participate in discussions of the affairs of no other clients; in the absence of information to the contrary, it should be inferred that such a lawyer in fact is privy to information about the clients actually served but not those of other clients. In such an inquiry, the burden of proof should rest upon the firm whose disqualification is sought.

[7] Independent of the question of disqualification of a firm, a lawyer changing professional association has a continuing duty to preserve confidentiality of information about a client formerly represented. See Rules 1.6 and 1.9(c).

~~Information~~ [8] Paragraph (c) provides that information acquired by the lawyer in the course of representing a client may not subsequently be used or revealed by the lawyer to the disadvantage of the client. However, the fact that a lawyer has once served a client does not preclude the lawyer from using generally known information about ~~the~~ that client when later representing another client.

~~Disqualification from subsequent representation is~~ [9] The provisions of this Rule are for the protection of former clients and can be waived ~~by them. A waiver is effective only if there is disclosure of the circumstances, including the lawyer's intended role in behalf of the new client.~~

~~With regard to an opposing party's raising a question of conflict of interest if the client gives informed consent, which consent must be confirmed in writing under paragraphs (a) and (b). See Rule 1.0(e). With regard to the effectiveness of an advance waiver,~~ see Comment [22] to Rule 1.7. With regard to disqualification of a firm with which a lawyer is or was formerly associated, see Rule 1.10.

[CODE COMPARISON]

~~There was no counterpart to paragraphs (a) and (b) in the Disciplinary Rules of the Code. The problem addressed in paragraph (a) was sometimes dealt with under the rubric of Canon 9 of the Code, which provided: "A lawyer should avoid even the~~ appearance of impropriety." EC 4-6 stated that the "obligation of a lawyer to preserve the confidences and secrets of his client continues after the termination of his employment."

The provision in paragraph (a) for waiver by the former client is similar to DR 5-105(C).

The exception in the last sentence of paragraph (b) permits a lawyer to use information relating to a former client that is in the "public domain," a use that was not prohibited by the Code, which protected only "confidences and secrets." Since the scope of paragraph (a) is much broader than "confidences and secrets," it is necessary under the Rules to define when a lawyer may make use of information about a client after the client-lawyer relationship has terminated.]

Rule 1.10. ~~Imputed disqualification: general rule.~~ Imputation of Conflicts of Interest: General Rule.

(a) While lawyers are associated in a firm, none of them shall knowingly represent a client when any one of them practicing alone would be prohibited from doing so by ~~Rule 1.7, 1.8(c), 1.9 or 2.2.~~ (b) When a lawyer becomes associated with a firm, the firm may not knowingly represent a person in the same or a substantially factually related matter in which that lawyer, or a firm with which the lawyer has associated, had previously represented a client whose interests are materially adverse to that person and about whom the lawyer had acquired information protected by Rules 1.6 and 1.9(b) that is material to the matter. (c) Rules 1.7 or 1.9, unless the prohibition is based on a personal interest of the prohibited lawyer and does not present a significant risk of materially limiting the representation of the client by the remaining lawyers in the firm.

(b) When a lawyer has terminated an association with a firm, the firm is not prohibited from thereafter representing a person with interests materially adverse to those of a client represented by the formerly associated lawyer and not currently represented by the firm, unless:

(b)(1) The the matter is the same or substantially related to that in which the formerly associated lawyer represented the client; and

(b)(2) Any any lawyer remaining in the firm has information protected by Rules 1.6 and 1.9(bc) that is material to the matter.

~~(d)(c)~~ When a lawyer becomes associated with a firm, no lawyer associated in the firm shall knowingly represent a person in a matter in which that lawyer is disqualified under Rule 1.9 unless:

(c)(1) the personally disqualified lawyer is timely screened from any participation in the matter and is apportioned no part of the fee therefrom, and

(c)(2) written notice is promptly given to any affected former client.

(d) A disqualification prescribed by this Rule may be waived by the affected client under the conditions stated in Rule 1.7.

(e) The disqualification of lawyers associated in a firm with former or current government lawyers is governed by Rule 1.11.

Comment

Definition of "Firm"

[1] For purposes of the Rules of Professional Conduct, the term "firm" ~~includes~~ "firm" ~~denotes~~ lawyers in a ~~private firm and law partnership, professional corporation, sole proprietorship or other association authorized to practice law; or~~ lawyers employed in ~~a legal services organization or~~ the legal department of a corporation or other organization, ~~or in a legal services organization. See Rule 1.0(c).~~ Whether two or more lawyers constitute a firm within this definition can depend on the specific facts. ~~For example, two practitioners who share office space and occasionally consult or assist each other ordinarily would not be regarded as constituting a firm. However, if they present themselves to the public in a way suggesting that they are a firm or conduct themselves as a firm, they should be regarded as a firm for purposes of the Rules. The terms of any formal agreement between associated lawyers are relevant in determining whether they are a firm, as is the fact that they have mutual access to confidential information concerning the clients they serve. Furthermore, it is relevant in doubtful cases to consider the underlying purpose of the rule that is involved. A group of lawyers could be regarded as a firm See Rule 1.0, Comments [2] - [4].~~

Principles of Imputed Disqualification

[2] The rule of imputed disqualification stated in paragraph (a) gives effect to the principle of loyalty to the client as it applies to lawyers who practice in a law firm. Such situations can be considered from the premise that a firm of lawyers is essentially one lawyer for purposes of the ~~rule~~ rules governing loyalty to the client, or from the premise that ~~the same each~~ lawyer ~~should not represent opposing parties in litigation, while it might not be so regarded for purposes of the rule that information acquired by one lawyer is attributed to another.~~

With respect to the law department of an organization, there is ordinarily no question that the members of the department constitute a firm within the meaning of the Rules of Professional Conduct. However, there can be uncertainty as to the identity of the client. For example, it may not be clear whether the law department of a corporation represents a subsidiary or an affiliated corporation, as well as the corporation by which the members of the department are directly employed. A similar question can arise concerning an unincorporated association and its local affiliates.

Similar questions can also arise with respect to lawyers in legal aid. Lawyers employed in the same unit of a legal service organization constitute a firm, but not necessarily those employed in separate units. As in the case of independent practitioners, whether the lawyers should be treated as associated with each other can depend on the particular rule that is involved and on the specific facts of the situation.

Where the lawyer has joined a private firm after having represented the government is vicariously bound by the obligation of loyalty owed by each lawyer with whom the lawyer is associated. Paragraph (a) operates only among the lawyers currently associated in a firm. When a lawyer moves from one firm to another, the situation is governed by Rules 1.11(a) and (b); where a lawyer represents the government after having served private clients, the situation is governed by Rule 1.11(c)(1). The individual lawyer involved is bound by the Rules generally, including Rules 1.6, 1.7, and 1.9.

Different provisions are thus made for movement of a lawyer from one private firm to another and for movement of a lawyer between a private firm and the government. The government is entitled to protection of its client confidences and therefore to the protections provided in Rules 1.6, 1.9 and 1.11. However, if the more extensive 1.10(b).

[3] The rule in paragraph (a) does not prohibit representation where neither questions of client loyalty nor protection of confidential information are presented. Where one lawyer in a firm could not effectively represent a given client because of strong political beliefs, for example, but that lawyer will do no work on the case and the personal beliefs of the lawyer will not materially limit the representation by others in the firm, the firm should not be disqualified. On the other hand, if an opposing party in a case were owned by a lawyer in the law firm, and others in the firm would be materially limited in pursuing the matter because of loyalty to that lawyer, the personal disqualification in Rule 1.10 were applied to former government lawyers, the potential effect on the government would be unduly burdensome. The government deals with all private citizens and organizations and thus has a much wider circle of adverse legal interests than does any private law firm. In these circumstances, the government's recruitment of lawyers would be seriously impaired if Rule 1.10 were applied to the ~~government. On balance, therefore, the government is better served in the long run by the protections stated in Rule 1.11.~~

~~Principles of Imputed Disqualification~~

~~The rule of imputed disqualification stated in paragraph (a) gives effect to the principle of loyalty to the client as it applies to lawyers who practice in a law firm. Such situations can be considered from the premise that a firm of lawyers is essentially one lawyer for purposes of the rules governing loyalty to the client or from the premises that each lawyer is vicariously bound by the obligation of loyalty owed by each lawyer with whom the lawyer is associated. Paragraph (a) operates only among lawyers currently associated in a firm. When a lawyer moves from one firm to another, the situation of the lawyer would be imputed to all others in the firm.~~

[4] The rule in paragraph (a) also does not prohibit representation by others in the law firm where the person prohibited from involvement in a matter is a nonlawyer, such as a paralegal or legal secretary. Nor does paragraph (a) prohibit representation if the lawyer is prohibited from acting because of events before the person became a lawyer, for example, work that the person did while a law student. Such persons, however, ordinarily must be screened from any personal participation in the matter to avoid communication to others in the firm of confidential information that both the nonlawyers and the firm have a legal duty to protect. See Rules 1.0(k) and 5.3.

[5] Rule 1.10(b) operates to permit a law firm, under certain circumstances, to represent a person with interests directly adverse to those of a client represented by a lawyer who formerly was associated with the firm. The Rule applies regardless of when the formerly associated lawyer represented the client. However, the law firm may not represent a person with interests adverse to those of a present client of the firm, which would violate Rule 1.7. Moreover, the firm may not represent the person where the matter is the same or substantially related to that in which the formerly associated lawyer represented the client and any other lawyer currently in the firm has material information protected by Rules 1.6 and 1.9(c).

[5a] The Utah rule differs from the ABA Model Rule in allowing lawyers disqualified under Rule 1.9 to be screened from participation in a matter under certain circumstances. If the conditions of paragraph (c) are met, imputation is removed, and consent to the new representation is not required. Lawyers should be aware, however, that courts may impose more stringent conditions in ruling upon motions to disqualify a lawyer from pending litigation.

[5b] Requirements for screening procedures are stated in Rule 1.0(k). Paragraph (c)(2) does not prohibit the screened lawyer from receiving a salary or partnership share established by prior independent agreement, but that lawyer may not receive compensation directly related to the matter in which the lawyer is disqualified.

[5c] Notice, including a description of the screened lawyer's prior representation and of the screening procedures employed, should be given as soon as practicable after the need for screening becomes apparent.

[6] Rule 1.10(d) removes imputation with the informed consent of the affected client or former client under the conditions stated in Rule 1.7. The conditions stated in Rule 1.7 require the lawyer to determine that the representation is not prohibited by Rule 1.7(b) and that each affected client or former client has given informed consent to the representation, confirmed in writing. In some cases, the risk may be so severe that the conflict may not be cured by client consent. For a discussion of the effectiveness of client waivers of conflicts that might arise in the future, see Rule 1.7, Comment [22]. For a definition of informed consent, see Rule 1.0(e).

[7] Where a lawyer has joined a private firm after having represented the government, imputation is governed by paragraphs (b) and (c).

Lawyers Moving Between Firms

When lawyers have been Rule 1.11(b) and (c), not this Rule. Under Rule 1.11(d), where a lawyer represents the government after having served clients in private practice, nongovernmental employment or in another government agency, former-client conflicts are not imputed to government lawyers associated with the individually disqualified lawyer.

[8] Where a lawyer is prohibited from engaging in certain transactions under Rule 1.8, paragraph (k) of that Rule, and not this Rule, determines whether that prohibition also applies to other lawyers associated in a firm but then end their association, however, the problem is more complicated. The fiction that the law firm is the same as a single lawyer is no longer wholly realistic. There are several competing considerations.

First, the client previously represented must be reasonably assured that the principle of loyalty to the client is not compromised. Second, the rule of disqualification should not be as broadly cast as to preclude other persons from having reasonable choice of legal counsel. Third, the rule of disqualification should not unreasonably hamper lawyers from forming new associations and taking on new clients after leaving a previous association. In this connection, it should be recognized that today many lawyers practice in firms, that many to some degree limit their practice to one field or another and that many move from one association to another several times in their careers. If the concept of imputed disqualification were defined with unqualified rigor, the result would be radical curtailment of the opportunity of lawyers to move from one practice setting to another and of the opportunity of clients to change counsel.

Reconciliation of these competing principles in the past has been attempted under two rubrics. One approach has been to seek per se rules of disqualification. For example, it has been held that a partner in a law firm is conclusively presumed to have access to all confidences concerning all clients of the firm. Under this analysis, if a lawyer has been a partner in one law firm and then becomes a partner in another law firm, there is a presumption that all confidences known by a partner in the first firm are known to all partners in the second firm. This presumption might properly be applied in some circumstances, especially where the client has been extensively represented, but may be unrealistic where the client was represented only for limited purposes. Furthermore, such a rigid rule exaggerates the difference between a partner and an associate in modern law firms.

The other rubric formerly used for dealing with vicarious disqualification is the appearance of impropriety proscribed in Canon 9 of the Code of Professional Responsibility. This rubric has a twofold problem. First, the appearance of impropriety can be taken to include any new client-lawyer relationship that might make a former client anxious. If that meaning were adopted, disqualification would become little more than a question of subjective judgment by the former client. Second, since "impropriety" is undefined, the term "appearance of impropriety" is question-begging. It therefore has to be recognized that the problem of imputed disqualification cannot be properly

~~resolved either by simple analogy to a lawyer practicing alone or by the very general concept of appearance of impropriety.~~

~~A rule based on a functional analysis is more appropriate for determining the question of vicarious disqualification. Two functions are involved: preserving confidentiality and avoiding positions adverse to a client.~~

~~Confidentiality~~

~~Preserving confidentiality is a question of access to information. Access to information, in turn, is essentially a question of fact in particular circumstances, aided by inferences, deductions or working presumptions that reasonably may be made about the way in which lawyers work together. A lawyer may have general access to files of all clients of a law firm and may regularly participate in discussions of their affairs; it should be inferred that such a lawyer in fact is privy to all information about all the firm's clients. In contrast, another lawyer may have access to the files of only a limited number of clients and participate in discussion of the affairs of no other clients; in the absence of information to the contrary, it should be inferred that such a lawyer in fact is privy to information about the clients actually served but not those of other clients.~~

~~Application of paragraphs (b) and (c) depends on a situation's particular facts. In any such inquiry, the burden of proof should rest upon the firm whose disqualification is sought.~~

~~Paragraphs (b) and (c) operate to disqualify the firm only when the lawyer involved has actual knowledge of information protected by Rules 1.6 and 1.9(b). Thus, if a lawyer while with one firm acquired no knowledge of information relating to a particular client of the firm and that lawyer later joined another firm, neither the lawyer individually nor the second firm is disqualified from representing another client in the same or a related matter even though the interests of the two clients conflict.~~

~~Independent of the question of disqualification of a firm, a lawyer changing professional association has a continuing duty to preserve confidentiality of information about a client formerly represented. See Rules 1.6 and 1.9.~~

~~Adverse Positions~~

~~The second aspect of loyalty to client is the lawyer's obligation to decline subsequent representations involving positions adverse to a former client arising in substantially~~

~~related matters. This obligation requires abstention from adverse representation by the individual lawyer involved, but does not properly entail abstention of other lawyers through imputed disqualification. Hence, this aspect of the problem is governed by Rule 1.9(a). Thus, if a lawyer left one firm for another, the new affiliation would not preclude the firms involved from continuing to represent clients with adverse interests in the same or related matters, so long as the conditions of Rule 1.10(b) and (c) concerning confidentiality have been met~~with the personally prohibited lawyer.

1 Rule 1.11. ~~Successive government and private employment.~~ Special Conflicts of 2 Interest for Former and Current Government Employees.

3 (a) Except as law may otherwise expressly permit, a lawyer who has formerly 4 served as a public officer or employee of the government: ~~shall not represent a private~~ 5 ~~client in connection with a matter in which the lawyer participated personally and~~
6 ~~substantially as a public officer or employee, unless the appropriate government agency~~
7 ~~consents after consultation. No lawyer in a firm with which that lawyer is associated may~~ 8 ~~knowingly undertake or continue representation in such a matter unless:~~

9 (a)(1) is subject to Rule 1.9(c); and

10 (a)(2) shall not otherwise represent a client in connection with a matter in which the 11 lawyer participated personally and substantially as a public officer or employee, unless 12 the appropriate government agency gives its informed consent, confirmed in writing, to 13 the representation.

14 (b) When a lawyer is disqualified from representation under paragraph (a), no lawyer
15 in a firm with which that lawyer is associated may knowingly undertake or continue 16 representation in such a matter unless:

17 (b)(1) If the disqualified lawyer is timely screened from any participation in the matter
18 and is apportioned no part of the fee therefrom; and

19 (b)(2) Written notice is promptly given to the appropriate government agency to 20 enable it to ascertain compliance with the provisions of this Rule.

21 ~~(bc)~~ Except as law may otherwise expressly permit, a lawyer having information that 22 the lawyer knows is confidential government information about a person acquired when 23 the lawyer was a public officer or employee may not represent a private client whose 24 interests are adverse to that person in a matter in which the information could be used
25 to the material disadvantage of that person. ~~unless the appropriate government client~~
26 ~~consents after consultation with the lawyer.~~ As used in this Rule, the term “confidential 27 government information” means information that has been obtained under governmental 28 authority and which at the time the Rule is applied, the government is prohibited by law
29 from disclosing to the public or has a legal privilege not to disclose and which is not 30 otherwise available to the public. A firm with which that lawyer is associated may 31 undertake or continue representation in the matter only if the disqualified lawyer is

32 screened from any participation in the matter and is apportioned no part of the fee 33 therefrom.

34 ~~(ed)~~ Except as law may otherwise expressly permit, a lawyer serving as a public 35 officer or employee ~~shall not~~:

36 ~~(1) Participate in a matter in which the lawyer participated personally and~~ 37 ~~substantially while in private practice or nongovernmental employment, unless under~~ 38 ~~applicable law no one is, or by lawful delegation may be, authorized to act in the~~ 39 ~~lawyer's stead in the matter; or~~

40 ~~(2) Negotiate for private employment with any person who is involved as a party or~~ 41 ~~as attorney for a party in a matter in which the lawyer is participating personally and~~ 42 ~~substantially, unless the appropriate government client consents after consultation with~~ 43 ~~the lawyer.~~

44 (d)(1) is subject to Rules 1.7 and 1.9; and

45 (d)(2) shall not:

46 (d)(2)(i) participate in a matter in which the lawyer participated personally and 47 substantially while in private practice or nongovernmental employment, unless the 48 appropriate government agency gives its informed consent, confirmed in writing; or

49 (d)(2)(ii) negotiate for private employment with any person who is involved as a party 50 or as lawyer for a party in a matter in which the lawyer is participating personally and 51 substantially, except that a lawyer serving as a law clerk to a judge, other adjudicative
52 officer or arbitrator may negotiate for private employment as permitted by Rule 1.12(b)
53 and subject to the conditions stated in Rule 1.12(b).

54 ~~(de)~~ As used in this Rule, the term "matter" includes:

55 (e)(1) Any judicial or other proceeding, application, request for a ruling or other 56 determination, contract, claim, controversy, investigation, charge, accusation, arrest or 57 other particular matter involving a specific party or parties; and

58 (e)(2) Any other matter covered by the conflict of interest rules of the appropriate 59 government agency.

60 ~~(e) As used in this Rule, the term "confidential government information" means~~ 61 ~~information which has been obtained under governmental authority and which, at the~~ 62 ~~time this Rule is applied, the government is prohibited by law from disclosing to the~~ ~~public or has a legal privilege not to disclose and which is not otherwise available to the public.~~

Comment

~~This Rule prevents a lawyer from exploiting public office for the advantage of a private client. It is the counterpart of Rule 1.10(b), which applies to lawyers moving from one firm to another.~~

[1] A lawyer representing a government agency, whether employed or specifically retained by the government, who has served or is currently serving as a public office or employee is personally subject to the Rules of Professional Conduct, including the prohibition against representing adverse interests concurrent conflicts of interest stated in Rule 1.7 and the protections afforded former clients in Rule 1.9. In addition, such a lawyer is may be subject to Rule 1.11 and to statutes and government regulations regarding conflicts of interest. Such statutes and regulations may circumscribe the extent to which the government agency may give consent under this Rule. See Rule 1.0(e) for the definition of informed consent.

[2] Paragraphs (a)(1), (a)(2) and (d)(1) restate the obligations of an individual lawyer who has served or is currently serving as an officer or employee of the government toward a former government or private client. Rule 1.10 is not applicable to the conflicts of interest addressed by this Rule. Rather, paragraph (b) sets forth a special imputation rule for former government lawyers that provides for screening and notice. Because of the special problems raised by imputation within a government agency, paragraph (d) does not impute the conflicts of a lawyer currently serving as an officer or employee of the government to other associated government officers or employees, although ordinarily it will be prudent to screen such lawyers.

[3] Paragraphs (a)(2) and (d)(2) apply regardless of whether a lawyer is adverse to a former client and are thus designed not only to protect the former client, but also to prevent a lawyer from exploiting public office for the advantage of another client. For example, a lawyer who has pursued a claim on behalf of the government may not pursue the same claim on behalf of a later private client after the lawyer has left government service, except when authorized to do so by the government agency under paragraph (a). Similarly, a lawyer who has pursued a claim on behalf of a private client may not pursue the claim on behalf of the government, except when authorized to do so by paragraph (d). As with paragraphs (a)(1) and (d)(1), Rule 1.10 is not applicable to the conflicts of interest addressed by these paragraphs.

[4] ~~Where~~ This Rule represents a balancing of interests. On the one hand, where the successive clients are a ~~public government~~ agency and ~~a private another~~ client, ~~public or private~~, the risk exists that power or discretion vested in ~~that agency a public authority~~ might be used for the special benefit of ~~a private the other~~ client. A lawyer should not be in a position where benefit to ~~a private the other~~ client might affect performance of the lawyer's professional functions on behalf of ~~the government public authority~~. Also, unfair advantage could accrue to the ~~private other~~ client by reason of access to confidential government information about the client's adversary obtainable only through the lawyer's government service. ~~However~~ On the other hand, the rules governing lawyers presently or formerly employed by a government agency should not be so restrictive as to inhibit transfer of employment to and from the government. The government has a legitimate need to attract qualified lawyers as well as to maintain high ethical standards. Thus a former government lawyer is disqualified only from particular matters in which the lawyer participated personally and substantially. The provisions for screening and waiver in paragraph (b) are necessary to prevent the disqualification rule from imposing too severe a deterrent against entering public service. The limitation of disqualification in paragraphs (a)(2) and (d)(2) to matters involving a specific party or parties, rather than extending disqualification to all substantive issues on which the lawyer worked, serves a similar function.

[5] When ~~the client is an agency of a~~ lawyer has been employed by one government agency and then moves to a second government agency, it may be appropriate to treat that ~~second~~ agency ~~should be treated as a private another~~ client for purposes of this Rule ~~if the lawyer thereafter represents an agency of another government~~, as when a lawyer ~~represents~~ is employed by a city and subsequently is employed by a federal agency. However, because the conflict of interest is governed by paragraph (d), the latter agency is not required to screen the lawyer as paragraph (b) requires a law firm to do. The question of whether two government agencies should be regarded as the same or different clients for conflict of interest purposes is beyond the scope of these Rules.

See Rule 1.13 Comment [6].

[6] Paragraphs ~~(a)(1) and (b)~~ and (c) contemplate a screening arrangement. See Rule 1.0(k) (requirements for screening procedures). These paragraphs do not prohibit a lawyer from receiving a salary or partnership share established by prior independent agreement. ~~They prohibit, but that lawyer may not receive compensation~~ directly relating the attorney's compensation to the fee in the matter in which the lawyer is disqualified.

[7] Notice, including a description of the screened lawyer's prior representation and of the screening procedures employed, generally should be given as soon as practicable after the need for screening becomes apparent.

Paragraph ~~(a)(2)~~ does not require that a lawyer give notice to the government agency at a time when premature disclosure would injure the client; a requirement for premature disclosure might preclude engagement of the lawyer. Such notice is, however, required to be given as soon as practicable in order that the government agency will have a reasonable opportunity to ascertain that the lawyer is complying with Rule 1.11 and to take appropriate action if it believes the lawyer is not complying.

[8] Paragraph ~~(b)~~(c) operates only when the lawyer in question has knowledge of the information, which means actual knowledge; it does not operate with respect to information that merely could be imputed to the lawyer.

[9] Paragraphs (a) and ~~(e)~~ do not prohibit a lawyer from jointly representing a private party and a government agency when doing so is permitted by Rule 1.7 and is not otherwise prohibited by law.

Paragraph ~~(c)~~ does not disqualify other lawyers in the agency with which the lawyer in question has become associated.

[10] For purposes of paragraph (e) of this Rule, a "matter" may continue in another form. In determining whether two particular matters are the same, the lawyer should consider the extent to which the matters involve the same basic facts, the same or related parties, and the time elapsed.

~~Rule 1.12. Former judge or arbitrator.~~

Rule 1.12. Former Judge, Arbitrator, Mediator or Other Third-Party Neutral.

(a) Except as stated in paragraph (d), a lawyer shall not represent anyone in connection with a matter in which the lawyer participated personally and substantially as a judge or other adjudicative officer, ~~arbitrator~~ or law clerk to such a person, or as an arbitrator, mediator or other third-party neutral, unless all parties to the proceeding give informed consent ~~after consultation, confirmed in writing.~~

(b) A lawyer shall not negotiate for employment with any person who is involved as a party or as ~~attorney~~ lawyer for a party in a matter in which the lawyer is participating personally and substantially as a judge or other adjudicative officer or as an arbitrator, mediator or other third-party neutral. A lawyer serving as a law clerk to a judge, ~~or~~ other adjudicative officer ~~or arbitrator~~ may negotiate for employment with a party or ~~attorney~~ lawyer involved in a matter in which the clerk is participating personally and substantially, but only after the lawyer has notified the judge, ~~or~~ other adjudicative officer ~~or arbitrator.~~

(c) If a lawyer is disqualified by paragraph (a), no lawyer in a firm with which that lawyer is associated may knowingly undertake or continue representation in the matter unless:

(c)(1) The the disqualified lawyer is timely screened from any participation in the matter and is apportioned no part of the fee from that matter; and

(c)(2) Written-written notice is promptly given to the parties and any appropriate tribunal, ~~to enable it to ascertain compliance with the provisions of this Rule.~~

(d) An arbitrator selected as a partisan of a party in a multimember arbitration panel is not prohibited from subsequently representing that party.

Comment

[1] This Rule generally parallels Rule 1.11. The term "personally and substantially" signifies that a judge who was a member of a multimember court, and thereafter left judicial office to practice law, is not prohibited from representing a client in a matter pending in the court, but in which the former judge did not participate. So also the fact that a former judge exercised administrative responsibility in a court does not prevent the former judge from acting as a lawyer in a matter where the judge had previously exercised remote or incidental administrative responsibility that did not affect the merits. Compare the Comment to Rule 1.11. The term "adjudicative officer" includes such officials as judges pro tempore, referees, special masters, hearing officers and other parajudicial officers, and also lawyers who serve as part-time judges. Compliance Canons A(2), B(2) and C of the Model Code of Judicial Conduct provide that a part-time judge, judge pro tempore or retired judge recalled to active service, may not "act as a lawyer in any proceeding in which he served as a judge or in any other proceeding related thereto." Although phrased differently from this Rule, those rules correspond in meaning.

[2] Like former judges, lawyers who have served as arbitrators, mediators or other third-party neutrals may be asked to represent a client in a matter in which the lawyer participated personally and substantially. This Rule prohibits such representation unless all of the parties to the proceedings give their informed consent, confirmed in writing. See Rule 1.0(e) and (b). Other law or codes of ethics governing third-party neutrals may impose more stringent standards of personal or imputed disqualification. See Rule 2.4.

[3] Although lawyers who serve as third-party neutrals do not have information concerning the parties that is protected under Rule 1.6, they typically owe the parties an obligation of confidentiality under law or codes of ethics governing third-party neutrals. Thus, paragraph (c) provides that conflicts of the personally disqualified lawyer will be imputed to other lawyers in a law firm unless the conditions of this paragraph are met.

[4] Requirements for screening procedures are stated in Rule 1.0(k). Paragraph (c)(1) does not prohibit the screened lawyer from receiving a salary or partnership share established by prior independent agreement, but that lawyer may not receive compensation directly related to the matter in which the lawyer is disqualified.

[5] Notice, including a description of the screened lawyer's prior representation and of the screening procedures employed, generally should be given as soon as practicable after the need for screening becomes apparent.

Rule 1.13. Organization as a Client.

(a) A lawyer employed or retained by an organization represents the organization acting through its duly authorized constituents.

(b) If ~~in a matter related to the representation of a lawyer for~~ an organization ~~a lawyer~~ knows that an officer, employee or other person associated with the organization is engaged in action, intends to ~~engage in,~~ act or refuses to ~~take action in~~ act in a matter related to the representation that is a violation of a legal obligation ~~of to~~ the organization, or a violation of law that ~~may~~ reasonably might be imputed to the organization, and that is likely to result in substantial injury to the organization, then the lawyer shall proceed as is reasonably necessary in the best interest of the organization.

~~In determining how to proceed, the lawyer shall give due consideration to the seriousness of the violation and its consequences, the scope and nature of the lawyer's representation, the responsibility in the organization and the apparent motivation of the person involved, the policies of the organization concerning such matters and any other relevant considerations. Any measures taken shall be designed to minimize disruption of the organization and the risk of revealing information relating to the representation to persons outside the organization, except as required by law or other rules of professional conduct. Such measures may include among others:~~

~~(b)(1) asking reconsideration of the matter;~~

~~(b)(2) advising that a separate legal opinion on the matter be sought for presentation to appropriate authority in the organization; and~~

~~(b)(3) referring~~ Unless the lawyer reasonably believes that it is not necessary in the best interest of the organization to do so, the lawyer shall refer the matter to higher authority in the organization, including, if warranted by the circumstances, seriousness of the matter, referral to the highest authority that can act ~~in~~ on behalf of the organization as determined by applicable law.

(c) Except as provided in paragraph (d), if,

(c)(1) despite the lawyer's efforts in accordance with paragraph (b), the highest authority that can act on behalf of the organization insists upon or fails to address in a timely and appropriate manner an action, or a refusal to act, that is clearly a violation of law ~~and is likely to result in substantial injury to the organization,~~ and

(c)(2) the lawyer reasonably believes that the violation is reasonably certain to result in substantial injury to the organization, then the lawyer ~~may~~^{has} "good cause" to resign or withdraw, as appropriate, under Rule 1.16(b)(6) reveal information relating to the representation whether or not Rule 1.6 permits such disclosure, but only if and to the extent the lawyer reasonably believes necessary to prevent substantial injury to the organization.

(d) Paragraph (c) shall not apply with respect to information relating to a lawyer's representation of an organization to investigate an alleged violation of law or to defend the organization or an officer, employee or other constituent associated with the organization against a claim arising out of an alleged violation of law.

(e) A lawyer who has been discharged and reasonably believes the discharge was because of the lawyer's actions taken pursuant to paragraphs (b) or (c), or who withdraws under circumstances that require or permit the lawyer to take action under either of those paragraphs, shall proceed as the lawyer reasonably believes necessary to ensure that the organization's highest authority is informed of the lawyer's discharge or withdrawal.

~~(d)(f)~~ In dealing with an organization's directors, officers, employees, members, shareholders or other constituents, a lawyer shall explain the identity of the client when ~~it is apparent that the organization's~~ the lawyer knows or reasonably should know that the organization's interests are adverse to those of the constituents with whom the lawyer is dealing.

~~(e)(g)~~ A lawyer representing an organization may also represent any of its directors, officers, employees, members, shareholders or other constituents, subject to the provisions of Rule 1.7. If the organization's consent to the dual representation is required by Rule 1.7, the consent shall be given by ~~a person or entity,~~ an appropriate official of the organization other than the individual who is to be represented, ~~or by the shareholders, properly authorized by the organization.~~

~~(f)(h)~~ A lawyer elected, appointed, retained, or employed to represent a governmental entity shall be considered for the purpose of this rule as representing an organization. The government lawyer's client is the governmental entity except as the representation or duties are otherwise required by law. The responsibilities of the lawyer in paragraphs (b) and (c) may be modified by the duties required by law for the government lawyer.

Comment

The Entity as the Client

~~Organizations subject to this rule include corporations, partnerships, joint ventures, unincorporated associations, governmental bodies and agencies, and any other entity that acts collectively rather than as one or more individuals acting singly.~~

[1] An organizational client is a legal entity, but it cannot act except through its officers, directors, employees, shareholders and other constituents. Officers, directors, employees and shareholders are the constituents of the corporate organizational client. The duties defined in this Comment apply equally to unincorporated associations. "Other constituents" as used in this Comment means the positions equivalent to officers, directors, employees and shareholders held by persons acting for organizational clients that are not corporations.

[2] When one of the constituents of an organizational client communicates with the organization's lawyer in that person's organizational capacity, the communication is protected by Rule 1.6. Thus, by way of example, if an organizational client requests its lawyer to investigate allegations of wrongdoing, interviews made in the course of that investigation between the lawyer and the client's employees or other constituents are covered by Rule 1.6. This does not mean, however, that constituents of an organizational client are the clients of the lawyer. The lawyer may not disclose to ~~the organization's employees and such~~ constituents information relating to the representation except for disclosures explicitly or impliedly authorized by the organizational client in order to carry out the representation or as otherwise permitted by Rule 1.6.

[3] When constituents of the organization make decisions for it, the decisions ordinarily must be accepted by the lawyer even if their utility or prudence is doubtful. Decisions concerning policy and operations, including ones entailing serious risk, are not as such in the lawyer's province. Paragraph (b) makes clear, however, that when the lawyer knows that the organization is likely to be substantially injured by action of an officer or other constituent that violates a legal obligation to the organization or is in violation of law. If a lawyer undertakes action under subparagraph (b)(3), clear justification should exist for seeking review over the head of the constituent normally responsible for it. The stated policy of the organization may define circumstances and prescribe channels for such review, and a lawyer should encourage the formulation of such a policy. Even in the absence of organization policy, however, the lawyer may have an obligation to refer a matter to higher authority, depending on the seriousness of the matter and whether the constituent in question has apparent motives to act at variance with the organization's interest. Review by the chief executive officer or by the board of directors may be required when the matter is of importance commensurate with their authority. that might be imputed to the organization, the lawyer must proceed as is reasonably necessary in the best interest of the organization. As defined in Rule 1.0(f), knowledge can be inferred from circumstances, and a lawyer cannot ignore the obvious.

[4] In determining how to proceed under paragraph (b), the lawyer should give due consideration to the seriousness of the violation and its consequences, the responsibility in the organization and the apparent motivation of the person involved, the policies of the organization concerning such matters, and any other relevant considerations. Ordinarily, referral to a higher authority would be necessary. In some circumstances, however, it may be appropriate for the lawyer to ask the constituent to reconsider the matter; for example, if the circumstances involve a constituent's innocent misunderstanding of law and subsequent acceptance of the lawyer's advice, the lawyer may reasonably conclude that the best interest of the organization does not require that the matter be referred to higher authority. If a constituent persists in conduct contrary to the lawyer's advice, it will be necessary for the lawyer to take steps to have the matter reviewed by a higher authority in the organization. If the matter is of sufficient seriousness and importance or urgency to the organization, referral to higher authority in the organization may be necessary even if the lawyer has not communicated with the constituent. Any measures taken should, to the extent practicable, minimize the risk of revealing information relating to the representation to persons outside the organization. Even in circumstances where a lawyer is not obligated by Rule 1.13 to proceed, a lawyer may bring to the attention of an organizational client, including its highest authority, matters that the lawyer reasonably believes to be of sufficient importance to warrant doing so in the best interest of the organization.

[5] Paragraph (b) also makes clear that when it is reasonably necessary to enable the organization to address the matter in a timely and appropriate manner, the lawyer must refer to higher authority, including, if warranted by the circumstances, the highest authority that can act on behalf of the organization under applicable law. The organization's highest authority to whom a matter may be referred ordinarily will be the board of directors or similar governing body. However, applicable law may prescribe that under certain conditions the highest authority reposes elsewhere, for example, in the independent directors of a corporation.

Relation to Other Rules

[6] The authority and responsibility provided in ~~paragraph (b) of this Rule~~ are concurrent with the authority and responsibility provided in other ~~Rules~~rules. In particular, this Rule does not limit or expand the lawyer's responsibility under Rules ~~4.6~~, 1.8, ~~1.44~~1.16, 3.3 or 4.1. ~~Paragraph (c) of this Rule supplements Rule 1.6(b) by providing an additional basis upon which the lawyer may reveal information relating to the representation, but does not modify, restrict or limit the provisions of Rule 1.6(b)(1) – (6). Under paragraph (c) the lawyer may reveal such information only when the organization's highest authority insists upon or fails to address threatened or ongoing action that is clearly a violation of law, and then only to the extent the lawyer reasonably believes necessary to prevent reasonably certain substantial injury to the organization. It is not necessary that the lawyer's services be used in furtherance of the violation, but it is required that the matter be related to the lawyer's representation of the organization.~~ If the lawyer's services are being used by an organization to further a crime or fraud by the organization, Rules ~~1.6(b)(2) and 1.6(b)(3) may permit the lawyer to disclose confidential information. In such circumstances,~~1.2(e) and Rule 1.2(d) are ~~may also be~~ applicable, in which event, withdrawal from the representation under Rule ~~1.16(a)(1) may be required.~~

[7] Paragraph (d) makes clear that the authority of a lawyer to disclose information relating to a representation in circumstances described in paragraph (c) does not apply with respect to information relating to a lawyer's engagement by an organization to investigate an alleged violation of law or to defend the organization or an officer, employee or other person associated with the organization against a claim arising out of an alleged violation of law. This is necessary in order to enable organizational clients to enjoy the full benefits of legal counsel in conducting an investigation or defending against a claim.

[8] A discharged lawyer who reasonably believes the discharge was because of the lawyer's actions taken pursuant to paragraph (b) or (c), or who withdraws in circumstances that require or permit the lawyer to take action under either of these paragraphs, must proceed as the lawyer reasonably believes necessary to ensure that the organization's highest authority is informed of the lawyer's discharge or withdrawal.

Clarifying the Lawyer's Role

[9] There are times when the organization's interest may be or become adverse to those of one or more of its constituents. In such circumstances the lawyer should advise any constituent whose interest the lawyer finds adverse to that of the organization of the conflict or potential conflict of interest, that the lawyer cannot represent such constituent, and that such person may wish to obtain independent representation. Care must be taken to ~~en~~assure that the individual understands that, when there is such adversity of interest, the lawyer for the organization cannot provide legal representation for that constituent individual, and that discussions between the lawyer for the organization and the individual may not be privileged.

[10] Whether such a warning should be given by the lawyer for the organization to any constituent individual may turn on the facts of the case.

Dual Representation

[11] Paragraph (g) recognizes that a lawyer for an organization may also represent a principal officer or major shareholder.

Derivative Actions

[12] ~~When shareholders, association members, partners or other organization constituents~~ Under some circumstances, the shareholders or members of a corporation may bring suit to compel the directors ~~or other managers of the organization~~ to perform their legal obligations in the supervision of the organization., ~~the~~ Members of unincorporated associations have essentially the same right. Such an action may be brought nominally by the organization, but usually is, in fact, a legal controversy over management of the organization.

[13] The question can arise whether counsel for the organization may defend ~~against~~ such an action. The proposition that the organization is the lawyer's client does not alone resolve the issue. ~~Although many~~ Most derivative actions are a normal incident of an organization's affairs, to be defended by the organization's lawyer like any other suit, ~~a. However, if the~~ claim ~~that~~ involves serious charges of wrongdoing by those in control of the organization ~~may produce~~, a conflict may arise between the lawyer's duty to the organization and the lawyer's relationship with ~~those in control -- the board of directors, for example~~ the board. In those circumstances, Rule 1.7 ~~applies~~ governs who should represent the directors and the organization.

Government Agency

[13a] Utah Rule 1.13, unlike the ABA Model Rule, contains paragraph (h), which deals with the relationship between government lawyers and the government entities they represent. A government lawyer following these legal duties in good faith will not be considered in violation of the ethical standards of this Rule. The duty defined by this rule applies to government lawyers, except to the extent the responsibilities of the government lawyers are otherwise controlled by the duties imposed upon them by law. A government lawyer following those legal duties in good faith will not be considered in violation of the ethical standards of this rule. The government lawyer's client is generally the governmental entity itself, but the client relationship may be further defined by statute, ordinance or other law. A lawyer for the government may have a legal duty to question. The duties defined in this Rule apply to government lawyers and lawyers in military service, except to the extent the responsibilities of the government lawyers are otherwise controlled by the duties imposed upon them by law. Defining precisely the identity of the client and prescribing the resulting obligations of such lawyers may be more difficult in the government context. For example, the government lawyer's client is generally the governmental entity itself, but the relationship between the government lawyer or lawyer in military service and the client may be further defined by statute, regulation, ordinance or other law. This Rule does not limit that authority. the conduct

~~of government officials and perform additional remedial or corrective actions including investigation and prosecution. The lawyer may also have an obligation to divulge information to persons outside the government to respond to illegal or improper conduct of the organizational client or its constituents. The remedial option under paragraph (c) concerning resignation under Rule 1.16 may be inconsistent with the government lawyer's duties under the law. The obligation of the government lawyer may require representation of the public interest as that duty is specified by law.~~ In addition, a lawyer for the government may have a legal duty to question the conduct of government officials and perform additional remedial or corrective actions including investigation and prosecution. The lawyer may also have an obligation to divulge information to persons outside the government to respond to illegal or improper conduct of the organizational client or its constituents. Thus, when the client is a governmental organization, a different balance may be appropriate between maintaining confidentiality and ensuring that the wrongful act is prevented or rectified, where public business is involved. The obligation of the government lawyer may require representation of the public interest as that duty is specified by law.

[13b] When the client is a governmental legislative body (such as the Utah Legislature, a city council, or a county council or commission), a lawyer representing that legislative body may concurrently represent the interests of the majority and minority leadership, members and members-elect, committee members, and staff to the legislative body. In representing the legislative body and the various interests therein, the lawyer is considered to be representing one client and the rules related to conflict of interest and required consent to conflicts do not apply.

~~Rule 1.14. Client under a disability.~~ Rule 1.14. Client with Diminished Capacity.

(a) When a client's ~~ability~~ capacity to make adequately considered decisions in connection with ~~the~~ a representation is ~~impaired~~ diminished, whether because of minority, mental ~~disability~~ impairment or for some other reason, the lawyer shall, as far as reasonably possible, maintain a normal client-lawyer relationship with the client.

(b) ~~A lawyer may seek the appointment of a guardian or take other protective action with respect to a client, only when~~ When the lawyer reasonably believes that the client has diminished capacity, is at risk of substantial physical, financial or other harm unless action is taken and cannot adequately act in the client's own interest, ~~the lawyer may take reasonably necessary protective action, including consulting with individuals or entities that have the ability to take action to protect the client and, in appropriate cases, seeking the appointment of a guardian ad litem, conservator or guardian.~~

(c) Information relating to the representation of a client with diminished capacity is protected by Rule 1.6. When taking protective action pursuant to paragraph (b), the lawyer is impliedly authorized under Rule 1.6(a) to reveal information about the client, but only to the extent reasonably necessary to protect the client's interests.

Comment

[1] The normal client-lawyer relationship is based on the assumption that the client, when properly advised and assisted, is capable of making decisions about important matters. When the client is a minor or ~~has a mental disorder or disability~~ suffers from a diminished mental capacity, however, maintaining the ordinary client-lawyer relationship may not be possible in all respects. In particular, ~~an~~ a ~~severely~~ incapacitated person may have no power to make legally binding decisions. Nevertheless, a client ~~lacking legal competence with diminished capacity~~ often has the ability to understand, deliberate upon, and reach conclusions about matters affecting the client's own well-being. ~~Furthermore, to an increasing extent the law recognizes intermediate degrees of competence.~~ For example, children as young as five or six years of age, and certainly those of ten or twelve, are regarded as having opinions that are entitled to weight in legal proceedings concerning their custody. So also, it is recognized that some persons of advanced age can be quite capable of handling routine financial matters while needing special legal protection concerning major transactions.

[2] The fact that a client ~~has~~ suffers a disability does not diminish the lawyer's obligation to treat the client with attention and respect. ~~If the client does not have~~ Even if the person has a legal representative, ~~such as guardian, conservator, or trustee, the lawyer has the duty to maintain communication and discuss relevant matters with the client, and continue as far as reasonably possible to take action consistent with the client's directions and decisions.~~ the lawyer should as far as possible accord the represented person the status of client, particularly in maintaining communication.

[3] The client may wish to have family members or other persons participate in discussions with the lawyer. When necessary to assist in the representation, the presence of such persons generally does not affect the applicability of the attorney-client evidentiary privilege. Nevertheless, the lawyer must keep the client's interests foremost and, except for protective action authorized under paragraph (b), must look to the client, and not family members, to make decisions on the client's behalf.

[4] If a legal representative has already been appointed for the client, the lawyer should ordinarily look to the representative for decisions on behalf of the client. In matters involving a minor, whether the lawyer should look to the parents as natural guardians may depend on the type of proceeding or matter in which the lawyer is representing the minor. ~~If the client has no legal representative, the lawyer may only seek appointment of a guardian or take other protective action where the lawyer believes the client can not understand and weigh the risks and benefits related to the subject of the representation. This does not authorize the lawyer to take protective action because the client is not acting in what the lawyer considers to be the client's best interest. A client who is making decisions the lawyer believes are ill-considered is not necessarily unable to act in the client's own interest. In determining whether to take protective action, the lawyer may seek guidance from diagnosticians, family members or other interested persons. Disclosure of observations related to the client's condition to a diagnostician or other interested persons for the purposes of taking protective action does not violate Rule 1.6 (Confidentiality of Information) insofar as it is necessary to carry out the representation. If the lawyer determines that some type of protective action is necessary, the protective action should be the least restrictive under the~~ ~~circumstances. The appointment of a guardian is a serious deprivation of the client's rights and ought not be undertaken if other, less drastic, solutions are available. In many circumstances, appointment of a representative may also be expensive or traumatic for the client. The authority to take protective action should be exercised with caution in a limited manner consistent with the nature of the particular lawyer/client relationship and the client's needs. For example, where there is no alternative to the appointment of a guardian but the lawyer/client relationship is limited to a single litigation matter, the least restrictive course for the lawyer might be to seek the appointment of only a guardian ad litem. If the lawyer has a longstanding relationship with the client involving all the client's legal matters, the lawyer may be more broadly authorized to seek appointment of a general guardian. However, it may be sufficient in many circumstances to arrange for a guardian to manage the client's financial affairs, allowing the client to continue managing the client's personal affairs. In limited emergency circumstances, the lawyer may be authorized to make decisions on behalf of a client. An example might be where an incompetent client is about to be evicted. However, the lawyer should take steps for formal appointment of a legal representative after the emergency has passed.~~ If the lawyer represents the guardian as distinct from the ward, and is aware that the guardian is acting adversely to the ward's ward's interest, the lawyer may have an obligation to prevent or rectify the guardian's misconduct. See Rule 1.2(d).

Taking Protective Action

[5] If a lawyer reasonably believes that a client is at risk of substantial physical, financial or other harm unless action is taken, and that a normal client-lawyer relationship cannot be maintained as provided in paragraph (a) because the client lacks sufficient capacity to communicate or to make adequately considered decisions in connection with the representation, then paragraph (b) permits the lawyer to take protective measures deemed necessary. Such measures could include: consulting with family members, using a reconsideration period to permit clarification or improvement of circumstances, using voluntary surrogate decision-making tools such as durable powers of attorney or consulting with support groups, professional services, adult-protective agencies or other individuals or entities that have the ability to protect the client. In

94 taking any protective action, the lawyer should be guided by such factors as the wishes 95 and values of the client to the extent known, the client's best interests and the goals of 96 intruding into the client's decision-making autonomy to the least extent feasible, 97 maximizing client capacities and respecting the client's family and social connections.

98 [6] In determining the extent of the client's diminished capacity, the lawyer should 99 consider and balance such factors as: the client's ability to articulate reasoning leading 100 to a decision, variability of state of mind and ability to appreciate consequences of a 101 decision; the substantive fairness of a decision; and the consistency of a decision with 102 the known long-term commitments and values of the client. In appropriate 103 circumstances, the lawyer may seek guidance from an appropriate diagnostician.

104 [7] If a legal representative has not been appointed, the lawyer should consider 105 whether appointment of a guardian ad litem, conservator or guardian is necessary to 106 protect the client's interests. Thus, if a client with diminished capacity has substantial 107 property that should be sold for the client's benefit, effective completion of the 108 transaction may require appointment of a legal representative. In addition, rules Rules
109 of procedure in litigation generally sometimes provide that minors or persons with a a 110 mental disability shall diminished capacity must be represented by a guardian or next 111 friend if they do not have a general guardian. However, disclosure of the client's
112 disability can In many circumstances, however, appointment of a legal representative 113 may be more expensive or traumatic for the client than circumstances in fact require.
114 Evaluation of such circumstances is a matter entrusted to the professional judgment of 115 the lawyer. In considering alternatives, however, the lawyer should be aware of any law 116 that requires the lawyer to advocate the least restrictive action on behalf of the client.

117 Disclosure of the Client's Condition

118 [8] Disclosure of the client's diminished capacity could adversely affect the 119 client's client's interests. For example, raising the question of disability diminished 120 capacity could, in some circumstances, lead to proceedings for involuntary commitment.
121 The lawyer's Information relating to the representation is protected by Rule 1.6.
122 Therefore, unless authorized to do so, the lawyer may not disclose such information.
123 When taking protective action pursuant to paragraph (b), the lawyer is impliedly 124 authorized to make the necessary disclosures, even when the client directs the lawyer to the contrary. Nevertheless, given the risks of disclosure, paragraph (c) limits what the lawyer may disclose in consulting with other individuals or entities or seeking the appointment of a legal representative. At the very least, the lawyer should determine whether it is likely that the person or entity consulted with will act adversely to the client's interests before discussing matters related to the client. The lawyer's position in such cases is an unavoidably difficult one.

~~The lawyer may seek guidance from an appropriate diagnostician.~~

Emergency Legal Assistance

[9] In an emergency where the health, safety or a financial interest of a person with seriously diminished capacity is threatened with imminent and irreparable harm, a lawyer may take legal action on behalf of such a person even though the person is unable to establish a client-lawyer relationship or to make or express considered judgments about the matter, when the person or another acting in good faith on that person's behalf has consulted with the lawyer. Even in such an emergency, however, the lawyer should not act unless the lawyer reasonably believes that the person has no other lawyer, agent or other representative available. The lawyer should take legal action on behalf of the person only to the extent reasonably necessary to maintain the status quo or otherwise avoid imminent and irreparable harm. A lawyer who undertakes to represent a person in such an exigent situation has the same duties under these Rules as the lawyer would with respect to a client.

[10] A lawyer who acts on behalf of a person with seriously diminished capacity in an emergency should keep the confidences of the person as if dealing with a client, disclosing them only to the extent necessary to accomplish the intended protective action. The lawyer should disclose to any tribunal involved and to any other counsel involved the nature of his or her relationship with the person. The lawyer should take steps to regularize the relationship or implement other protective solutions as soon as possible. Normally, a lawyer would not seek compensation for such emergency actions taken.

1 Rule 1.15. Safekeeping ~~P~~property.

2 (a) A lawyer shall hold property of clients or third persons that is in a lawyer's
3 possession in connection with a representation separate from the lawyer's own
4 property. Funds shall be kept in a separate account maintained in the state where the 5 lawyer's office is situated or elsewhere with the consent of the client or third person. The 6 account may only be maintained in a financial institution ~~which~~ that agrees to report to 7 the Office of Professional Conduct in the event any instrument in properly payable form
8 is presented against an attorney trust account containing insufficient funds, irrespective 9 of whether or not the instrument is honored. Other property shall be identified as such 10 and appropriately safeguarded. Complete records of such account funds and other 11 property shall be kept by the lawyer and shall be preserved for a period of five years
12 after termination of the representation.

13 (b) A lawyer may deposit the lawyer's own funds in a client trust account for the sole 14 purpose of paying bank service charges on that account, but only in an amount 15 necessary for that purpose.

16 (c) A lawyer shall deposit into a client trust account legal fees and expenses that 17 have been paid in advance, to be withdrawn by the lawyer only as fees are earned or 18 expenses incurred.

19 (d) Upon receiving funds or other property in which a client or third person has an 20 interest, a lawyer shall promptly notify the client or third person. Except as stated in this 21 Rule or otherwise permitted by law or by agreement with the client, a lawyer shall 22 promptly deliver to the client or third person any funds or other property that the client or 23 third person is entitled to receive and, upon request by the client or third person, shall 24 promptly render a full accounting regarding such property.

25 (e) When in the course of representation a lawyer is in possession of property in 26 which ~~both two or more persons (one of whom may be~~ the lawyer) ~~and another person~~
27 claim interests, the property shall be kept separate by the lawyer until ~~there is an~~ 28 ~~accounting and severance of their interests. If a dispute arises concerning their~~ 29 ~~respective interests, the portion in dispute shall be kept separate by the lawyer until the~~ 30 ~~dispute is resolved~~ the dispute is resolved. The lawyer shall promptly distribute all 31 portions of the property as to which the interests are not in dispute.

32 Comment

33 [1] A lawyer should hold property of others with the care required of a professional 34 fiduciary. Securities should be kept in a safe deposit box, except when some other form
 35 of safekeeping is warranted by special circumstances. All property which is the property 36 of clients or third persons, ~~should including prospective clients, must~~ be kept separate 37 from the lawyer's business and personal property and, if monies, in one or more trust
 38 accounts. Separate trust accounts may be warranted when administering estate monies
 39 or acting in similar fiduciary capacities. In addition to normal monthly maintenance fees
 40 on each account, the lawyers can anticipate that financial institutions may charge 41 additional fees for reporting overdrafts in accordance with this ~~R~~rule. A lawyer should 42 maintain on a current basis books and records in accordance with generally accepted 43 accounting practice and comply with any recordkeeping rules established by law or 44 court order. See, e.g., ABA Model Financial Recordkeeping Rule.

45 [2] While normally it is impermissible to commingle the lawyer's own funds with 46 client funds, paragraph (b) provides that it is permissible when necessary to pay bank 47 service charges on that account. Accurate records must be kept regarding which part of 48 the funds are the lawyer's.

49 [3] Lawyers often receive funds from third parties from which the lawyer's fee will be 50 paid. ~~If there is risk that the client may divert the funds without paying the fee, the~~ The 51 lawyer is not required to remit ~~the portion from which the fee is to be paid to the client~~
 52 funds that the lawyer reasonably believes represent fees owed. However, a lawyer may 53 not hold funds to coerce a client into accepting the lawyer's contention. The disputed 54 portion of the funds ~~should~~ must be kept in a trust account, and the lawyer should 55 suggest means for prompt resolution of the dispute, such as arbitration. The undisputed 56 portion of the funds shall be promptly distributed.

57 [4] ~~Third Paragraph (e) also recognizes that third parties, such as a client's~~
 58 ~~creditors,~~ may have just-lawful claims against specific funds or other property in a 59 lawyer's custody, such as a client's creditor who has a lien on funds recovered in a 60 personal injury action. A lawyer may have a duty under applicable law to protect such 61 third-party claims against wrongful interference by the client ~~and accordingly may.~~ In 62 such cases, when the third-party claim is not frivolous under applicable law, the lawyer must refuse to surrender the property to the client. ~~However, a~~ until the claims are resolved. A lawyer should not unilaterally assume to arbitrate a dispute between the client and the third party, but, when there are substantial grounds for dispute as to the person entitled to the funds, the lawyer may file an action to have a court resolve the dispute.

[5] The obligations of a lawyer under this Rule are independent of those arising from activity other than rendering legal services. For example, a lawyer who serves as an escrow agent is governed by the applicable law relating to fiduciaries even though the lawyer does not render legal services in the transaction and is not governed by this Rule.

~~A "client's security fund"~~ [6] A lawyers' fund for client protection provides a means through the collective efforts of the Bar to reimburse persons who have lost money or property as a result of dishonest conduct of a lawyer. Where such a fund has been established, a lawyer must participate where it is mandatory, and, even when it is voluntary, the lawyer should participate.

[6a] This Rule is identical to ABA Model Rule 1.15 except it incorporates two sentences that were added to the prior version of this Rule in 1997. These two sentences are the third sentence of paragraph (a) of the Rule and the corresponding fifth sentence of Comment [1].

Rule 1.17. Sale of ~~L~~aw ~~P~~ractice.

A lawyer or a law firm may sell or purchase a law practice or an area of practice, including good will, if the following conditions are satisfied:

(a) The seller ceases to engage in the private practice of law, or in the area of practice that has been sold in the geographic area in which the practice has been conducted;

(b) The entire practice, or the entire area of practice, is sold to one or more lawyers or law firms;

(c) The seller gives written notice ~~is given~~ to each of the seller's clients regarding:

(c)(a1) the proposed sale; ~~(b) and the terms identity of any proposed change in the fee arrangement purchaser~~;

(c)(e2) the client's right to retain other counsel or to take possession of the file; and

(c)(d3) the fact that the client's consent to the sale transfer of the client's files will be presumed if the client does not take any action or does not otherwise ~~respond object~~ within ~~90 days of ninety~~ (90) days of mailing of the notice; and

(d) The fees charged clients are not increased by reason of the sale.

Comment

[1] The practice of law is a profession, not merely a business. Clients are not commodities who can be purchased and sold at will. Pursuant to this Rule, when a lawyer or an entire firm ceases to practice, or ceases to practice in an area of law, and other lawyers or firms take over the representation, the selling lawyer or firm may obtain compensation for the reasonable value of the practice as may withdrawing partners of law firms. See Rules 5.4 and 5.6.

Notification

In complying with this ~~r~~Rule, a seller must undertake ~~due diligence reasonable steps~~ in locating the clients who would be subject to the sale of the practice or area of clients who would be subject to the sale of the practice. Typically, this would require attempts to contact the client at the last known address.

Client Confidences, Consent and Notice

~~Negotiations between seller and prospective purchaser prior to disclosure of information relating to a specific representation of an identifiable client do~~

Termination of Practice by the Seller

[2] The requirement that all of the private practice, or all of an area of practice, be sold is satisfied if the seller in good faith makes the entire practice or area of practice available for sale to the purchasers. The fact that a number of the seller's clients decide not to be represented by the purchasers but take their matters elsewhere, therefore, does not result in a violation. Return to private practice as a result of an unanticipated change in circumstances does not necessarily result in a violation. For example, a lawyer who has sold the practice to accept an appointment to judicial office does not violate the requirement that the sale be attendant to cessation of practice if the lawyer later resumes private practice upon being defeated in a contested or retention election for the office or resigns from a judiciary position.

[3] The requirement that the seller cease to engage in the private practice of law in the geographic area does not prohibit employment as a lawyer on the staff of a public agency or a legal services entity that provides legal services to the poor or as in-house counsel to a business.

[4] The Rule permits a sale of an entire practice attendant upon retirement from the private practice of law within the geographic area.

[5] This Rule also permits a lawyer or law firm to sell an area of practice. If an area of practice is sold, the law firm or the lawyer remaining in the active practice of law must cease accepting any matters in the area of practice that has been sold, either as counsel or co-counsel or by assuming joint responsibility for a matter in connection with the division of a fee with another lawyer as would otherwise be permitted by Rule 1.5(e). Selling a law practice or an area of practice is distinct from selling an ownership interest in a law firm, and nothing in this Rule prohibits the latter even when the divesting lawyer remains active in the practice of law as a non-owning associate or in an of counsel capacity. For example, a lawyer or law firm with a substantial number of estate planning matters and a substantial number of probate administration cases may sell the estate planning portion of the practice but remain in the practice of law by concentrating on probate administration; however, that practitioner or law firm may not thereafter accept any estate planning matters. Although a lawyer who leaves a geographical area typically would sell the entire practice, this Rule permits the lawyer to limit the sale to one or more areas of the practice, thereby preserving the lawyer's right to continue practice in the areas of the practice that were not sold.

Sale of Entire Practice or Entire Area of Practice

[6] This Rule requires that the seller's entire practice or an entire area of practice be sold. The prohibition against sale of less than an entire practice area protects those clients whose matters are less lucrative and who might find it difficult to secure other counsel if a sale could be limited to substantial fee-generating matters. The purchasers are required to undertake all client matters in the practice or practice area, subject to client consent. This requirement is satisfied, however, even if a purchaser is unable to undertake a particular client matter because of a conflict of interest.

Client Confidences, Consent and Notice

[7] Negotiations between seller and prospective purchaser prior to disclosure of information relating to a specific representation of an identifiable client no more violate the confidentiality provisions of Rule 1.6 than do preliminary discussions concerning the possible association of another lawyer or mergers between firms, with respect to which client consent is not required. Providing the purchaser access to client-specific information relating to the representation and to the file, however, requires client consent. ~~The Rule provides that before such information can be disclosed by the seller to the purchaser, the client must be sent given actual written notice of the contemplated sale, including the identity of the purchaser and any proposed change in the terms of future representation, and must be told that the decision to consent or make other arrangements must be made within 90 days. If nothing is heard from the client within that time, consent to the sale is presumed.~~ All the [8] Intentionally omitted as unnecessary.

[9] All elements of client autonomy, including the client's absolute right to discharge a lawyer and transfer the representation to another, survive the sale of the practice or area of practice.

Fee Arrangements Between Client and Purchaser

[10] The sale may not be financed by increases in fees charged to clients of the practice. Existing agreements between the seller and the client as to fees and the scope of the work must be honored by the purchaser.

Other Applicable Ethical Standards

[11] Lawyers participating in the sale of a law practice or a practice area are subject to the ethical standards applicable to involving another lawyer in the representation of a client. These include, for example, the seller's obligation to exercise competence in identifying a purchaser qualified to assume the practice and the purchaser's obligation to undertake the representation competently (see Rule 1.1); to charge reasonable fees (see Rule 1.5); to protect client confidences (see Rule 1.6); to resolve conflict situations (see Rules 1.7; 1.9 and Rule 1.0(e) for the definition of informed consent); to releases of liability (see Rule 1.8(h); and to withdrawal of representation (see Rule 1.16)).

[12] If approval of the substitution of the purchasing lawyer for the selling lawyer is required by the rules of any tribunal in which a matter is pending, such approval must be obtained before the matter can be included in the sale (see Rule 1.16).

Applicability of the Rule

[13] This Rule applies to the sale of a law practice by representatives of a deceased, disabled or disappeared lawyer. Thus, the seller may be represented by a nonlawyer representative not subject to these Rules. Since, however, no lawyer may participate in a sale of a law practice which does not conform to the requirements of this Rule, the representatives of the seller as well as the purchasing lawyer can be expected to see to it that they are met.

[14] Admission to or retirement from a law partnership or professional association, retirement plans and similar arrangements, and a sale of tangible assets of a law practice, do not constitute a sale or purchase governed by this Rule.

[15] This Rule does not apply to the transfer of legal representation between lawyers when such transfers are unrelated to the sale of a practice or an area of practice.

[15a] This Rule does not prohibit a lawyer from selling an interest in a law firm and thereafter continuing association with the firm or in an of-counsel capacity.

[15b] The body of the ABA Model Rule 1.17 does not provide for inclusion of the identity of the purchaser in the written notice; however, Comment [7] to the ABA Model Rule does indicate that the identity of the purchaser should be given in writing to clients. Utah's Rule 1.17 departs from the ABA Model Rule by requiring only one written notice and enumerating in the body of the rule all required content of the notice.

[15c] Section (c)(3) of Utah's Rule 1.17 deviates from the ABA Model Rule by providing that the 90-day client objection period begins to run from the mailing of the notice. ~~Generally This Rule is intended to provide a means for lawyers to cease the practice of law and realize the value of the practice they have developed. Cessation of practice may be, among other reasons, to retire, take a judicial or other public-service position, undertake a new career or to practice law in another venue. The Rule does not, however, exempt either the selling or purchasing lawyer or firm from complying with other applicable Rules, including Rule 1.5 (requiring reasonable fees), Rule 1.6 (protecting client confidences), Rules 1.7 and 1.9 (requiring resolution of conflicts situations), Rule 1.8(h) (governing releases of liability) and Rule 1.16(d) (governing withdrawal of representation). The Rule does not require the rather than from receipt of the notice. The only practical way to prove receipt would be by commercial courier or certified/registered mail. Proving receipt of notice could therefore be cost-prohibitive, especially to the small sole practitioner. Often when a lawyer does not have a viable address for a client, it is because the subject-matter of the representation has become stale or the client has failed to keep in touch with the lawyer presumably due to a loss of interest in the matter. Both the Utah Rules of Civil Procedure and the Utah Rules of Criminal Procedure allow for notices to be given by regular U.S. mail at the last-known address for the client and provide a presumption of service upon deposit of the notice in the mail, postage pre-paid. There does not appear to be good reason to place a more onerous burden upon a lawyer selling a law practice or area of practice. Whether the client received actual notice of the proposed sale of a practice to a single practitioner or law firm, but it does not permit the seller to "skim" certain clients for one purchaser and designate a less desirable category of clients for another purchaser (or, worse, to abandon them). A situation justifying the sale of a practice to more than one purchaser might involve a practice consisting of two or more discrete areas of the law, each of~~

153 ~~which would be sold to a separate purchaser. Notification~~ or area of practice, the client
154 is not abandoned; there is new counsel to protect the client's existing rights.

155 [15d] The Utah version of Rule 1.17 deletes the provision of the ABA Model Rule
156 (c)(3) relating to obtaining court order for transfer of representation in those instances 157 where the lawyer cannot give and prove actual notice of the proposed sale of a law
158 practice or area of practice to a client. As discussed above, Utah's version of Rule 1.17
159 does not require proof of actual notice of the sale of a law practice or area of practice 160 before the 90-day client objection period begins to run; therefore, it is impossible to 161 know which clients received actual notice and which did not.

162 [15e] The Utah version of Rule 1.17 changes the context of the ABA Model Rule
163 1.17(d) regarding fees from "shall not" to "are" because the ABA wording seemed to be 164 in the nature of a mandate and out of place with the conditional language of the Rule.
165

1 Rule 1.18. Duties to Prospective Client.

2 (a) A person who discusses with a lawyer the possibility of forming a client-lawyer
3 relationship with respect to a matter is a prospective client.

4 (b) Even when no client-lawyer relationship ensues, a lawyer who has had 5 discussions with a prospective client shall not use or reveal information learned in the 6 consultation, except as Rule 1.9 would permit with respect to information of a former 7 client.

8 (c) A lawyer subject to paragraph (b) shall not represent a client with interests
9 materially adverse to those of a prospective client in the same or a substantially related 10 matter if the lawyer received information from the prospective client that could be 11 significantly harmful to that person in the matter, except as provided in paragraph (d). If 12 a lawyer is disqualified from representation under this paragraph, no lawyer in a firm 13 with which that lawyer is associated may knowingly undertake or continue 14 representation in such a matter, except as provided in paragraph (d).

15 (d) When the lawyer has received disqualifying information as defined in paragraph 16 (c), representation is permissible if:

17 (d)(1) both the affected client and the prospective client have given informed 18 consent, confirmed in writing, or;

19 (d)(2) the lawyer who received the information took reasonable measures to avoid 20 exposure to more disqualifying information than was reasonably necessary to determine 21 whether to represent the prospective client; and

22 (d)(2)(i) the disqualified lawyer is timely screened from any participation in the matter
23 and is apportioned no part of the fee therefrom; and 24 (d)(2)(ii) written notice is promptly given to the prospective client.

25 Comment

26 [1] Prospective clients, like clients, may disclose information to a lawyer, place
27 documents or other property in the lawyer's custody or rely on the lawyer's advice. A 28 lawyer's discussions with a prospective client usually are limited in time and depth and 29 leave both the prospective client and the lawyer free (and sometimes required) to 30 proceed no further. Hence, prospective clients should receive some but not all of the 31 protection afforded clients.

32 [2] Not all persons who communicate information to a lawyer are entitled to 33 protection under this Rule. A person who communicates information unilaterally to a 34 lawyer, without any reasonable expectation that the lawyer is willing to discuss the 35 possibility of forming a client-lawyer relationship, is not a "prospective client" within the 36 meaning of paragraph (a).

37 [3] It is often necessary for a prospective client to reveal information to the lawyer
38 during an initial consultation prior to the decision about formation of a client-lawyer
39 relationship. The lawyer often must learn such information to determine whether there is 40 a conflict of interest with an existing client and whether the matter is one that the lawyer
41 is willing to undertake. Paragraph (b) prohibits the lawyer from using or revealing that 42 information, except as permitted by Rule 1.9, even if the client or lawyer decides not to 43 proceed with the representation. The duty exists regardless of how brief the initial 44 conference may be.

45 [4] In order to avoid acquiring disqualifying information from a prospective client, a 46 lawyer considering whether or not to undertake a new matter should limit the initial 47 interview to only such information as reasonably appears necessary for that purpose.
48 Where the information indicates that a conflict of interest or other reason for non-49 representation exists, the lawyer should so inform the prospective client or decline the 50 representation. If the prospective client wishes to retain the lawyer, and if consent is 51 possible under Rule 1.7, then consent from all affected present or former clients must 52 be obtained before accepting the representation.

53 [5] A lawyer may condition conversations with a prospective client on the person's 54 informed consent that no information disclosed during the consultation will prohibit the 55 lawyer from representing a different client in the matter. See Rule 1.0(e) for the 56 definition of informed consent. If the agreement expressly so provides, the prospective 57 client may also consent to the lawyer's subsequent use of information received from the 58 prospective client.

59 [6] Even in the absence of an agreement, under paragraph (c), the lawyer is not 60 prohibited from representing a client with interests adverse to those of the prospective 61 client in the same or a substantially related matter unless the lawyer has received from 62 the prospective client information that could be significantly harmful if used in the 63 matter.

64 [7] Under paragraph (c), the prohibition in this Rule is imputed to other lawyers as 65 provided in Rule 1.10, but, under paragraph (d)(1), imputation may be avoided if the 66 lawyer obtains the informed consent, confirmed in writing, of both the prospective and 67 affected clients. In the alternative, imputation may be avoided if the conditions of 68 paragraph (d)(2) are met and all disqualified lawyers are timely screened and written 69 notice is promptly given to the prospective client. See Rule 1.0(k) (requirements for 70 screening procedures). Paragraph (d)(2)(i) does not prohibit the screened lawyer from 71 receiving a salary or partnership share established by prior independent agreement, but 72 that lawyer may not receive compensation directly related to the matter in which the 73 lawyer is disqualified.

74 [8] Notice, including a general description of the subject matter about which the 75 lawyer was consulted, and of the screening procedures employed, generally should be 76 given as soon as practicable after the need for screening becomes apparent..

77 [9] For the duty of competence of a lawyer who gives assistance on the merits of a 78 matter to a prospective client, see Rule 1.1. For a lawyer's duties when a prospective
79 client entrusts valuables or papers to the lawyer's care, see Rule 1.15.
80

Rule 2.1. Advisor.

In representing a client, a lawyer shall exercise independent professional judgment and render candid advice. In rendering advice, a lawyer may refer not only to law but to other considerations such as moral, economic, social and political factors, that may be relevant to the client's situation.

Comment

Scope of Advice

[1] A client is entitled to straightforward advice expressing the lawyer's honest assessment. Legal advice often involves unpleasant facts and alternatives that a client may be disinclined to confront. In presenting advice, a lawyer endeavors to sustain the client's morale and may put advice in as acceptable a form as honesty permits. However, a lawyer should not be deterred from giving candid advice by the prospect that the advice will be unpalatable to the client.

[2] Advice couched in ~~narrowly narrow~~ legal terms may be of little value to a client, especially where practical considerations, such as ~~costs~~ cost or effects on other people, are predominant. Purely technical legal advice, therefore, can sometimes be inadequate. It is proper for a lawyer to refer to relevant moral and ethical considerations in giving advice. Although a lawyer is not a moral advisor as such, moral and ethical considerations impinge upon most legal questions and may decisively influence how the law will be applied.

[3] A client may expressly or impliedly ask the lawyer for purely technical advice. When such a request is made by a client experienced in legal matters, the lawyer may accept it at face value. When such a request is made by a client inexperienced in legal matters, however, the lawyer's responsibility as advisor may include indicating that more may be involved than strictly legal considerations.

[4] Matters that go beyond strictly legal questions may also be in the domain of another profession. Family matters can involve problems within the professional competence of psychiatry, clinical psychology or social work; business matters can involve problems within the competence of the accounting profession or of financial specialists. Where consultation with a professional in another field is itself something a competent lawyer would recommend, the lawyer should make such a recommendation.

At the same time, a lawyer's advice at its best often consists of recommending a course of action in the face of conflicting recommendations of experts.

Offering Advice

[5] In general, a lawyer is not expected to give advice until asked by the client. However, when a lawyer knows that a client proposes a course of action that is likely to result in substantial adverse legal consequences to the client, the lawyer's duty to the client under Rule 1.4 may require that the lawyer ~~act~~ offer advice if the client's course of action is related to the representation. Similarly, when a matter is likely to involve litigation, it may be necessary under Rule 1.4 to inform the client of forms of dispute resolution that might constitute reasonable alternatives to litigation. A lawyer ordinarily has no duty to initiate investigation of a client's affairs or to give advice that the client has indicated is unwanted, but a lawyer may initiate advice to a client when doing so appears to be in the client's interest.

1 ~~Rule 2.2: Intermediary.~~

2 ~~a) A lawyer may act as intermediary between clients if:~~

3 ~~(1) The lawyer consults with each client concerning the implications of the common~~
4 ~~representation, including the advantages and risks involved, and the effect of the~~
5 ~~attorney-client privileges, and obtains each client's consent to the common~~ 6 ~~representation; and~~

7 ~~(2) The lawyer reasonably believes that the matter can be resolved on terms~~
8 ~~compatible with each client's best interest, that each client will be able to make~~
9 ~~adequately informed decisions in the matter and that there is little risk of material~~ 10 ~~prejudice to the interests of any of the clients if the contemplated resolution is~~ 11 ~~unsuccessful; and~~

12 ~~(3) The lawyer reasonably believes that the common representation can be~~
13 ~~undertaken impartially and without improper effect on other responsibilities the lawyer~~ 14 ~~has to any of the clients; and~~

15 ~~(4) All requirements of Rules 1.7 and 1.8 are met.~~

16 ~~(b) While acting as intermediary, the lawyer shall consult with each client concerning~~ 17 ~~the decisions to be made and the considerations relevant in making them, so that each~~
18 ~~client can make adequately informed decisions.~~

19 ~~(c) A lawyer shall withdraw as intermediary if any of the clients so requests, or if any~~ 20 ~~of the conditions stated in paragraph (a) is no longer satisfied. Upon withdrawal, the~~ 21 ~~lawyer shall not continue to represent any of the clients in the matter that was the~~ 22 ~~subject of the intermediation.~~

23 ~~Comment~~

24 ~~A lawyer acts as intermediary under this Rule when the lawyer represents two or~~ 25 ~~more parties with potentially conflicting interests. A key factor in defining the relationship~~
26 ~~is whether the parties share responsibility for the lawyer's fee, but the common~~
27 ~~representation may be inferred from other circumstances. Because confusion can arise~~
28 ~~as to the lawyer's role where each party is not separately represented, it is important~~
29 ~~that the lawyer make clear the relationship.~~

30 ~~The Rule does not apply to a lawyer acting as arbitrator or mediator between or~~ 31 ~~among parties who are not clients of the lawyer, even where the lawyer has been~~

32 appointed with the concurrence of the parties. In performing such a role the lawyer may 33 be subject to applicable codes of ethics, such as the Code of Ethics for Arbitration in 34 Commercial Disputes prepared by a joint Committee of the American Bar Association
35 and the American Arbitration Association.

36 A lawyer acts as intermediary in seeking to establish or adjust a relationship 37 between clients on an amicable and mutually advantageous basis; for example, in 38 helping to organize a business in which two or more clients are entrepreneurs, working 39 out the financial reorganization of an enterprise in which two or more clients have an 40 interest, arranging a property distribution in settlement of an estate or mediating a 41 dispute between clients. The lawyer seeks to resolve potentially conflicting interests by 42 developing the parties' mutual interests. The alternative can be that each party may 43 have to obtain separate representation, with the possibility in some situations of 44 incurring additional cost, complication or even litigation. Given these and other relevant 45 factors, all the clients may prefer that the lawyer act as intermediary.

46
47 In considering whether to act as intermediary between clients, a lawyer should be
48 mindful that if the intermediation fails the result can be additional cost, embarrassment
49 and recrimination. In some situations the risk of failure is so great that intermediation is 50 plainly impossible. For example, a lawyer cannot undertake common representation of 51 clients between whom contentious litigation is imminent or who contemplate contentious
52 negotiations. More generally, if the relationship between the parties has already 53 assumed definite antagonism, the possibility that the clients' interests can be adjusted 54 by intermediation ordinarily is not very good.

55 The appropriateness of intermediation can depend on its form. Forms of 56 intermediation range from informal arbitration, where each client's case is presented by 57 the respective client and the lawyer decides the outcome, to mediation, to common 58 representation where the clients' interests are substantially though not entirely 59 compatible. One form may be appropriate in circumstances where another would not.
60 Other relevant factors are whether the lawyer subsequently will represent both parties 61 on a continuing basis and whether the situation involves creating a relationship between 62 the parties or terminating one.

~~Confidentiality and Privilege~~

~~A particularly important factor in determining the appropriateness of intermediation is the effect on client-lawyer confidentiality and the attorney-client privilege. In a common representation, the lawyer is still required both to keep each client adequately informed and to maintain confidentiality of information relating to the representation. See Rules 1.4 and 1.6. Complying with both requirements while acting as intermediary requires a delicate balance. If the balance cannot be maintained, the common representation is improper. With regard to the attorney-client privilege, the prevailing rule is that as between commonly represented clients the privilege does not attach. Hence, it must be assumed that if litigation eventuates between the clients, the privilege will not protect any such communications, and the clients should be so advised.~~

~~Since the lawyer is required to be impartial between commonly represented clients, intermediation is improper when that impartiality cannot be maintained. For example, a lawyer who has represented one of the clients for a long period and in a variety of matters might have difficulty being impartial between that client and one to whom the lawyer has only recently been introduced.~~

~~Consultation~~

~~In acting as intermediary between clients, the lawyer is required to consult with the clients on the implications of doing so, and proceed only upon consent based on such a consultation. The consultation should make clear that the lawyer's role is not that of partisanship normally expected in other circumstances.~~

~~Paragraph (b) is an application of the principle expressed in Rule 1.4. Where the lawyer is intermediary, the clients ordinarily must assume greater responsibility for decisions than when each client is independently represented.~~

~~Withdrawal~~

~~Common representation does not diminish the rights of each client in the client-lawyer relationship. Each has the right to loyal and diligent representation, the right to discharge the lawyer as stated in Rule 1.14, and the protection of Rule 1.9 concerning obligations to a former client.~~

Rule 2.3. Evaluation for Use by Third Persons.

(a) A lawyer may ~~undertake~~ provide an evaluation of a matter affecting a client for the use of someone other than the client if: the lawyer reasonably believes that making the evaluation is compatible with other aspects of the lawyer's relationship with the client. ~~;~~ and

~~(2)(b) When the lawyer knows or reasonably should know that the evaluation is likely to affect the client's interests materially and adversely, the lawyer shall not provide the evaluation unless~~ the client gives informed consent.

(c) Except as disclosure is ~~required~~ authorized in connection with a report of an evaluation, information relating to the evaluation is otherwise ~~protected by~~ subject to Rule 1.6.

Comment

Definition

[1] An evaluation may be performed at the client's direction ~~but or when impliedly authorized in order to carry out the representation. See Rule 1.2. Such an evaluation may be~~ for the primary purpose of establishing information for the benefit of third parties; for example, an opinion concerning the title of property rendered at the behest of a vendor for the information of a prospective purchaser, or at the behest of a borrower for the information of a prospective lender. In some situations, the evaluation may be required by a government agency; for example, an opinion concerning the legality of the securities registered for sale under the securities laws. In other instances, the evaluation may be required by a third person, such as a purchaser of a business.

~~Lawyers for the government may be called upon to give a formal opinion on the legality of contemplated government agency action. In making such an evaluation, the government lawyer acts at the behest of the government as the client but for the purpose of establishing the limits of the agency's authorized activity. Such an opinion is to be distinguished from confidential legal advice given agency officials. The critical question is whether the opinion is to be made public.~~

[2] A legal evaluation should be distinguished from an investigation of a person with whom the lawyer does not have a client-lawyer relationship. For example, a lawyer retained by a purchaser to analyze a vendor's title to property does not have a client-lawyer relationship with the vendor. So also, an investigation into a person's affairs by a government lawyer, or by special counsel employed by the government, is not an evaluation as that term is used in this Rule. The question is whether the lawyer is retained by the person whose affairs are being examined. When the lawyer is retained by that person, the general rules concerning loyalty to client and preservation of confidences apply, which is not the case if the lawyer is retained by someone else. For this reason, it is essential to identify the person by whom the lawyer is retained. This should be made clear not only to the person under examination, but also to others to whom the results are to be made available.

Duty Duties owed to Third Person and Client

[3] When the evaluation is intended for the information or use of a third person, a legal duty to that person may or may not arise. That legal question is beyond the scope of this Rule. However, since such an evaluation involves a departure from the normal client-lawyer relationship, careful analysis of the situation is required. The lawyer must be satisfied as a matter of professional judgment that making the evaluation is compatible with other functions undertaken in behalf of the client. For example, if the lawyer is acting as advocate in defending the client against charges of fraud, it would normally be incompatible with that responsibility for the lawyer to perform an evaluation for others concerning the same or a related transaction. Assuming no such impediment is apparent, however, the lawyer should advise the client of the implications of the evaluation, particularly the lawyer's responsibilities to third persons and the duty to disseminate the findings.

Access to and Disclosure of Information

[4] The quality of an evaluation depends on the freedom and extent of the investigation upon which it is based. Ordinarily a lawyer should have whatever latitude of investigation seems necessary as a matter of professional judgment. Under some circumstances, however, the terms of the evaluation may be limited. For example, certain issues or sources may be categorically excluded, or the scope of search may be limited by time constraints or the noncooperation of persons having relevant information. Any such limitations ~~which~~ that are material to the evaluation should be described in the report. If, after a lawyer has commenced an evaluation, the client refuses to comply with the terms upon which it was understood the evaluation was to have been made, the lawyer's obligations are determined by law, having reference to the terms of the client's agreement and the surrounding circumstances. In no circumstances is the lawyer permitted to knowingly make a false statement of material fact or law or fail to disclose a material fact that must otherwise be disclosed under the Rules. See Rule 4.1.

Obtaining Client's Informed Consent

[5] Information relating to an evaluation is subject to Rule 1.6. In many situations, providing an evaluation to a third party poses no significant risk to the client; thus, the lawyer may be impliedly authorized to disclose information to carry out the representation. See Rule 1.6(a). Where, however, it is reasonably likely that providing the evaluation will affect the client's interests materially and adversely, the lawyer must first obtain the client's consent after the client has been adequately informed concerning the important possible effects on the client's interests. See Rules 1.6(a) and 1.0(e).

Financial Auditor's Requests for Information

[6] When a question concerning the legal situation of a client arises at the instance of the client's financial auditor and the question is referred to the lawyer, the lawyer's response may be made in accordance with procedures recognized in the legal profession. Such a procedure is set forth in the American Bar Association Statement of Policy Regarding Lawyers' Responses to Auditors' Requests for Information, adopted in 1975.

1 Rule 2.4. Lawyer Serving as Third-Party Neutral.

2 (a) A lawyer serves as a third-party neutral when the lawyer assists two or more
3 persons who are not clients of the lawyer to reach a resolution of a dispute or other
4 matter that has arisen between them. Service as a third-party neutral may include 5 service as an arbitrator, a mediator or in such other capacity as will enable the lawyer to 6 assist the parties to resolve the matter.

7 (b) A lawyer serving as a third-party neutral shall inform unrepresented parties that 8 the lawyer is not representing them. When the lawyer knows or reasonably should know
9 that a party does not understand the lawyer's role in the matter, the lawyer shall explain 10 the difference between the lawyer's role as a third-party neutral and a lawyer's role as 11 one who represents a client.

12 Comment

13 [1] Alternative dispute resolution has become a substantial part of the civil justice
14 system. Aside from representing clients in dispute-resolution processes, lawyers often 15 serve as third-party neutrals. A third-party neutral is a person, such as a mediator, 16 arbitrator, conciliator or evaluator, who assists the parties, represented or 17 unrepresented, in the resolution of a dispute or in the arrangement of a transaction.
18 Whether a third-party neutral serves primarily as a facilitator, evaluator or 19 decisionmaker depends on the particular process that is either selected by the parties or 20 mandated by a court.

21 [2] The role of a third-party neutral is not unique to lawyers, although, in some court-
22 connected contexts, only lawyers are allowed to serve in this role or to handle certain 23 types of cases. In performing this role, the lawyer may be subject to court rules or other 24 law that apply either to third-party neutrals generally or to lawyers serving as third-party
25 neutrals. Lawyer-neutrals may also be subject to various codes of ethics, such as the 26 Code of Ethics for Arbitration in Commercial Disputes prepared by a joint committee of 27 the American Bar Association and the American Arbitration Association or the Model
28 Standards of Conduct for Mediators jointly prepared by the American Bar Association, 29 the American Arbitration Association and the Society of Professionals in Dispute
30 Resolution.

31 [3] Unlike nonlawyers who serve as third-party neutrals, lawyers serving in this role
32 may experience unique problems as a result of differences between the role of a third-33 party neutral and a lawyer's service as a client representative. The potential for 34 confusion is significant when the parties are unrepresented in the process. Thus,
35 paragraph (b) requires a lawyer-neutral to inform unrepresented parties that the lawyer
36 is not representing them. For some parties, particularly parties who frequently use 37 dispute-resolution processes, this information will be sufficient. For others, particularly 38 those who are using the process for the first time, more information will be required.
39 Where appropriate, the lawyer should inform unrepresented parties of the important 40 differences between the lawyer's role as third-party neutral and a lawyer's role as a 41 client representative, including the inapplicability of the attorney-client evidentiary 42 privilege. The extent of disclosure required under this paragraph will depend on the 43 particular parties involved and the subject matter of the proceeding, as well as the 44 particular features of the dispute-resolution process selected.

45 [4] A lawyer who serves as a third-party neutral subsequently may be asked to serve
46 as a lawyer representing a client in the same matter. The conflicts of interest that arise
47 for both the individual lawyer and the lawyer's law firm are addressed in Rule 1.12.

48 [5] Lawyers who represent clients in alternative dispute-resolution processes are 49 governed by the Rules of Professional Conduct. When the dispute-resolution process
50 takes place before a tribunal, as in binding arbitration (see Rule 1.0(m)), the lawyer's 51 duty of candor is governed by Rule 3.3. Otherwise, the lawyer's duty of candor toward 52 both the third-party neutral and other parties is governed by Rule 4.1.

1 Rule 3.1. Meritorious Claims and Contentions.

2 A lawyer shall not bring or defend a proceeding, or assert or controvert an issue
3 therein, unless there is a basis in law and fact for doing so that is not frivolous, which 4 includes a good-faith argument for an extension, modification or reversal of existing law.
5 A lawyer for the defendant in a criminal proceeding, or the respondent in a proceeding
6 that could result in incarceration, may nevertheless so defend the proceeding as to 7 require that every element of the case be established.

8 Comment

9 [\[1\]](#) The advocate has a duty to use legal procedure for the fullest benefit of the 10 client's ~~case~~ cause, but also a duty not to abuse legal procedure. The law, both 11 procedural and substantive, establishes the limits within which an advocate may 12 proceed. However, the law is not always clear and never is static. Accordingly, in 13 determining the proper scope of advocacy, account must be taken of the law's 14 ambiguities and potential for change.

15 [\[2\]](#) The filing of an action or defense or similar action taken for a client is not 16 frivolous merely because the facts have not first been fully substantiated or because the 17 lawyer expects to develop vital evidence only by discovery. What is required of lawyers,
18 however, is that they inform themselves about the facts of their clients' cases and the 19 applicable law and determine that they can make good faith arguments in support of 20 their clients' positions. Such action is not frivolous even though the lawyer believes that 21 the client's position ultimately will not prevail. The action is frivolous, however, if the 22 ~~client desires to have the action taken primarily for the purpose of harassing or~~ 23 ~~maliciously injuring a person or if the~~ lawyer is unable either to make a good-faith
24 argument on the merits of the action taken or to support the action taken by a good-faith
25 argument for an extension, modification or reversal of existing law.

26 [\[3\]](#) The lawyer's obligations under this Rule are subordinate to federal or state
27 constitutional law that entitles a defendant in a criminal matter to the assistance of 28 counsel in presenting a claim or contention that otherwise would be prohibited by this
29 Rule.

1 Rule 3.2. Expediting Litigation.

2 A lawyer shall make reasonable efforts to expedite litigation consistent with the 3 interests of the client.

4 Comment

5 [1] Dilatory practices bring the administration of justice into disrepute. ~~Delay should~~
6 ~~not be indulged merely~~ Although there will be occasions when a lawyer may properly
7 seek a postponement for personal reasons, it is not proper for a lawyer to routinely fail
8 to expedite litigation solely for the convenience of the advocates, ~~or~~. Nor will a failure to 9 expedite be reasonable if done for the purpose of frustrating an opposing party's 10 attempt to obtain rightful redress or repose. The standard is whether a competent 11 lawyer acting in good faith would regard the course of action as having some substantial 12 purpose other than delay. Realizing financial or other benefit from otherwise improper 13 delay in litigation is not a legitimate interest of the client.

1 Rule 3.3. Candor Toward the Tribunal.

2 (a) A lawyer shall not knowingly:

3 ~~(a)(1) Make—make~~ a false statement of ~~material~~ fact or law to a tribunal or fail to 4 correct a false statement of material fact or law previously made to the tribunal by the 5 lawyer;

6 ~~(2) Fail to disclose a material fact to a tribunal when disclosure is necessary to avoid~~
7 ~~assisting a criminal or fraudulent act by the client;~~

8 ~~(3) Fail—(a)(2) fail~~ to disclose to the tribunal legal authority in the controlling 9 jurisdiction known to the lawyer to be directly adverse to the position of the client and 10 not disclosed by opposing counsel; or

11 ~~(4) Offer—(a)(3) offer~~ evidence that the lawyer knows to be false. If a lawyer, the 12 lawyer's client or a witness called by the lawyer has offered material evidence and the 13 lawyer comes to know of its falsity, the lawyer shall take reasonable remedial measures, 14 including, if necessary, disclosure to the tribunal. A lawyer may refuse to offer
15 evidence, other than the testimony of a defendant in a criminal matter, that the lawyer
16 reasonably believes is false.

17 (b) A lawyer who represents a client in an adjudicative proceeding and who knows
18 that a person intends to engage, is engaging or has engaged in criminal or fraudulent 19 conduct related to the proceeding shall take reasonable remedial measures, including, if 20 necessary, disclosure to the tribunal.

21 (c) The duties stated in paragraph—paragraphs (a) and (b) continue to the conclusion
22 of the proceeding, and apply even if compliance requires disclosure of information
23 otherwise protected by Rule 1.6.

24 ~~(c) A lawyer may refuse to offer evidence that the lawyer reasonably believes is~~ 25 ~~false.~~

26 (d) In an ex parte proceeding, a lawyer shall inform the tribunal of all material facts
27 known to the lawyer ~~which—that~~ will enable the tribunal to make an informed decision, 28 whether or not the facts are adverse.

29 Comment

30 [1] This Rule governs the conduct of a lawyer who is representing a client in the 31 proceedings of a tribunal. See Rule 1.0(m) for the definition of "tribunal." It also applies when the lawyer is representing a client in an ancillary proceeding conducted pursuant to the tribunal's adjudicative authority, such as a deposition. Thus, for example, paragraph (a)(3) requires a lawyer to take reasonable remedial measures if the lawyer comes to know that a client who is testifying in a deposition has offered evidence that is false.

[2] This Rule sets forth the special duties of lawyers as officers of the court to avoid conduct that undermines the integrity of the adjudicative process. A lawyer acting as an advocate in an adjudicative proceeding has an obligation ~~The advocate's task is~~ to present the client's case with persuasive force. Performance of that duty while maintaining confidences of the client, however, is qualified by the advocate's duty of candor to the tribunal. However, an advocate does not ~~Consequently, although a lawyer in an adversary proceeding is not required to present an impartial exposition of the law or to vouch for the evidence submitted in a cause; the tribunal is responsible for assessing its probative value,~~ the lawyer must not allow the tribunal to be misled by false statements of law or fact or evidence that the lawyer knows to be false.

Representations by a Lawyer

[3] An advocate is responsible for pleadings and other documents prepared for litigation, but is usually not required to have personal knowledge of matters asserted therein, for litigation documents ordinarily present assertions by the client, or by someone on the client's behalf, and not assertions by the lawyer. Compare Rule 3.1. However, an assertion ~~surporting~~ purporting to be on the lawyer's own knowledge, as in an affidavit by the lawyer or in a statement in open court, may properly be made only when the lawyer knows the assertion is true or believes it to be true on the basis of a reasonably diligent inquiry. There are circumstances where failure to make a disclosure is the equivalent of an affirmative misrepresentation. The obligation prescribed in Rule ~~1.2(e)~~ 1.2(d) not to counsel a client to commit or assist the client in committing a fraud applies in litigation. Regarding compliance with Rule ~~1.2(e)~~ 1.2(d), see the Comment to that Rule. See also the Comment to Rule 8.4(b).

~~Misleading~~ Legal Argument

[4] Legal argument based on a knowingly false representation of law constitutes dishonesty toward ~~a~~ the tribunal. A lawyer is not required to make a disinterested exposition of the law, but must recognize the existence of pertinent legal authorities. Furthermore, as stated in paragraph ~~_(a)(3)(a)(2)~~, an advocate has a duty to disclose directly adverse authority in the controlling jurisdiction ~~which that~~ has not been disclosed by the opposing party. The underlying concept is that legal argument is a discussion seeking to determine the legal premises properly applicable to the case.

False Evidence Offering Evidence

~~When evidence that a [5] Paragraph (a)(3) requires that the lawyer refuse to offer evidence that the~~ lawyer knows to be false ~~is provided by a person who is not the client, the lawyer must refuse to offer it,~~ regardless of the client's wishes. This duty is premised on the lawyer's obligation as an officer of the court to prevent the trier of fact from being misled by false evidence. A lawyer does not violate this Rule if the lawyer offers the evidence for the purpose of establishing its falsity.

[6] If a lawyer knows that the client intends to testify falsely or wants the lawyer to introduce false evidence~~When false evidence is offered by the client, however, a conflict may arise between the lawyer's duty to keep the client's revelations confidential and the duty of candor to the court. Upon ascertaining that material evidence is false, the lawyer should seek to persuade the client that the evidence should not be offered or, if it has been offered, that its false character should immediately be disclosed. If the persuasion is ineffective, the lawyer must take reasonable remedial measures.~~

~~Except in the defense of a criminal accused, the rule generally recognized is that, if necessary to rectify the situation, an advocate must disclose the existence of the client's deception to the court or to the other party. Such a disclosure can result in grave consequences to the client, including not only a sense of betrayal but also loss of the case and perhaps a prosecution for perjury. But the alternative is that the lawyer cooperate in deceiving the court, thereby subverting the truth-finding process which the adversary system is designed to implement. See Rule 1.2(c). Furthermore, unless it is clearly understood that the lawyer will act upon the duty to disclose the existence of false evidence, the client can simply reject the lawyer's advice to reveal the false evidence and insist that the lawyer keep silent. Thus the client could in effect coerce the lawyer into being a party to fraud on the court.~~

Perjury by a Criminal Defendant

Whether an advocate for a criminally accused has the same duty of disclosure has been intensely debated. While it is agreed that the lawyer should seek to persuade the client to refrain from perjurious testimony, there has been dispute concerning the lawyer's duty when that persuasion fails. If the confrontation with the client occurs before trial, the lawyer ordinarily can withdraw. Withdrawal before trial may not be possible, however, either because trial is imminent, or because the confrontation with the client does not take place until the trial itself, or because no other counsel is available.

The most difficult situation, therefore, arises in a criminal case where the accused insists on testifying when and the lawyer continues to represent the client, the lawyer must refuse to offer the false evidence. If only a portion of a witness's testimony will be false, the lawyer may call the witness to testify but may not elicit or otherwise permit the witness to present the testimony that the lawyer knows is false.

[7] The duties stated in paragraphs (a) and (b) apply to all lawyers, including defense counsel in criminal cases. In some jurisdictions, however, courts have required counsel to present the accused as a witness or to give a narrative statement if the accused so desires, even if counsel knows that the testimony or statement will be false. The obligation of the advocate under the Rules of Professional Conduct is subordinate to such requirements. See also Comment [9].

[8] The prohibition against offering false evidence only applies if the lawyer knows that the testimony is perjurious. The lawyer's effort to rectify the situation can increase the likelihood of the client's being convicted as well as opening the possibility of prosecution for perjury. On the other hand, if the lawyer does not exercise control over the proof, the lawyer participates, although in a merely passive way, in deception of the court. Evidence is false. A lawyer's reasonable belief that evidence is false does not preclude its presentation to the trier of fact. A lawyer's knowledge that evidence is false, however, can be inferred from the circumstances. See Rule 1.0(f). Thus, although a lawyer should resolve doubts about the veracity of testimony or other evidence in favor of the client, the lawyer cannot ignore an obvious falsehood.

Three resolutions of this dilemma have been proposed. One is to permit the accused to testify by a narrative without guidance through the lawyer's questioning. This ~~compromises both contending principles; it exempts the lawyer from the duty to disclose false evidence but subjects the client to an implicit disclosure of information imparted to counsel. Another suggested resolution, of relatively recent origin, is that the advocate be entirely excused from the duty to reveal perjury if the perjury is that of the client. This is a coherent solution but makes the advocate a knowing instrument of perjury.~~

~~The other resolution of the dilemma is that the lawyer must reveal the client's perjury if necessary to rectify the situation. A criminal accused has a right to the assistance of an advocate, a right to testify and a right of confidential communication with counsel. However, an accused should not have a right to assistance of counsel in committing perjury. Furthermore, an advocate has an obligation, not only in professional ethics but under the law as well, to avoid implication in the commission of perjury or other falsification of evidence. See Rule 1.2(c).~~

[9] Although paragraph (a)(3) only prohibits a lawyer from offering evidence the lawyer knows to be false, it permits the lawyer to refuse to offer testimony or other proof that the lawyer reasonably believes is false. Offering such proof may reflect adversely on the lawyer's ability to discriminate in the quality of evidence and thus impair the lawyer's effectiveness as an advocate. Because of the special protections historically provided criminal defendants, however, this Rule does not permit a lawyer to refuse to offer the testimony of such a client where the lawyer reasonably believes but does not know that the testimony will be false. Unless the lawyer knows the testimony will be false, the lawyer must honor the client's decision to testify. See also Comment [7].

Remedial Measures

~~If perjured testimony or false evidence has been offered~~[10] Having offered evidence in the belief that it was true, a lawyer may subsequently come to know that the evidence is false. Or, a lawyer may be surprised when the lawyer's client, or another witness called by the lawyer, offers testimony the lawyer knows to be false, either during the lawyer's direct examination or in response to cross-examination by the opposing lawyer. In such situations or if the lawyer knows of the falsity of testimony elicited from the client during a deposition, the lawyer must take reasonable remedial measures. In such situations, the advocate's proper course ~~ordinarily~~ is to remonstrate with the client confidentially, advise the client of the lawyer's duty of candor to the tribunal and seek

~~the client's cooperation with respect to the withdrawal or correction of the false statements or evidence. If that fails, the advocate should seek to withdraw if that will remedy the situation. If withdrawal will not remedy the situation or is impossible, the advocate should make disclosure to the court. It is for the court must take further remedial action. If withdrawal from the representation is not permitted or will not undo the effect of the false evidence, the advocate must make such disclosure to the tribunal as is reasonably necessary to remedy the situation, even if doing so requires the lawyer to reveal information that otherwise would be protected by Rule 1.6. It is for the tribunal then to determine what should be done—making a statement about the matter to the trier of fact, ordering a mistrial or perhaps nothing.~~

~~If the false testimony was that of the client, the client may controvert the lawyer's version of their communication when the lawyer discloses the situation to the court. If there is an issue whether the client has committed perjury, the lawyer cannot represent the client in resolution of the issue, and a mistrial may be unavoidable. An unscrupulous client might in this way attempt to produce a series of mistrials and thus escape prosecution. However, a second such encounter could be construed as a deliberate abuse of the right to counsel and as such a waiver of the right to further representation.~~

~~Constitutional Requirements~~

~~The general rule that an advocate must [11] The disclosure of a client's false testimony can result in grave consequences to the client, including not only a sense of betrayal but also loss of the case and perhaps a prosecution for perjury. But the alternative is that the lawyer cooperate in deceiving the court, thereby subverting the truth-finding process which the adversary system is designed to implement. See Rule 1.2(d). Furthermore, unless it is clearly understood that the lawyer will act upon the duty to disclose the existence of perjury with respect to a material fact, even that of a client — applies to defense counsel in criminal cases, as well as in other instances. However, the definition of the lawyer's ethical duty in such a situation may be qualified by constitutional provisions for due process and the right to counsel in criminal cases. In some jurisdictions these provisions have been construed to require that counsel present an accused as a witness if the accused wishes to testify, even if counsel knows the testimony will be false. The obligation of the advocate under these Rules is subordinate~~

~~to such a constitutional requirement~~ false evidence, the client can simply reject the lawyer's advice to reveal the false evidence and insist that the lawyer keep silent. Thus the client could in effect coerce the lawyer into being a party to fraud on the court.

Preserving Integrity of Adjudicative Process

[12] Lawyers have a special obligation to protect a tribunal against criminal or fraudulent conduct that undermines the integrity of the adjudicative process, such as bribing, intimidating or otherwise unlawfully communicating with a witness, juror, court official or other participant in the proceeding, unlawfully destroying or concealing documents or other evidence or failing to disclose information to the tribunal when required by law to do so. Thus, paragraph (b) requires a lawyer to take reasonable remedial measures, including disclosure if necessary, whenever the lawyer knows that a person, including the lawyer's client, intends to engage, is engaging or has engaged in criminal or fraudulent conduct related to the proceeding.

Duration of Obligation

[13] A practical time limit on the obligation to rectify ~~the presentation of~~ false evidence or false statements of law and fact has to be established. The conclusion of the proceeding is a reasonably definite point for the termination of the obligation. A proceeding has concluded within the meaning of this Rule when a final judgment in the proceeding has been affirmed on appeal or the time for review has passed

Refusing to Offer Proof Believed to be False

~~Generally speaking, a lawyer has authority to refuse to offer testimony or other proof that the lawyer believes is untrustworthy. Offering such proof may reflect adversely on the lawyer's ability to discriminate in the quality of evidence and thus impair the lawyer's effectiveness as an advocate. In criminal cases, however, a lawyer may, in some jurisdictions, be denied this authority by constitutional requirements governing the right to counsel.~~

Ex Parte Proceedings

[14] Ordinarily, an advocate has the limited responsibility of presenting one side of the matters that a tribunal should consider in reaching a decision; the conflicting position is expected to be presented by the opposing party. However, in ~~an~~ any ex parte proceeding, such as an application for a temporary restraining order, there is no

218 balance of presentation by opposing advocates. The object of an ex parte proceeding is 219 nevertheless to yield a substantially just result. The judge has an affirmative 220 responsibility to accord the absent party just consideration. The lawyer for the 221 represented party has the correlative duty to make disclosures of material facts known 222 to the lawyer and that the lawyer reasonably believes are necessary to an informed 223 decision.
224

Rule 3.4. Fairness to Opposing Party and Counsel.

A lawyer shall not:

(a) ~~Unlawfully-unlawfully~~ obstruct another party's access to evidence or unlawfully alter, destroy or conceal a document or other material having potential evidentiary value. A lawyer shall not counsel or assist another person to do any such act;

(b) ~~Falsify-falsify~~ evidence, counsel or assist a witness to testify falsely, or offer an inducement to a witness that is prohibited by law;

(c) ~~Knowingly-knowingly~~ disobey an obligation under the rules of a tribunal, except for an open refusal based on an assertion that no valid obligation exists;

(d) ~~In~~in pretrial procedure, make a frivolous discovery request or fail to make reasonably diligent effort to comply with a legally proper discovery request by an opposing party;

(e) ~~In~~in trial, allude to any matter that the lawyer does not reasonably believe is relevant or that will not be supported by admissible evidence, assert personal knowledge of facts in issue except when testifying as a witness, or state a personal opinion as to the justness of a cause, the credibility of a witness, the culpability of a civil litigant or the guilt or innocence of an accused; or

(f) ~~Request-request~~ a person other than a client to refrain from voluntarily giving relevant information to another party unless:

(f)(1) ~~The-the~~ person is a relative or an employee or other agent of a client; and

(f)(2) ~~The-the~~ lawyer reasonably believes that the person's interests will not be adversely affected by refraining from giving such information.

Comment

[1] The procedure of the adversary system contemplates that the evidence in a case is to be marshalled competitively by the contending parties. Fair competition in the adversary system is secured by prohibitions against destruction or concealment of evidence, improperly influencing witnesses, obstructive tactics in discovery procedure, and the like.

[2] Documents and other items of evidence are often essential to establish a claim or defense. Subject to evidentiary privileges, the right of an opposing party, including the government, to obtain evidence through discovery or subpoena is an important procedural right. The exercise of that right can be frustrated if relevant material is altered, concealed or destroyed. Applicable law in many jurisdictions makes it an offense to destroy material for the purpose of impairing its availability in a pending proceeding or one whose commencement can be foreseen. Falsifying evidence is also generally a criminal offense. Paragraph (a) applies to evidentiary material generally, in whatever form it may exist and on whatever medium it may be found—including computerized information. Applicable law may permit a lawyer to take temporary possession of physical evidence of client crimes for the purpose of conducting a limited examination that will not alter or destroy material characteristics of the evidence. In such a case, applicable law may require the lawyer to turn the evidence over to the police or other prosecuting authority, depending on the circumstances.

[3] With regard to paragraph (b), it is not improper to pay a witness's expenses or to compensate an expert witness on terms permitted by law. ~~The common law rule in most jurisdictions is that it is improper to pay an occurrence witness any fee for testifying and that it is improper to pay an expert witness a contingent fee.~~

[4] Paragraph (f) permits a lawyer to advise employees of a client to refrain from giving information to another party, for the employees may identify their interests with those of the client. See also Rule 4.2.

Rule 3.5. Impartiality and ~~De~~ecorum of the ~~T~~ribunal.

A lawyer shall not:

(a) Seek to influence a judge, juror, prospective juror or other official by means prohibited by law; or

(b) Communicate ex parte in an adversary proceeding as to the merits of the case with a judge, juror, prospective juror or court official during the proceeding, prior to full discharge of that person's duties in the proceeding, unless authorized to do so by law, rule or court order;~~with a juror or prospective juror before the discharge of the jury except as permitted by law; or~~

(c) ~~In an adversary proceeding, communicate, or cause another to communicate, as to the merits of the cause with a judge or other official before whom a matter is pending, except:~~ communicate with a juror or prospective juror after discharge of the jury if:

(1) In the course of official proceedings in the cause the communication is prohibited by law, rule or court order;

(2) In writing if the lawyer promptly delivers a copy of the writing to opposing counsel or to the adverse party if such party is not represented by a lawyer the juror has made known to the lawyer a desire not to communicate; or

(3) Orally upon adequate notice to opposing counsel or to the adverse party if such party is not represented by a lawyer the communication involves misrepresentation, coercion, duress or harassment; or

(4) As otherwise authorized by law; or

(d) ~~E~~engage in conduct intended to disrupt a tribunal.

Comment

[1] Many forms of improper influence upon a tribunal are proscribed by criminal law. Others are specified in the Utah Code of Judicial Conduct, with which an advocate should be familiar. A lawyer is required to avoid contributing to a violation of such provisions.

[2] ~~The advocate's function is to present evidence and argument so that the cause may be decided according to law. Refraining from abusive or obstreperous conduct is a corollary of the advocate's right to speak on behalf of litigants. A lawyer may stand firm against abuse by a judge but should avoid reciprocation; the judge's default is no~~

~~justification for similar dereliction by an advocate. An advocate can present the cause, protect the record for subsequent review and preserve professional integrity by patient firmness no less effectively than by belligerence or theatrics. During a proceeding a lawyer may not communicate ex parte with persons serving in an official capacity in the proceeding, such as judges, masters or jurors, unless authorized to do so by law, rule or court order.~~

[2a] Paragraph (b) of Utah Rule 3.5 differs from the ABA Model Rule by inclusion of the qualifying phrases “in an adversary proceeding,” “as to the merits” and “prior to full discharge of that person’s duties in the proceeding.” In the interest of fairness and impartiality, these additional qualifications give the practitioner more guidance and more clearly define the types of ex parte communications that are prohibited. Consistent with treatment elsewhere in these Rules, the exceptions stated in paragraphs (b) and (c)(1) of the Utah Rule also include “by rule” where the ABA Model Rule does not.

[3] A lawyer may on occasion want to communicate with a juror or prospective juror after the jury has been discharged. The lawyer may do so unless the communication is prohibited by law, rule or a court order but must respect the desire of the juror not to talk with the lawyer. The lawyer may not engage in improper conduct during the communication.

[4] The advocate’s function is to present evidence and argument so that the cause may be decided according to law. Refraining from abusive or obstreperous conduct is a corollary of the advocate’s right to speak on behalf of litigants. A lawyer may stand firm against abuse by a judge but should avoid reciprocation; the judge’s default is no justification for similar dereliction by an advocate. An advocate can present the cause, protect the record for subsequent review and preserve professional integrity by patient firmness no less effectively than by belligerence or theatrics.

[5] The duty to refrain from disruptive conduct applies to any proceedings of a tribunal, including a deposition. See Rule 1.0(m).

1 Rule 3.6. Trial Publicity.

2 (a) A lawyer who is participating or has participated in the investigation or litigation
3 of a matter shall not make an extrajudicial statement that ~~a reasonable person would~~
4 ~~expect to the lawyer knows or reasonably should know will~~ be disseminated by means 5 of public communication ~~if the lawyer knows or reasonably should know that it and~~ will 6 have a substantial likelihood of materially prejudicing an adjudicative proceeding in the 7 matter.

8 (b) Notwithstanding paragraph (a), a lawyer may state:

9 (b)(1) the claim, offense or defense involved and, except when prohibited by law, the 10 identity of the persons involved;

11 (b)(2) information contained in a public record;

12 (b)(3) that an investigation of a matter is in progress;

13 (b)(4) the scheduling or result of any step in litigation;

14 (b)(5) a request for assistance in obtaining evidence and information necessary
15 thereto;

16 (b)(6) a warning of danger concerning the behavior of a person involved, when there 17 is reason to believe that there exists the likelihood of substantial harm to an individual or 18 to the public interest; and

19 (b)(7) in a criminal case, in addition to subparagraphs (1) through (6):

20 (b)(7)(i) the identity, residence, occupation and family status of the accused;

21 (b)(7)(ii) if the accused has not been apprehended, information necessary to aid in 22 apprehension of that person;

23 (b)(7)(iii) the fact, time and place of arrest; and

24 (b)(7)(iv) the identity of investigating and arresting officers or agencies and the 25 length of the investigation.

26 (c) Notwithstanding paragraph (a), a lawyer may make a statement that a 27 reasonable lawyer would believe is required to protect a client from the substantial 28 undue prejudicial effect of recent publicity not initiated by the lawyer or the lawyer's
29 client. A statement made pursuant to this paragraph shall be limited to such information 30 as is necessary to mitigate the recent adverse publicity.

31 COMMENT

(d) No lawyer associated in a firm or government agency with a lawyer subject to paragraph (a) shall make a statement prohibited by paragraph (a).

Comment

[1] It is difficult to strike a balance between protecting the right to a fair trial and safeguarding the right of free expression. Preserving the right to a fair trial necessarily entails some curtailment of the information that may be disseminated about a party prior to trial, particularly where trial by jury is involved. If there were no such limits, the result would be the practical nullification of the protective effect of the rules of forensic decorum and the exclusionary rules of evidence. On the other hand, there are vital social interests served by the free dissemination of information about events having legal consequences and about legal proceedings themselves. The public has a right to know about threats to its safety and measures aimed at ~~assuring~~ensuring its security. It also has a legitimate interest in the conduct of judicial proceedings, particularly in matters of general public concern. Furthermore, the subject matter of legal proceedings is often of direct significance in debate and deliberation over questions of public policy.

[2] Special rules of confidentiality may validly govern proceedings in juvenile, domestic relations and mental disability proceedings, and perhaps other types of litigation. Rule 3.4(c) requires compliance with such rules.

[3] ~~The~~is Rule sets forth a basic general prohibition against a lawyer's making statements that the lawyer knows or should know will have a substantial likelihood of materially prejudicing an adjudicative proceeding. Recognizing that the public value of informed commentary is great and the likelihood of prejudice to a proceeding by the commentary of a lawyer who is not involved in the proceeding is small, this Rule applies only to lawyers who are, or who have been, involved in the investigation or litigation of a case and their associates.

[4] Paragraph (b) identifies specific matters about which a lawyer's statements would not ordinarily be considered to present a substantial likelihood of material prejudice, and should not in any event be considered prohibited by the general prohibition of paragraph (a). Paragraph (b) is not intended to be an exhaustive listing of the subjects upon which a lawyer may make a statement, but statements on other matters may be subject to paragraph (a).

[5] There are, on the other hand, certain subjects ~~which~~that are more likely than not to have a material prejudicial effect on a proceeding, particularly when they refer to a civil matter triable to a jury, a criminal matter_; or any other proceeding that could result in incarceration. These subjects relate to:

(4i) the character, credibility, reputation or criminal record of a party, suspect in a criminal investigation or witness, or the identity of a witness, or the expected testimony of a party or witness;

(2ii) in a criminal case or proceeding that could result in incarceration, the possibility of a plea of guilty to the offense or the existence or contents of any confession, admission_; or statement given by a defendant or suspect or that person's refusal or failure to make a statement;

(3iii) the performance or results of any examination or test or the refusal or failure of a person to submit to an examination or test, or the identity or nature of physical evidence expected to be ~~present~~presented;

(4iv) any opinion as to the guilt or innocence of a defendant or suspect in a criminal case or proceeding that could result in incarceration;

(5v) information that the lawyer knows or reasonably should know is likely to be inadmissible as evidence in a trial and that would, if disclosed, create a substantial risk of prejudicing an impartial trial; or

(6vi) the fact that a defendant has been charged with a crime, unless there is included therein a statement explaining that the charge is merely an accusation and that the defendant is presumed innocent until and unless proven guilty.

[6] Another relevant factor in determining prejudice is the nature of the proceeding involved. Criminal jury trials will be most sensitive to extrajudicial speech. Civil trials may be less sensitive. Non-jury ~~hearing~~hearings and arbitration proceedings may be even less affected. The~~is~~ Rule will still place limitations on prejudicial comments in these cases, but the likelihood of prejudice may be different depending on the type of proceeding.

[7] Finally, extrajudicial statements that might otherwise raise a question under this Rule may be permissible when they are made in response to statements made publicly by another party, another party's lawyer_; or third persons, where a reasonable lawyer would believe a public response is required in order to avoid prejudice to the lawyer's client. When prejudicial statements have been publicly made by others, responsive statements may have the salutary effect of lessening any resulting adverse impact on the adjudicative proceeding. Such responsive statements should be limited to contain only such information as is necessary to mitigate undue prejudice created by the statements made by others.

[8] See Rule 3.8(f) for additional duties of prosecutors in connection with extrajudicial statements about criminal proceedings.

Rule 3.7. Lawyer as Witness.

(a) A lawyer shall not act as advocate at a trial in which the lawyer is likely to be a necessary witness ~~except where~~ unless:

(a)(1) ~~The the~~ testimony relates to an uncontested issue;

(a)(2) ~~The the~~ testimony relates to the nature and value of legal services rendered in the case; or

(a)(3) ~~Disqualification-disqualification~~ of the lawyer would work substantial hardship on the client.

(b) A lawyer may act as advocate in ~~the a~~ trial in which another lawyer in the lawyer's firm is likely to be called as a witness unless precluded from doing so by Rule 1.7 or Rule 1.9.

Comment

[1] Combining the roles of advocate and witness can prejudice the tribunal and the opposing party and can also involve a conflict of interest between the lawyer and client.

Advocate-Witness Rule

[2] The tribunal has proper objection when the trier of fact may be confused or misled by a lawyer serving as both advocate and witness. The opposing party has proper objection where the combination of roles may prejudice that party's rights in the litigation. A witness is required to testify on the basis of personal knowledge, while an advocate is expected to explain and comment on evidence given by others. It may not be clear whether a statement by an advocate-witness should be taken as proof or as an analysis of the proof.

[3] To protect the tribunal, paragraph (a) prohibits a lawyer from simultaneously serving as advocate and necessary witness except in those circumstances specified in paragraphs (a)(1) through (a)(3). Paragraph (a)(1) recognizes that if the testimony will be uncontested, the ambiguities in the dual role are purely theoretical. Paragraph (a)(2) recognizes that where the testimony concerns the extent and value of legal services rendered in the action in which the testimony is offered, permitting the lawyers to testify avoids the need for a second trial with new counsel to resolve that issue. Moreover, in such a situation, the judge has ~~first-hand~~ firsthand knowledge of the matter in issue;

hence, there is less dependence on the adversary process to test the credibility of the testimony.

[4] Apart from these two exceptions, paragraph (a)(3) recognizes that a balancing is required between the interests of the client and those of the tribunal and the opposing party. Whether the tribunal is likely to be misled or the opposing party is likely to suffer prejudice depends on the nature of the case, the importance and probable tenor of the lawyer's testimony, and the probability that the lawyer's testimony will conflict with that of other witnesses. Even if there is risk of such prejudice, in determining whether the lawyer should be disqualified, due regard must be given to the effect of disqualification on the lawyer's client. It is relevant that one or both parties could reasonably foresee that the lawyer would probably be a witness. The ~~principle of imputed disqualification~~ conflict of interest principles stated in ~~Rule~~ Rules 1.7, 1.9 and 1.10 ~~has~~ have no application to this aspect of the problem.

~~[5] Whether the combination of roles involves an improper~~ Because the tribunal is not likely to be misled when a lawyer acts as advocate in a trial in which another lawyer in the lawyer's firm will testify as a necessary witness, paragraph (b) permits the lawyer to do so except in situations involving a conflict of interest ~~with respect to the client is determined by Rule~~

Conflict of Interest

[6] In determining if it is permissible to act as advocate in a trial in which the lawyer will be a necessary witness, the lawyer must also consider that the dual role may give rise to a conflict of interest that will require compliance with Rules 1.7 or 1.9. For example, if there is likely to be substantial conflict between the testimony of the client and that of the lawyer, ~~or a member of the lawyer's firm, the representation is improper~~ the representation involves a conflict of interest that requires compliance with Rule 1.7. This would be true even though the lawyer might not be prohibited by paragraph (a) from simultaneously serving as advocate and witness because the lawyer's disqualification would work a substantial hardship on the client. Similarly, a lawyer who might be permitted to simultaneously serve as an advocate and a witness by paragraph (a)(3) might be precluded from doing so by Rule 1.9. The problem can arise whether the lawyer is called as a witness on behalf of the client or is called by the opposing party. Determining whether or not such a conflict exists is primarily the responsibility of the lawyer involved. ~~See Comment to Rule 1.7. If a lawyer who is a member of a firm may not act as both advocate and witness by reason of~~ If there is a conflict of interest, ~~Rule 1.10 disqualifies the firm also. the lawyer must secure the client's informed consent, confirmed in writing. In some cases, the lawyer will be precluded from seeking the client's consent. See Rule 1.7. See Rule 1.0(b) for the definition of "confirmed in writing" and Rule 1.0(e) for the definition of "informed consent."~~

~~[7] {Rule 3.8. Special responsibilities of a prosecutor.}~~ Paragraph (b) provides that a lawyer is not disqualified from serving as an advocate because a lawyer with whom the lawyer is associated in a firm is precluded from doing so by paragraph (a). If, however, the testifying lawyer would also be disqualified by Rule 1.7 or Rule 1.9 from representing the client in the matter, other lawyers in the firm will be precluded from representing the client by Rule 1.10 unless the client gives informed consent under the conditions stated in Rule 1.7.

Rule 3.8. Special Responsibilities of a Prosecutor.

The prosecutor in a criminal case shall:

(a) Refrain from prosecuting a charge that the prosecutor knows is not supported by probable cause;

(b) Make reasonable efforts to ensure that the accused has been advised of the right to, and the procedure for obtaining, counsel and has been given reasonable opportunity to obtain counsel;

(c) Not seek to obtain from an unrepresented accused a waiver of important pretrial rights, such as the right to a preliminary hearing;

(d) Make timely disclosure to the defense of all evidence or information known to the prosecutor that tends to negate the guilt of the accused or mitigates the offense, and, in connection with sentencing, disclose to the defense all unprivileged mitigating information known to the prosecutor, except when the prosecutor is relieved of this responsibility by a protective order of the tribunal; and

(e) Exercise reasonable care to prevent investigators, law enforcement personnel, employees or other persons assisting or associated with the prosecutor in a criminal case from making an extrajudicial statement that the prosecutor would be prohibited from making under Rule 3.6.

Comment

[\[1\]](#) A prosecutor has the responsibility of a minister of justice and not simply that of an advocate. This responsibility carries with it specific obligations to see that the defendant is accorded procedural justice and that guilt is decided upon the basis of sufficient evidence. Precisely how far the prosecutor is required to go in this direction is a matter of debate and varies in different jurisdictions. See Rule 3.3(d), governing ex parte proceedings, among which grand jury proceedings are included. Applicable law may require other measures by the prosecutor and knowing disregard of those obligations or systematic abuse of prosecutorial discretion could constitute a violation of Rule 8.4.

29 [\[2\]](#) Paragraph (c) does not apply to an accused appearing pro se with the approval
30 of the tribunal. Nor does it forbid the lawful questioning of a suspect who has knowingly 31 waived the rights to counsel and silence.

32 [\[3\]](#) The exception in paragraph (d) recognizes that a prosecutor may seek an 33 appropriate protective order from the tribunal if disclosure of information to the defense
34 could result in substantial harm to an individual or to the public interest.

35 [\[3a\]](#) Utah has not adopted the ABA version of Rule 3.8. ABA Model Rule 3.8(d), 36 requiring the prosecution to inform the tribunal of mitigating information related to 37 sentencing, creates an unreasonable burden and is not deemed workable where the 38 same information is required to be disclosed to the defense counsel who should be in 39 the best position to decide what to present to the tribunal. The ABA's paragraph (e)
40 regarding limitations on subpoenaing lawyers to grand juries or other legal proceedings 41 is viewed as unnecessary, as there are adequate safeguards in place for federal 42 prosecutors, and the Utah criminal justice system does not typically use the grand jury 43 procedure. Utah has not adopted the ABA's proposed paragraph (f), because the 44 changes are either unnecessary because of, or are potentially inconsistent with, the 45 provisions of Rule 3.6.
46

Rule 3.9. Advocate in Nonadjudicative Proceedings.

A lawyer representing a client before a legislative body or administrative ~~tribunal~~ agency in a nonadjudicative proceeding shall disclose that the appearance is in a representative capacity and shall conform to the provisions of Rules 3.3(a) through (c), 3.4(a) through (c), and 3.5.

Comment

[1] In representation before bodies such as legislatures, municipal councils, and executive and administrative agencies acting in a rule-making or policy-making capacity, lawyers present facts, formulate issues and advance argument in the matters under consideration. The decision-making body, like a court, should be able to rely on the integrity of the submissions made to it. A lawyer appearing before such a body ~~should~~ must deal with ~~the tribunal~~ it honestly and in conformity with applicable rules of procedure. See Rules 3.3(a) through (c), 3.4(a) through (c) and 3.5.

[2] Lawyers have no exclusive right to appear before nonadjudicative bodies, as they do before a court. The requirements of this Rule therefore may subject lawyers to regulations inapplicable to advocates who are not lawyers. However, legislatures and administrative agencies have a right to expect lawyers to deal with them as they deal with courts.

~~[3] This Rule~~ This Rule only applies when a lawyer represents a client in connection with an official hearing or meeting of a governmental agency or a legislative body to which the lawyer or the lawyer's client is presenting evidence or argument. It does not apply to representation of a client in a negotiation or other bilateral transaction with a governmental agency; ~~representation in such a transaction or in connection with an application for a license or other privilege or the client's compliance with generally applicable reporting requirements, such as the filing of income-tax returns. Nor does it apply to the representation of a client in connection with an investigation or examination of the client's affairs conducted by government investigators or examiners.~~ Representation in such matters is governed by Rules 4.1 through 4.4.

Rule 4.1. Truthfulness in ~~S~~statements to ~~O~~others.

In the course of representing a client a lawyer shall not knowingly:

(a) Make a false statement of material fact or law to a third person; or

(b) Fail to disclose a material fact ~~to a third person,~~ when disclosure is necessary to avoid assisting a criminal or fraudulent act by a client, unless disclosure is prohibited by Rule 1.6.

Comment

Misrepresentation

[1] A lawyer is required to be truthful when dealing with others on a client's behalf, but generally has no affirmative duty to inform an opposing party of relevant facts. A misrepresentation can occur if the lawyer incorporates or affirms a statement of another person that the lawyer knows is false. Misrepresentations can also occur by ~~failure to act partially true but misleading statements or omissions that are the equivalent of affirmative false statements.~~ For dishonest conduct that does not amount to a false statement or for misrepresentation by a lawyer other than in the course of representing a client, see Rule 8.4.

Statements of Fact

[2] This ~~R~~Rule refers to statements of fact. Whether a particular statement should be regarded as one of fact can depend on circumstances. Under generally accepted conventions in negotiation, certain types of statements ordinarily are not taken as statements of material fact. Estimates of price or value placed on the subject of a transaction and a party's intentions as to an acceptable settlement of a claim are ordinarily in this category, and so is the existence of an undisclosed principal except where nondisclosure of the principal would constitute fraud. Lawyers should be mindful of their obligations under applicable law to avoid criminal and tortious misrepresentation.

Crime or Fraud by Client

[3] Under Rule 1.2(d), a lawyer is prohibited from counseling or assisting a client in conduct that the lawyer knows is criminal or fraudulent. Paragraph (b) ~~recognizes that states a specific application of the principle set forth in Rule 1.2(d) and addresses the situation where a client's crime or fraud takes the form of a lie or misrepresentation.~~

Ordinarily, a lawyer can avoid assisting a client's crime or fraud by withdrawing from the representation. Sometimes it may be necessary for the lawyer to give notice of the fact of withdrawal and to disaffirm an opinion, document, affirmation or the like. In extreme cases, substantive law may require a lawyer to disclose ~~certain~~ information relating to the representation to avoid being deemed to have assisted the client's crime or fraud. ~~The requirement of~~ If the lawyer can avoid assisting a client's crime or fraud only by disclosing this information, then under paragraph (b) the lawyer is required to do so, unless the disclosure ~~created by this paragraph is, however, subject to the obligations created is prohibited~~ by Rule 1.6.

1 Rule 4.2. Communication with Persons Represented by Counsel.

2 ~~(a) General Rule. A lawyer who is (a) General Rule. In~~ representing a client ~~in a~~
3 ~~matter lawyer~~ shall not communicate about the subject of the representation with a 4 person the lawyer knows to be represented by another lawyer in the matter, unless the 5 lawyer has the consent of the other lawyer. ~~or is authorized to do so by:~~

6 ~~(1) constitutional law or statute;~~

7 ~~(2) decision or a rule of a court of competent jurisdiction;~~

8 ~~(3) a prior written authorization by a court of competent jurisdiction obtained by the~~ 9 ~~lawyer in good faith; or~~

10 ~~(4) paragraph (b) of this rule.~~

11 ~~(b) Notwithstanding the foregoing, an attorney may, without such prior consent,~~
12 ~~communicate with another's client if authorized to do so by any law, rule, or court order,~~
13 ~~in which event the communication shall be strictly restricted to that allowed by the law,~~
14 ~~rule or court order, or as authorized by paragraphs (b), (c), (d) or (e) of this Rule.~~

15 ~~(b) Rules Relating to Unbundling of Legal Services. A lawyer may consider a~~ 16 ~~person whose representation by counsel in a matter does not encompass all aspects of~~ 17 ~~the matter to be unrepresented for purposes of this Rule and Rule 4.3, unless that~~ 18 ~~person's counsel has provided written notice to the lawyer of those aspects of the~~ 19 ~~matter or the time limitation for which the person is represented. Only as to such~~
20 ~~aspects and time is the person considered to be represented by counsel.~~

21 ~~(c) Rules Relating to Government Lawyers Engaged in Civil or Criminal Law~~
22 ~~Enforcement. A government lawyer engaged in a criminal or civil law enforcement~~
23 ~~matter, or a person acting under the lawyer's direction in the matter, may communicate~~
24 ~~with a person known to be represented by a lawyer if:~~

25 ~~(c)(1) the communication is in the course of, and limited to, an investigation of a~~
26 ~~different matter unrelated to the representation or any ongoing, unlawful conduct; or~~

27 ~~(c)(2) the communication is made to protect against an imminent risk of death or~~ 28 ~~serious bodily harm or substantial property damage that the government lawyer~~
29 ~~reasonably believes may occur and the communication is limited to those matters~~
30 ~~necessary to protect against the imminent risk; or~~

(c)(3) the communication is made at the time of the arrest of the represented person and after ~~he or she~~that person is advised of ~~his or her~~the rights to remain silent and the right to counsel and voluntarily and knowingly waives these rights; or

(c)(4) the communication is initiated by the represented person, directly or through an intermediary, if prior to the communication the represented person has given a written or recorded voluntary and informed waiver of counsel, including the right to have substitute counsel, for that communication.

(ed) Organizations as Represented Persons.

(d)(1) When the represented “person” is an organization, an individual is “represented” by counsel for the organization if the individual is not separately represented with respect to the subject matter of the communication, and

(d)(1)(A) with respect to a communication by a government lawyer in a civil or criminal law enforcement matter, is known by the government lawyer to be a current member of the control group of the represented organization; or

(d)(1)(B) with respect to a communication by a lawyer in any other matter, is known by the lawyer to be

(d)(1)(B)(i) a current member of the control group of the represented organization; or

(d)(1)(B)(ii) a representative of the organization whose acts or omissions in the matter may be imputed to the organization under applicable law; or

(d)(1)(B)(iii) a representative of the organization whose statements under applicable rules of evidence would have the effect of binding the organization with respect to proof of the matter.

(d)(2) The term “control group” means the following persons: (A) the chief executive officer, chief operating officer, chief financial officer, and ~~the~~ chief legal officer of the organization; and (B) to the extent not encompassed by ~~the foregoing~~Subsection (A), the chair of the organization’s governing body, president, treasurer, ~~and~~ secretary, and a vice-president or vice-chair who is in charge of a principal business unit, division, or function (such as sales, administration, or finance) or performs a major policy-making function for the organization; and (C) any other current employee or official who is known to be participating as a principal decision maker in the determination of the organization's legal position in the matter.

(d)(3) This Rule does not apply to communications with government parties, employees, or officials unless litigation about the subject of the representation is pending or imminent. Communications with elected officials on policy matters are permissible when litigation is pending or imminent after disclosure of the representation to the official.

(e) Limitations on Communications. When communicating with a represented person pursuant to this Rule, no lawyer may

(e)(1) inquire about privileged communications between the person and counsel or about information regarding litigation strategy or legal arguments of counsel, or seek to induce the person to— forgo representation or disregard the advice of the person's counsel; or

(e)(2) engage in negotiations of a plea agreement, settlement, statutory or non-statutory immunity agreement, or other disposition of actual or potential criminal charges or civil enforcement claims, or sentences or penalties with respect to the matter in which the person is represented by counsel unless such negotiations are permitted by law, rule or court order. paragraphs (a)(1), (2) or (3), or (b)(4).

Comment

~~The purpose of this Rule is to foster and protect legitimate attorney-client relationships. It seeks to guard against inequities that exist when a lawyer speaks to an untrained lay person. The Rule should not, however, be used as a vehicle to thwart appropriate contacts between lawyers and lay persons.~~

[1] Rule 4.2 of the Utah Rules of Professional Conduct deviates substantially from ABA Model Rule 4.2 by the addition of paragraphs (b), (c), (d) and (e). Paragraphs (c), (d) and (e) are substantially the same as the former Utah Rules 4.2(b), (c) and (d), adopted in 1999, as are most of the corresponding comments that address these three paragraphs of this Rule. There is also a variation from the Model Rule in paragraph (a), where the body of judicially created rules are added as a source to which the lawyer may look for general exceptions to the prohibition of communication with persons

91 represented by counsel. (Because of these major differences, the comments to this 92 Rule do not correspond numerically to the comments in ABA Model Rule 4.2.

93 [2] This Rule contributes to the proper functioning of the legal system by protecting 94 a person who has chosen to be represented by a lawyer in a matter against possible
95 overreaching by other lawyers who are participating in the matter, interference by those 96 lawyers with the client-lawyer relationship and the uncounselled disclosure of 97 information relating to the representation.

98 [3] This Rule applies to communications with any person who is represented by 99 counsel concerning the matter to which the communication relates.

100 [4] This Rule applies even though the represented person initiates or consents to 101 the communication. A lawyer must immediately terminate communication with a person 102 if, after commencing communication, the lawyer learns that the person is one with 103 whom communication is not permitted by this Rule.

104 [5] This Rule does not prohibit communications with a represented person~~or entity,~~ 105 ~~or an employee or agent of such~~ represented~~a~~ ~~person~~ ~~or entity,~~ where the subject of the 106 communication is outside the scope of the representation. For example, the existence 107 of a controversy between a government agency and a private ~~person~~party, between two 108 organizations, between individuals or between an organization and an individual does 109 not prohibit a lawyer for either from ~~communication~~ communicating with nonlawyer 110 representatives of the other regarding a separate matter. Nor does the Rule prohibit 111 government lawyers from communicating with a represented person about a matter that 112 does not pertain to the subject matter of the representation but is related to the 113 investigation, undercover or overt, of ongoing unlawful conduct. Moreover, this Rule 114 does not prohibit a lawyer from communicating with a person to determine if the person 115 in fact is represented by counsel concerning the subject matter that the lawyer wishes to 116 discuss with that person.

117 [6] This Rule does not preclude communication with a represented person who is 118 seeking a second opinion from a lawyer who is not otherwise representing a client in the 119 matter. A lawyer may not make a communication prohibited by this Rule through the 120 acts of another. See Rule 8.4(a). Parties to a matter may communicate directly with each other, and a lawyer is not prohibited from advising a client concerning a communication that the client is legally entitled to make.

[7] A lawyer may communicate with a person who is known to be represented by counsel in the matter to which the communication relates only if the communicating lawyer obtains the consent of the represented person's lawyer, or if the communication is otherwise permitted by paragraphs (a), ~~(b)~~ or ~~(bc)~~. Paragraph (a) permits a lawyer to communicate with a person known to be represented by counsel in a matter without first securing the consent of the represented person's lawyer if the communicating lawyer is authorized to do so by ~~subparagraph (1), (2), or (3) of this paragraph. Paragraph (b)~~ law, rule or court order. Paragraph (b) recognizes that the scope of representation of a person by counsel may, under Rule 1.2, be limited by mutual agreement. Because a lawyer for another party cannot know which of Rule 4.2 or 4.3 applies under these circumstances, the lawyer who has undertaken a limited representation must assume the responsibility for informing another party's lawyer of the limitations. This ensures that such a limited representation will not improperly or unfairly induce an adversary's lawyer to avoid contacting the person on those aspects of a matter for which the person is not represented by counsel. Note that this responsibility on the lawyer undertaking limited-scope representation also relates to the ability of another party's lawyer to make certain ex parte contacts without violating Rule 4.3. Utah Rule of Professional Conduct 4.2(b) and related sections of this Comment are part of the additions to the ABA Model Rules clarifying that a lawyer may undertake limited representation of a client under the provisions of Rule 1.2. Paragraph (c) specifies the circumstances in which government lawyers engaged in criminal and civil law enforcement matters may communicate with persons known to be represented by a lawyer in such matters without first securing consent of that lawyer.

[8] A communication with a represented person is authorized ~~under subparagraph by paragraph (a)(1) if permitted by the Constitution or a constitutionally valid statute. Under subparagraph (a)(2), lawyers may also rely on existing judicial precedent or court rules that authorize lawyers to contact persons without permission of the represented person's lawyer.~~ law, rule or court order. This recognizes constitutional and statutory authority as well as the well-established role of the state judiciary in regulating the practice of the legal profession. Direct communications are also ~~permissible~~ permitted if they are made pursuant to discovery procedures or judicial or administrative process in accordance with the orders or rules of the court or other tribunal before which a matter is pending.

[9] A communication is authorized under ~~subparagraph~~ paragraph (a)(~~1~~) if the lawyer is assisting the client to exercise a constitutional right to petition the government for redress of grievances in a policy dispute with the government and if the lawyer notifies the government's lawyer in advance of the intended communication. This would include, for example, a communication by a lawyer with a governmental official with authority to take or recommend action in the matter, provided that the sole purpose of the lawyer's communication is to address a policy issue, including the possibility of resolving a disagreement about a policy position taken by the government. If, on the other hand, the matter does not relate solely to a policy issue, the communicating lawyer must comply with this Rule.

~~Any lawyer desiring to engage in a communication with a represented person that is not otherwise permitted under this Rule may apply in good faith to a court of competent jurisdiction, either ex parte or upon notice, for an order authorizing the communication under subparagraph (a)(3) of this Rule. A "court of competent jurisdiction" means, depending on the context:~~

~~(1) a district judge or magistrate judge of the United States District Court; (2) a judge or commissioner of a court of general jurisdiction of a state having jurisdiction over the matter to which the communication relates; or (3) a military judge.~~

~~A proceeding under subparagraph (a)(3) should be summary in nature, but the specific procedure for obtaining such judicial authorization may vary from jurisdiction to jurisdiction.~~

~~In determining whether a communication is appropriate the court should consider factors such as:~~

~~(1) the communication with the represented person is intended to gain information that is relevant to the matter for which the communication is sought;~~

~~(2) the communication would not be unreasonable or oppressive;~~

~~(3) the purpose of the communication is not primarily to harass the represented person; and~~

~~(4) good cause exists for not requesting the consent of the person's counsel to the communication.~~

~~A written record of the application, including the grounds for the application, the scope of the authorized communications, and the action of the judicial officer, should be required absent exigent circumstances.~~

~~Paragraph (b)~~

~~[10] In the event the person with whom the lawyer communicates is not known to be represented by counsel in the matter, the lawyer's communication is subject to Rule 4.3.~~

[11] Paragraph (c) of this Rule makes clear that this Rule does not prohibit all communications with represented persons by state or federal government lawyers (including law enforcement agents and cooperating witnesses acting at their direction) when the communications occur during the course of civil or criminal law enforcement. The exemptions for government lawyers contained in paragraph (bc) of this Rule recognize the unique responsibilities of government lawyers to enforce public law. Nevertheless, where the lawyer is representing the government in any other role or litigation (such as a contract or tort claim, for example) the same rules apply to government lawyers as are applicable to lawyers for private parties.

[12] A "civil law enforcement proceeding" means a civil action or proceeding before any court or other tribunal brought by the governmental agency that seeks to engage in the communication under relevant statutory or regulatory provisions, or under the government's police or regulatory powers to enforce the law. Civil law enforcement proceedings do not include proceedings related to the enforcement of an administrative subpoena or summons or a civil investigative demand; nor do they include enforcement actions brought by an agency other than the one that seeks to make the communication.

[13] Under ~~sub~~paragraph (bc) of this Rule, communications are permitted in a number of circumstances. For instance, subparagraph (bc)(1) permits the investigation of a different matter unrelated to the representation or any ongoing unlawful conduct. (Unlawful conduct involves criminal activity and conduct subject to a civil law enforcement proceeding.) Such violations include, but are not limited to, conduct that is intended to evade the administration of justice including in the proceeding in which the represented person is a defendant, such as obstruction of justice, subornation of perjury, jury tampering, murder, assault, or intimidation of witnesses, bail jumping, or unlawful flight to avoid prosecution. Also, permitted are undercover activities directed at ongoing criminal activity, even if it is related to past criminal activity for which the person is represented by counsel.

[14] Under subparagraph (b)(2), a government lawyer may engage in limited communications to protect against an imminent risk of serious bodily harm or substantial property damage. The imminence and gravity of the risk will be determined from the totality of the circumstances. Generally, a risk would be imminent if it is likely to occur before the government lawyer could obtain court approval or take other reasonable measures. An imminent risk of substantial property damage might exist if there is a bomb threat directed at a public building. The Rule also makes clear that a government attorney may communicate directly with a represented party “at the time of arrest of the represented party” without the consent of the party’s counsel, provided that the represented party has been fully informed of his or her constitutional rights at that time and has waived them. A government lawyer must be very careful to follow Rule 4.2(d) and would have a significant burden to establish that the waiver of the right to counsel was knowing and voluntary. The better practice would include a written or recorded waiver. Nothing in this Rule, however, prevents law enforcement officers, even if acting under the general supervision of a government lawyer, from questioning a represented person. The actions of the officers will not be imputed to the government lawyer unless the conversation has been “scripted” by the government lawyer.

~~[15] Under subparagraph (b)(4), post-charge If government lawyers have any concerns about the applicability of any of the provisions of paragraph (c) or are confronted with other situations in which communications are permitted if initiated by with represented persons may be warranted, they may seek court approval for the ex parte communication.~~ competent jurisdiction, either ex parte or upon notice, for an order authorizing the communication. This means, depending on the context: (1) a district judge or magistrate judge of a United States District Court; (2) a judge or commissioner of a court of general jurisdiction of a state having jurisdiction over the matter to which the communication relates; or (3) a military judge.

[16] Any lawyer desiring to engage in a communication with a represented person that is not otherwise permitted under this Rule must apply in good faith to a court of

[17] In determining whether a communication is appropriate a lawyer may want to consider factors such as: (1) whether the communication with the represented person, ~~either directly or through an intermediary, and if~~ is intended to gain information that is relevant to the matter for which the communication is sought; (2) whether the communication is unreasonable or oppressive; (3) whether the purpose of the communication is not primarily to harass the represented person; and (4) whether good cause exists for not requesting the consent of the person's counsel prior to the communication. ~~the represented person has given a recorded voluntary and informed waiver of counsel for that communication. The waiver may be written or "recorded" on videotape, audiotape, or other similarly reliable means. If government lawyers have any concerns about the applicability of any of the provisions of subparagraph (b) or are confronted with other situations in which communications with represented persons may be warranted, they may avail themselves of the ex parte procedures for seeking court approval under subparagraph (a)(3).~~ The lawyer should consider requesting the court to make a written record of the application, including the grounds for the application, the scope of the authorized communications, and the action of the judicial officer, absent exigent circumstances.

[18] Organizational clients are entitled to the protections of this Rule. Paragraph (ed) specifies which individuals will be deemed for purposes of this Rule to be represented by the lawyer who is representing the organization in a matter. Included within the control group of an organizational client, for example, would be the designated high level officials identified in subparagraphs ~~s 2(A) and (B)(d)(2)~~. Whether an officer performs a major policy function is to be determined by reference to the organization's business as a whole. Therefore, a vice-president who has policy making functions in connection with only a unit or division would not be a major policy maker for that reason alone, unless that unit or division represents a substantial part of the organization's total business. A staff member who gives advice on policy but does not have authority, alone or in combination with others, to make policy does not perform a major policy making function.

[19] Also included in the control group are other current employees known to be "participating as principal decision makers" in the determination of the organization's legal position in the proceeding or investigation of the matter. In this context, "employee" could also encompass former employees who return to the company's payroll or are specifically retained for compensation by the organization to participate as principal ~~decisionmakers~~ decision makers for a particular matter. In general, however, a lawyer may, consistent with this Rule, interview a former employee of an organization without consent of the ~~organization's lawyer~~ organization's lawyer.

~~If an officer or employee of an organization that is represented by counsel in a matter retains another lawyer to separately represent the officer or employee in the matter, a lawyer (including a government lawyer) who wishes to communicate with the individual about the matter must obtain the consent of the individual's lawyer (if consent of a lawyer is required by the Rule) and need not obtain the consent of the organization's lawyer.~~

[20] In a criminal or civil law enforcement matter involving a represented organization, government lawyers may, without consent of the organization's lawyer, communicate with any officer, employee, or director of the organization who is not a member of the control group. In all other matters involving organizational clients, however, the protection of this Rule is extended to two additional groups of individuals: individuals whose acts might be imputed to the organization for the purpose of subjecting the organization to civil or criminal liability and individuals whose statements might be binding upon the organization. A lawyer permitted by this Rule to communicate with an officer, employee, or director of an organization must abide by the limitations set forth in paragraph (d).

[21] This Rule does prohibit communications with any person who is known by the lawyer making the communication to be represented by counsel in the matter to which the communication relates. A person is "known" to be represented when the lawyer has actual knowledge of the representation. Knowledge is a question of fact to be resolved by reference to the totality of the circumstances, including reference to any written notice of the representation. See Rule 1.0(f) Written notice to a lawyer is relevant, but not conclusive, on the issue of knowledge. Lawyers should ensure that written notice of representation is distributed to all attorneys working on a matter.

[22] Paragraph ~~(de)~~ is intended to regulate a lawyer's communications with a represented person, which might otherwise be permitted under the Rule, by prohibiting any lawyer from taking unfair advantage of the absence of the represented person's counsel. The prohibition contained in paragraph ~~(de)~~ is limited to inquiries concerning privileged communications and lawful defense strategies. The ~~R~~Rule does not prohibit inquiry into unlawful litigation strategies or communications involving, for example, perjury or obstruction of justice.

[23] The prohibition of paragraph ~~(de)~~ against the communicating lawyer's negotiating with the represented person with respect to certain issues does not apply if negotiations are authorized by ~~subparagraphs (a)(1)law, (2) rule or (3)court order~~. For example, a court of competent jurisdiction could authorize a lawyer to engage in direct negotiations with a represented person. Government lawyers may engage in such negotiations if a represented person who has been arrested, charged in a criminal case, or named as a defendant in a civil law enforcement proceeding initiates communications with the government lawyer and the communication is otherwise consistent with ~~the~~ requirements of subparagraph ~~(bc)~~(4).

1 Rule 4.3. Dealing with Unrepresented Person.

2 ~~(a) During the course of a lawyer's representation of a client, the lawyer shall not~~
3 ~~give advice to an unrepresented person other than the advice to obtain counsel.~~

4 ~~(b)(a)~~ In dealing on behalf of a client with a person who is not represented by 5 counsel, a lawyer shall not state or imply that the lawyer is disinterested. When the 6 lawyer knows or reasonably should know that the unrepresented person
7 misunderstands the lawyer's role in the matter, the lawyer shall make reasonable efforts
8 to correct the misunderstanding. The lawyer shall not give legal advice to an 9 unrepresented person, other than the advice to secure counsel, if the lawyer knows or 10 reasonably should know that the interests of such a person are or have a reasonable 11 possibility of being in conflict with the interests of the client.

12 (b) A lawyer may consider a person, whose representation by counsel in a matter
13 does not encompass all aspects of the matter, to be unrepresented for purposes of this 14 Rule and Rule 4.2, unless that person's counsel has provided written notice to the 15 lawyer of those aspects of the matter or the time limitation for which the person is 16 represented. Only as to such aspects and time is the person considered to be 17 represented by counsel.

18 Comment

19 [1] An unrepresented person, particularly one not experienced in dealing with legal 20 matters, might assume that a lawyer is disinterested in loyalties or is a disinterested
21 authority on the law even when the lawyer represents a client. In order to avoid a 22 misunderstanding, a lawyer will typically need to identify the lawyer's client and, where 23 necessary, explain that the client has interests opposed to those of the unrepresented
24 person. For misunderstandings that sometimes arise when a lawyer for an organization
25 deals with an unrepresented constituent, see Rule 1.13(f).

26 [2] This Rule distinguishes between situations involving unrepresented persons 27 whose interests may be adverse to those of the lawyer's client and those in which 28 the person's interests are not in conflict with the client's. In the former situation, the 29 possibility that the lawyer will compromise the unrepresented person's interests is so 30 great that this Rule prohibits the giving of any advice, apart from the advice to obtain 31 counsel. Whether a lawyer is giving impermissible advice may depend on the 32 experience and sophistication of the unrepresented person, as well as the setting in 33 which the behavior and comments occur. This Rule does not prohibit a lawyer from 34 negotiating the terms of a transaction or settling a dispute with an unrepresented

35 person. So long as the lawyer has explained that the lawyer represents an adverse 36 party and is not representing the person, the lawyer may inform the person of the 37 terms on which the lawyer's client will enter into an agreement or settle a matter, 38 prepare documents that require the person's signature and explain the lawyer's own 39 view of the meaning of the document or the lawyer's view of the underlying legal 40 obligations.

41 [3] Paragraph (b) recognizes that the scope of representation of a person by 42 counsel may, under Rule 1.2, be limited by mutual agreement. Because a lawyer for 43 another party cannot know which of Rule 4.2 or 4.3 applies under these 44 circumstances, the lawyer who undertakes a limited representation must assume the 45 responsibility for informing another party's lawyer of the limitations. This ensures 46 that such a limited representation will not improperly or unfairly induce an 47 adversary's lawyer to avoid contacting the person on those aspects of a matter for 48 which the person is not represented by counsel. Note that this responsibility on the 49 lawyer undertaking limited-scope representation also relates to the ability of another
50 party's lawyer to make certain ex parte contacts without violating Rule 4.2.

51 [3a] Utah Rule of Professional Conduct 4.3(b) and related Comment [3] are Utah
52 additions to the ABA Model Rules clarifying that a lawyer may undertake limited
53 representation of a client under the provisions of Rule 1.2.

1 Rule 4.4. Respect for Rights of Third Persons.

2 (a) In representing a client, a lawyer shall not use means that have no substantial 3 purpose other than to embarrass, delay, or burden a third person, or use methods of 4 obtaining evidence that violate the legal rights of such a person.

5 (b) A lawyer who receives a document relating to the representation of the lawyer's 6 client and knows or reasonably should know that the document was inadvertently sent 7 shall promptly notify the sender.

8 Comment

9 [1] Responsibility to a client requires a lawyer to subordinate the interests of others
10 to those of the client, but that responsibility does not imply that a lawyer may disregard
11 the rights of third persons. It is impractical to catalogue all such rights, but they include
12 legal restrictions on methods of obtaining evidence from third persons and unwarranted
13 intrusions into privileged relationships, such as the client-lawyer relationship.

14 [2] Paragraph (b) recognizes that lawyers sometimes receive documents that were 15 mistakenly sent or produced by opposing parties or their lawyers. If a lawyer knows or 16 reasonably should know that such a document was sent inadvertently, then this Rule 17 requires the lawyer to promptly notify the sender in order to permit that person to take 18 protective measures. Whether the lawyer is required to take additional steps, such as 19 returning the original document, is a matter of law beyond the scope of these Rules, as 20 is the question of whether the privileged status of a document has been waived.
21 Similarly, this Rule does not address the legal duties of a lawyer who receives a 22 document that the lawyer knows or reasonably should know may have been wrongfully
23 obtained by the sending person. For purposes of this Rule, "document" includes e-mail
24 or other electronic modes of transmission subject to being read or put into readable 25 form.

26 [3] Some lawyers may choose to return a document unread, for example, when the 27 lawyer learns before receiving the document that it was inadvertently sent to the wrong
28 address. Where a lawyer is not required by applicable law to do so, the decision to 29 voluntarily return such a document is a matter of professional judgment ordinarily 30 reserved to the lawyer. See Rules 1.2 and 1.4.

Rule 5.1. ~~Responsibilities of a partner or supervisory lawyer~~ Responsibilities of Partners, Managers, and Supervisory Lawyers.

(a) A partner in a law firm, and a lawyer who individually or together with other lawyers possesses comparable managerial authority in a law firm, shall make reasonable efforts to ensure that the firm has in effect measures giving reasonable assurance that all lawyers in the firm conform to the Rules of Professional Conduct.

(b) A lawyer having direct supervisory authority over another lawyer shall make reasonable efforts to ensure that the other lawyer conforms to the Rules of Professional Conduct.

(c) A lawyer shall be responsible for another lawyer's violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct if:

(c)(1) The lawyer orders or, with knowledge of the specific conduct, ratifies the conduct involved; or

(c)(2) The lawyer is a partner or has comparable managerial authority in the law firm in which the other lawyer practices, or has direct supervisory authority over the other lawyer, and knows of the conduct at a time when its consequences can be avoided or mitigated but fails to take reasonable remedial action.

Comment

[1] Paragraphs ~~Paragraph~~ (a) and (b) refer applies to lawyers who have supervisory managerial authority over the professional work of a firm ~~or legal department of a government agency~~. This includes members of a partnership ~~and~~ the shareholders in a law firm organized as a professional corporation and members of other associations authorized to practice law; lawyers having supervisory comparable managerial authority in ~~the a legal services organization or a~~ law department of an enterprise or government agency; and lawyers who have intermediate managerial responsibilities in a firm. Paragraph (b) applies to lawyers who have supervisory authority over the work of other lawyers in a firm.

[2] Paragraph (a) requires lawyers with managerial authority within a firm to make reasonable efforts to establish internal policies and procedures designed to provide reasonable assurance that all lawyers in the firm will conform to the Rules of Professional Conduct. Such policies and procedures include those designed to detect and resolve conflicts of interest, identify dates by which actions must be taken in pending matters, account for client funds and property and ensure that inexperienced lawyers are properly supervised. The responsibility for the firm's compliance with paragraph (a) resides with each partner, or other lawyer in the firm with comparable authority.

[2a] Utah's Comment [2] to this Rule differs from the ABA Model Rule's Comment [2]. The Model Rule Comment [2] might suggest the possibility that a firm could be in violation of the Rule without an individual or group of individuals also being in violation. Utah's Comment [2] makes clear that even though the concept of firm discipline is possible, a firm should not be responsible in the absence of individual culpability for a rule violation.

[3] ~~The Other~~ measures that may be required to fulfill the responsibility prescribed in ~~paragraphs paragraph~~ (a) ~~and (b)~~ can depend on the firm's structure and the nature of its practice. In a small firm of experienced lawyers, informal supervision and ~~occasional admonition~~ periodic review of compliance with the required systems ordinarily ~~might be sufficient~~ will suffice. In a large firm, or in practice situations in which ~~intensely~~ difficult ethical problems frequently arise, more elaborate ~~procedures~~ measures may be necessary. Some firms, for example, have a procedure whereby junior lawyers can make confidential referral of ethical problems directly to a designated senior partner or special committee. See Rule 5.2. Firms, whether large or small, may also rely on continuing legal education in professional ethics. In any event, the ethical atmosphere of a firm can influence the conduct of all its members and ~~a lawyer having authority over the work of another~~ the partners may not assume that ~~the subordinate lawyer~~ all lawyers associated with the firm will inevitably conform to the Rules.

[4] Paragraph (c)(1) expresses a general principle of personal responsibility for acts of another. See also Rule 8.4(a).

[5] Paragraph (c)(2) defines the duty of a partner or other a-lawyer having comparable managerial authority in a law firm, as well as a lawyer who ~~having has~~ direct supervisory authority over performance of specific legal work by another lawyer. Whether a lawyer has such supervisory authority in particular circumstances is a question of fact. Partners ~~of a private firm~~ and lawyers with comparable authority have at least indirect responsibility for all work being done by the firm, while a partner or manager in charge of a particular matter ordinarily also has ~~direct authority over~~ supervisory responsibility for the work of other firm lawyers engaged in the matter.

Appropriate remedial action by a partner or managing lawyer would depend on the immediacy of ~~the partner's~~ that lawyer's involvement and the seriousness of the misconduct. ~~The~~ A supervisor is required to intervene to prevent avoidable consequences of misconduct if the supervisor knows that the misconduct occurred.
Thus, if a supervising lawyer knows that a subordinate misrepresented a matter to an opposing party in negotiation, the supervisor as well as the subordinate has a duty to correct the resulting misapprehension.

[6] Professional misconduct by a lawyer under supervision could reveal a violation of paragraph (b) on the part of the supervisory lawyer even though it does not entail a violation of paragraph (c) because there was no direction, ratification or knowledge of the violation.

[7] Apart from this Rule and Rule 8.4(a), a lawyer does not have disciplinary liability for the conduct of a partner, associate or subordinate. Whether a lawyer may be liable civilly or criminally for another lawyer's conduct is a question of law beyond the scope of these Rules.

[8] The duties imposed by this Rule on managing and supervising lawyers do not alter the personal duty of each lawyer in a firm to abide by the Rules of Professional Conduct. See Rule 5.2(a).

1 Rule 5.2. Responsibilities of a Subordinate Lawyer.

2 (a) A lawyer is bound by the Rules of Professional Conduct notwithstanding that the 3 lawyer acted at the direction of another person.

4 (b) A subordinate lawyer does not violate the Rules of Professional Conduct if that 5 lawyer acts in accordance with a supervisory lawyer's reasonable resolution of a 6 question of professional duty.

7 Comment

8 [\[1\]](#) Although a lawyer is not relieved of responsibility for a violation by the fact that 9 the lawyer acted at the direction of a supervisor, that fact may be relevant in 10 determining whether a lawyer had the knowledge required to render conduct a violation
11 of the Rules. For example, if a subordinate filed a frivolous pleading at the direction of a 12 supervisor, the subordinate would not be guilty of a professional violation unless the 13 subordinate knew of the document's frivolous character.

14 [\[2\]](#) When lawyers in a supervisor-subordinate relationship encounter a matter 15 involving professional judgment as to ethical duty, the supervisor may assume 16 responsibility for making the judgment. Otherwise a consistent course of action or 17 position could not be taken. If the question can reasonably be answered only one way, 18 the duty of both lawyers is clear and they are equally responsible for fulfilling it. If the 19 question is reasonably arguable, someone has to decide upon the course of action.
20 That authority ordinarily reposes in the supervisor, and a subordinate may be guided 21 accordingly. For example, if a question arises whether the interests of two clients 22 conflict under Rule 1.7, the supervisor's reasonable resolution of the question should 23 protect the subordinate professionally if the resolution is subsequently challenged.

Rule 5.3. Responsibilities Regarding Nonlawyer Assistants.

With respect to a nonlawyer employed or retained by or associated with a lawyer:

(a) ~~A~~a partner and a lawyer who individually or together with other lawyers possess comparable managerial authority in a law firm shall make reasonable efforts to ensure that the firm has in effect measures giving reasonable assurance that the person's conduct is compatible with the professional obligations of the lawyer;

(b) ~~A~~a lawyer having direct supervisory authority over the nonlawyer shall make reasonable efforts to ensure that the person's conduct is compatible with the professional obligations of the lawyer; and

(c) ~~A~~a lawyer shall be responsible for conduct of such a person that would be a violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct if engaged in by a lawyer if:

(c)(1) The~~the~~ lawyer orders or, with the knowledge of the specific conduct, ratifies the conduct involved; or

(c)(2) The~~the~~ lawyer is a partner or has comparable managerial authority in the law firm in which the person is employed, or has direct supervisory authority over the person, and knows of the conduct at a time when its consequences can be avoided or mitigated but fails to take reasonable remedial action.

Comment

[1] Lawyers generally employ assistants in their practice, including secretaries, investigators, law student interns, and paraprofessionals. Such assistants, whether employees or independent contractors, act for the lawyer in rendition of the lawyer's professional services. A lawyer ~~should~~must give such assistants appropriate instruction and supervision concerning the ethical aspects of their employment, particularly regarding the obligation not to disclose information relating to representation of the client, and should be responsible for their work product. The measures employed in supervising nonlawyers should take account of the fact that they do not have legal training and are not subject to professional discipline.

[2] Paragraph (a) requires lawyers with managerial authority within a law firm to make reasonable efforts to establish internal policies and procedures designed to provide reasonable assurance that nonlawyers in the firm will act in a way compatible with the Rules of Professional Conduct. See Comment [1] to Rule 5.1. Paragraph (b)

32 applies to lawyers who have supervisory authority over the work of a nonlawyer.
33 Paragraph (c) specifies the circumstances in which a lawyer is responsible for conduct
34 of a nonlawyer that would be a violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct if engaged 35 in by a lawyer. The firm's compliance with paragraph (a) resides with each partner or 36 other lawyer in the firm with comparable authority.

37 [2a] Utah's Comment [2] differs from the ABA Model Rule's Comment [2]. The 38 Model Rule Comment suggests the possibility that a firm could be in violation of this 39 Rule without an individual or group of individuals also being in violation. Utah's
40 Comment [2] makes clear that, even though the concept of firm discipline is possible, a 41 firm should not be responsible in the absence of individual culpability for a rule violation.
42

1 Rule 5.4. Professional ~~i~~Independence of a ~~L~~lawyer.

2 (a) A lawyer or law firm shall not share legal fees with a nonlawyer, except that:

3 ~~(a)(1) A~~an~~~~ agreement by a lawyer with the lawyer's firm, partner, or associate may 4 provide for the payment of money, over a reasonable period of time after the lawyer's
5 death, to the lawyer's estate or to one or more specified persons;

6 ~~(a)(2)(i) a lawyer who purchases the practice of a deceased, disabled or~~
7 ~~disappeared lawyer may, pursuant to the provisions of Rule 1.17, pay to the estate or~~ 8 ~~other representative of that lawyer the agreed-upon purchase price; and~~

9 ~~(a)(2)(ii) A~~a~~~~ lawyer who undertakes to complete unfinished legal business of a 10 deceased lawyer may pay to the estate of the deceased lawyer that proportion of the 11 total compensation which fairly represents the services rendered by the deceased 12 lawyer; and

13 ~~(a)(3) A~~a~~~~ lawyer or law firm may include nonlawyer employees in a compensation or 14 retirement plan, even though the plan is based in whole or in part on a profit-sharing 15 arrangement.

16 (b) A lawyer shall not form a partnership with a nonlawyer if any of the activities of 17 the partnership consist of the practice of law.

18 (c) A lawyer shall not permit a person who recommends, employs, or pays the 19 lawyer to render legal services for another to direct or regulate the lawyer's professional 20 judgment in rendering such legal services.

21 (d) A lawyer shall not practice with or in the form of a professional corporation or 22 association authorized to practice law for a profit, if:

23 ~~(d)(1) A~~a~~~~ nonlawyer owns any interest therein, except that a fiduciary representative
24 of the estate of a lawyer may hold the stock or interest of the lawyer for a reasonable 25 time during administration;

26 ~~(d)(2) A~~a~~~~ nonlawyer is a corporate director or officer thereof ~~or occupies the position~~
27 ~~of similar responsibility in any form of association other than a corporation;~~ or

28 ~~(d)(3) A~~a~~~~ nonlawyer has the right to direct or control the professional judgment of a
29 lawyer.

(e) A lawyer may practice in a non-profit corporation which is established to serve the public interest provided that the nonlawyer directors and officers of such corporation do not interfere with the independent professional judgment of the lawyer.

Comment

[1] The provisions of this Rule express traditional limitations on sharing fees. These limitations are to protect the lawyer's professional independence of judgment. Where someone other than the client pays the lawyer's fee or salary, or recommends employment of the lawyer, that arrangement does not modify the lawyer's obligation to the client. As stated in paragraph (c), such arrangements should not interfere with the lawyer's professional judgment.

~~[2] The Rule is intended to prevent lay interference with the attorney/client relationship in non-profit public interest law firms. Typically, these organizations are structured so that a lay board of directors decides to undertake or fund a case or category of cases on behalf of a third party. The organization thus becomes the payor or provider of legal services for others.~~ also expresses traditional limitations on permitting a third party to direct or regulate the lawyer's professional judgment in rendering legal services to another. See also Rule 1.8(f)— (lawyer may accept compensation from a third party as long as there is no interference with the lawyer's independent professional judgment and the client gives informed consent)

[2a] Paragraph 4 of the ABA Model Rule was not adopted because it is inconsistent with the provisions of Rule 7.2(c) which prohibits the sharing of attorney's fees.

1 Rule 5.5. ~~Unauthorized practice of law.~~Unauthorized Practice of Law;
2 Multijurisdictional Practice of Law.

3 ~~A lawyer shall not:~~

4 ~~(a) Practice law in a jurisdiction where doing so violates the regulation of the legal~~ 5 ~~profession in that jurisdiction; or~~

6 ~~(b) Assist any person in the performance of activity that constitutes the unauthorized~~
7 ~~practice of law.~~

8 COMMENT

9 ~~The definition of the practice of law is established by law and varies from one~~
10 ~~jurisdiction to another. Whatever the definition, limiting the practice of law to members of~~ 11 ~~the Bar protects the public against rendition of legal services by unqualified persons.~~
12 ~~Paragraph (b) does not prohibit a lawyer from employing the services of~~ 13 ~~paraprofessionals and delegating functions to them, so long as the lawyer supervises~~
14 ~~the delegated work and retains responsibility for their work. See Rule 5.3. Likewise, it~~
15 ~~does not prohibit lawyers from providing professional advice and instruction to~~ 16 ~~nonlawyers whose employment requires knowledge of law; for example, claims~~
17 ~~adjusters, employees of financial or commercial institutions, social workers, accountants~~
18 ~~and persons employed in government agencies. In addition, a lawyer may counsel~~
19 ~~nonlawyers who wish to proceed pro se.~~

20 (a) A lawyer shall not practice law in a jurisdiction in violation of the regulation of the 21 legal profession in that jurisdiction, or assist another in doing so.

22 (b) A lawyer who is not admitted to practice in this jurisdiction shall not:

23 (b)(1) except as authorized by these Rules or other law, establish an office or other 24 systematic and continuous presence in this jurisdiction for the practice of law; or

25 (b)(2) hold out to the public or otherwise represent that the lawyer is admitted to 26 practice law in this jurisdiction.

27 (c) A lawyer admitted in another United States jurisdiction, and not disbarred or 28 suspended from practice in any jurisdiction, may provide legal services on a temporary 29 basis in this jurisdiction that:

30 (c)(1) are undertaken in association with a lawyer who is admitted to practice in this
31 jurisdiction and who actively participates in the matter;

(c)(2) are in or reasonably related to a pending or potential proceeding before a tribunal in this or another jurisdiction, if the lawyer, or a person the lawyer is assisting, is authorized by law or order to appear in such proceeding or reasonably expects to be so authorized;

(c)(3) are in or reasonably related to a pending or potential arbitration, mediation or other alternative dispute resolution proceeding in this or another jurisdiction, if the services arise out of or are reasonably related to the lawyer's practice in a jurisdiction in which the lawyer is admitted to practice and are not services for which the forum requires pro hac vice admission; or

(c)(4) are not within paragraphs (c)(2) or (c)(3) and arise out of or are reasonably related to the lawyer's practice in a jurisdiction in which the lawyer is admitted to practice.

(d) A lawyer admitted in another United States jurisdiction and not disbarred or suspended from practice in any jurisdiction may provide legal services in this jurisdiction that:

(d)(1) are provided to the lawyer's employer or its organizational affiliates and are not services for which the forum requires pro hac vice admission; or

(d)(2) are services that the lawyer is authorized to provide by federal law or other law of this jurisdiction.

Comment

[1] A lawyer may practice law only in a jurisdiction in which the lawyer is authorized to practice. A lawyer may be admitted to practice law in a jurisdiction on a regular basis or may be authorized by court rule or order or by law to practice for a limited purpose or on a restricted basis. Paragraph (a) applies to unauthorized practice of law by a lawyer, whether through the lawyer's direct action or by the lawyer's assisting another person.

[2] The definition of the practice of law is established by law and varies from one jurisdiction to another. The "practice of law" in Utah is defined in Chapter 13A, Rule 1.0, Authorization to Practice Law, of the Supreme Court Rules of Professional Practice. This Rule does not prohibit a lawyer from employing the services of paraprofessionals and delegating functions to them, so long as the lawyer supervises the delegated work and retains responsibility for their work. See Rule 5.3.

[3] A lawyer may provide professional advice and instruction to nonlawyers whose employment requires knowledge of the law; for example, claims adjusters, employees of financial or commercial institutions, social workers, accountants and persons employed in government agencies. Lawyers also may assist independent nonlawyers, such as paraprofessionals, who are authorized by the law of a jurisdiction to provide particular law-related services. In addition, a lawyer may counsel nonlawyers who wish to proceed pro se.

[4] Other than as authorized by law or this Rule, a lawyer who is not admitted to practice generally in this jurisdiction violates paragraph (b) if the lawyer establishes an office or other systematic and continuous presence in this jurisdiction for the practice of law. Presence may be systematic and continuous even if the lawyer is not physically present here. Such a lawyer must not hold out to the public or otherwise represent that the lawyer is admitted to practice law in this jurisdiction. See also Rules 7.1(a) and 7.5(b).

[5] There are occasions in which a lawyer admitted to practice in another United States jurisdiction, and not disbarred or suspended from practice in any jurisdiction, may provide legal services on a temporary basis in this jurisdiction under circumstances that do not create an unreasonable risk to the interests of their clients, the public or the courts. Paragraph (c) identifies four such circumstances. The fact that conduct is not so identified does not imply that the conduct is or is not authorized. With the exception of paragraphs (d)(1) and (d)(2), this Rule does not authorize a lawyer to establish an office or other systematic and continuous presence in this jurisdiction without being admitted to practice generally here.

[6] There is no single test to determine whether a lawyer's services are provided on a "temporary basis" in this jurisdiction and may therefore be permissible under paragraph (c). Services may be "temporary" even though the lawyer provides services in this jurisdiction on a recurring basis, or for an extended period of time, as when the lawyer is representing a client in a single lengthy negotiation or litigation.

[7] Paragraphs (c) and (d) apply to lawyers who are admitted to practice law in any United States jurisdiction, which includes the District of Columbia and any state, territory or commonwealth of the United States. The word "admitted" in paragraph (c)

94 contemplates that the lawyer is authorized to practice in the jurisdiction in which the 95 lawyer is admitted and excludes a lawyer who while technically admitted is not 96 authorized to practice, because, for example, the lawyer is on inactive status.

97 [8] Paragraph (c)(1) recognizes that the interests of clients and the public are 98 protected if a lawyer admitted only in another jurisdiction associates with a lawyer
99 licensed to practice in this jurisdiction. For this paragraph to apply, however, the lawyer
100 admitted to practice in this jurisdiction must actively participate in and share 101 responsibility for the representation of the client.

102 [9] Lawyers not admitted to practice generally in a jurisdiction may be authorized by 103 law or order of a tribunal or an administrative agency to appear before the tribunal or 104 agency. This authority may be granted pursuant to formal rules governing admission 105 pro hac vice or pursuant to informal practice of the tribunal or agency. Under paragraph 106 (c)(2), a lawyer does not violate this Rule when the lawyer appears before a tribunal or 107 agency pursuant to such authority. To the extent that a court rule or other law of this 108 jurisdiction requires a lawyer who is not admitted to practice in this jurisdiction to obtain 109 admission pro hac vice before appearing before a tribunal or administrative agency, this 110 Rule requires the lawyer to obtain that authority.

111 [10] Paragraph (c)(2) also provides that a lawyer rendering services in this 112 jurisdiction on a temporary basis does not violate this Rule when the lawyer engages in 113 conduct in anticipation of a proceeding or hearing in a jurisdiction in which the lawyer is 114 authorized to practice law or in which the lawyer reasonably expects to be admitted pro 115 hac vice. Examples of such conduct include meetings with the client, interviews of 116 potential witnesses and the review of documents. Similarly, a lawyer admitted only in 117 another jurisdiction may engage in conduct temporarily in this jurisdiction in connection 118 with pending litigation in another jurisdiction in which the lawyer is or reasonably 119 expects to be authorized to appear, including taking depositions in this jurisdiction.

120 [11] When a lawyer has been or reasonably expects to be admitted to appear 121 before a court or administrative agency, paragraph (c)(2) also permits conduct by 122 lawyers who are associated with that lawyer in the matter, but who do not expect to 123 appear before the court or administrative agency. For example, subordinate lawyers may conduct research, review documents and attend meetings with witnesses in support of the lawyer responsible for the litigation.

[12] Paragraph (c)(3) permits a lawyer admitted to practice law in another jurisdiction to perform services on a temporary basis in this jurisdiction if those services are in or reasonably related to a pending or potential arbitration, mediation or other alternative dispute resolution proceeding in this or another jurisdiction, if the services arise out of or are reasonably related to the lawyer's practice in a jurisdiction in which the lawyer is admitted to practice. The lawyer, however, must obtain admission pro hac vice in the case of a court-annexed arbitration or mediation or otherwise if court rules or law so require.

[13] Paragraph (c)(4) permits a lawyer admitted in another jurisdiction to provide certain legal services on a temporary basis in this jurisdiction that arise out of or are reasonably related to the lawyer's practice in a jurisdiction in which the lawyer is admitted but are not within paragraphs (c)(2) or (c)(3).

[14] Paragraphs (c)(3) and (c)(4) require that the services arise out of or be reasonably related to the lawyer's practice in a jurisdiction in which the lawyer is admitted. A variety of factors evidence such a relationship. The lawyer's client may have been previously represented by the lawyer or may be resident in or have substantial contacts with the jurisdiction in which the lawyer is admitted. The matter, although involving other jurisdictions, may have a significant connection with that jurisdiction. In other cases, significant aspects of the lawyer's work might be conducted in that jurisdiction or a significant aspect of the matter may involve the law of that jurisdiction. The necessary relationship might arise when the client's activities or the legal issues involve multiple jurisdictions, such as when the officers of a multinational corporation survey potential business sites and seek the services of their lawyer in assessing the relative merits of each. In addition, the services may draw on the lawyer's recognized expertise developed through the regular practice of law on behalf of clients in matters involving a particular body of federal, nationally-uniform, foreign or international law.

[15] Paragraph (d) identifies two circumstances in which a lawyer who is admitted to practice in another United States jurisdiction, and is not disbarred or suspended from practice in any jurisdiction, may establish an office or other systematic and continuous presence in this jurisdiction for the practice of law as well as provide legal services on a temporary basis. Except as provided in paragraphs (d)(1) and (d)(2), a lawyer who is admitted to practice law in another jurisdiction and who establishes an office or other systematic or continuous presence in this jurisdiction must become admitted to practice law generally in this jurisdiction.

[16] Paragraph (d)(1) applies to a lawyer who is employed by a client to provide legal services to the client or its organizational affiliates, i.e., entities that control, are controlled by or are under common control with the employer. This paragraph does not authorize the provision of personal legal services to the employer's officers or employees. The paragraph applies to in-house corporate lawyers, government lawyers and others who are employed to render legal services to the employer. The lawyer's ability to represent the employer outside the jurisdiction in which the lawyer is licensed generally serves the interests of the employer and does not create an unreasonable risk to the client and others because the employer is well situated to assess the lawyer's qualifications and the quality of the lawyer's work.

[17] If an employed lawyer establishes an office or other systematic presence in this jurisdiction for the purpose of rendering legal services to the employer, the lawyer may be subject to registration or other requirements, including assessments for client protection funds and mandatory continuing legal education.

[18] Paragraph (d)(2) recognizes that a lawyer may provide legal services in a jurisdiction in which the lawyer is not licensed when authorized to do so by federal or other law, which includes statute, court rule, executive regulation or judicial precedent.

[19] A lawyer who practices law in this jurisdiction pursuant to paragraphs (c) or (d) or otherwise is subject to the disciplinary authority of this jurisdiction. See Rule 8.5(a).

[20] In some circumstances, a lawyer who practices law in this jurisdiction pursuant to paragraphs (c) or (d) may have to inform the client that the lawyer is not licensed to practice law in this jurisdiction. For example, that may be required when the representation occurs primarily in this jurisdiction and requires knowledge of the law of this jurisdiction. See Rule 1.4(b).

185 [21] Paragraphs (c) and (d) do not authorize communications advertising legal 186 services to prospective clients in this jurisdiction by lawyers who are admitted to 187 practice in other jurisdictions. Whether and how lawyers may communicate the 188 availability of their services to prospective clients in this jurisdiction are governed by 189 Rules 7.1 to 7.5.

190 [21a] Utah Rule 5.5 differs from the ABA Model Rule 5.5 in Comment [2], where the 191 second sentence has been modified to reflect and be consistent with Chapter 13A, Rule
192 1.0, Authorization to Practice Law, or the Supreme Court Rules of Professional Practice, 193 which both defines the “practice of law” and expressly authorizes nonlawyers to engage 194 in some aspects of the practice of law as long as their activities are confined to the 195 categories of services specified in that rule. Similarly, the last sentence in ABA Model 196 Rule 5.5 Comment [13] has been omitted to comport with Utah’s definition of the 197 “practice of law”.

1 Rule 5.6. Restrictions on Right to Practice.

2 A lawyer shall not participate in offering or making:

3 (a) ~~A partnership or employment~~ a partnership, shareholder, operating, employment,
4 or other similar type of agreement that restricts the ~~rights-right~~ of a lawyer to practice
5 after termination of the relationship, except an agreement concerning benefits upon 6 retirement; or

7 (b) ~~An an~~ agreement in which a restriction on the lawyer's right to practice is part of 8 the settlement of a client controversy ~~between private parties~~.

9 Comment

10 [1] An agreement restricting the right of ~~partners or associates~~ lawyers to practice 11 after leaving a firm not only limits their professional autonomy but also limits the 12 freedom of clients to choose a lawyer. Paragraph (a) prohibits such agreements except 13 for restrictions incident to provisions concerning retirement benefits for service with the 14 firm.

15 [2] Paragraph (b) prohibits a lawyer from agreeing not to represent other persons in 16 connection with settling a claim on behalf of a client.

17 ~~The sale of a law practice that otherwise complies with the Rules of Professional~~
18 ~~Conduct is not to be construed as an agreement of the type specified in paragraph (a)~~
19 ~~nor part of a "settlement of a controversy between private parties" under paragraph (b).~~

20 [3] This Rule does not apply to prohibit restrictions that may be included in the terms
21 of the sale of a law practice pursuant to Rule 1.17.

1 Rule 5.7. Responsibilities Regarding Law-Related Services.

2 (a) A lawyer shall be subject to the Rules of Professional Conduct with respect to the 3 provision of law-related services, as defined in paragraph (b), if the law-related services
4 are provided:

5 (a)(1) by the lawyer in circumstances that are not distinct from the lawyer's provision 6 of legal services to clients; or

7 (a)(2) in other circumstances by an entity controlled by the lawyer individually or with 8 others if the lawyer fails to take reasonable measures to ensure that a person obtaining 9 the law-related services knows that the services are not legal services and that the 10 protections of the client-lawyer relationship do not exist.

11 (b) The term "law-related services" denotes services that might reasonably be 12 performed in conjunction with and in substance are related to the provision of legal 13 services, and that are not prohibited as unauthorized practice of law when provided by a 14 nonlawyer.

15 Comment

16 [1] When a lawyer performs law-related services or controls an organization that 17 does so, there exists the potential for ethical problems. Principal among these is the 18 possibility that the person for whom the law-related services are performed fails to 19 understand that the services may not carry with them the protections normally afforded 20 as part of the client-lawyer relationship. The recipient of the law-related services may 21 expect, for example, that the protection of client confidences, prohibitions against 22 representation of persons with conflicting interests and obligations of a lawyer to 23 maintain professional independence apply to the provision of law-related services when 24 that may not be the case.

25 [2] Rule 5.7 applies to the provision of law-related services by a lawyer even when 26 the lawyer does not provide any legal services to the person for whom the law-related 27 services are performed and whether the law-related services are performed through a 28 law firm or a separate entity. This Rule identifies the circumstances in which all of the 29 Rules of Professional Conduct apply to the provision of law-related services. Even when 30 those circumstances do not exist, however, the conduct of a lawyer involved in the 31 provision of law-related services is subject to those rules that apply generally to lawyer conduct, regardless of whether the conduct involves the provision of legal services.

See, e.g., Rule 8.4.

[3] When law-related services are provided by a lawyer under circumstances that are not distinct from the lawyer's provision of legal services to clients, the lawyer in providing the law-related services must adhere to the requirements of the Rules of Professional Conduct as provided in paragraph (a)(1). Even when the law-related and legal services are provided in circumstances that are distinct from each other, for example, through separate entities or different support staff within the law firm, the Rules of Professional Conduct apply to the lawyer as provided in paragraph (a)(2) unless the lawyer takes reasonable measures to ensure that the recipient of the law-related services knows that the services are not legal services and that the protections of the client-lawyer relationship do not apply.

[4] Law-related services also may be provided through an entity that is distinct from that through which the lawyer provides legal services. If the lawyer individually or with others has control of such an entity's operations, this Rule requires the lawyer to take reasonable measures to ensure that each person using the services of the entity knows that the services provided by the entity are not legal services and that the Rules of Professional Conduct that relate to the client-lawyer relationship do not apply. A lawyer's control of an entity extends to the ability to direct its operation. Whether a lawyer has such control will depend upon the circumstances of the particular case.

[5] When a client-lawyer relationship exists with a person who is referred by a lawyer to a separate law-related service entity controlled by the lawyer, individually or with others, the lawyer must comply with Rule 1.8(a).

[6] In taking the reasonable measures referred to in paragraph (a)(2) to ensure that a person using law-related services understands the practical effect or significance of the inapplicability of the Rules of Professional Conduct, the lawyer should communicate to the person receiving the law-related services, in a manner sufficient to ensure that the person understands the significance of the fact, that the relationship of the person to the business entity will not be a client-lawyer relationship. The communication should be made before entering into an agreement for provision of or providing law-related services, and preferably should be in writing.

[7] The burden is upon the lawyer to show that the lawyer has taken reasonable measures under the circumstances to communicate the desired understanding. For instance, a sophisticated user of law-related services, such as a publicly held corporation, may require a lesser explanation than someone unaccustomed to making distinctions between legal services and law-related services, such as an individual seeking tax advice from a lawyer-accountant or investigative services in connection with a lawsuit.

[8] Regardless of the sophistication of potential recipients of law-related services, a lawyer should take special care to keep separate the provision of law-related and legal services in order to minimize the risk that the recipient will assume that the law-related services are legal services. The risk of such confusion is especially acute when the lawyer renders both types of services with respect to the same matter. Under some circumstances the legal and law-related services may be so closely entwined that they cannot be distinguished from each other, and the requirement of disclosure and consultation imposed by paragraph (a)(2) of this Rule cannot be met. In such a case a lawyer will be responsible for ensuring that both the lawyer's conduct and, to the extent required by Rule 5.3, that of nonlawyer employees in the distinct entity that the lawyer controls complies in all respects with the Rules of Professional Conduct.

[9] A broad range of economic and other interests of clients may be served by lawyers engaging in the delivery of law-related services. Examples of law-related services include providing title insurance, financial planning, accounting, trust services, real estate counseling, legislative lobbying, economic analysis, social work, psychological counseling, tax preparation, and patent, medical or environmental consulting.

[10] When a lawyer is obliged to accord the recipients of such services the protections of those rules that apply to the client-lawyer relationship, the lawyer must take special care to heed the proscriptions of the rules addressing conflict of interest (Rules 1.7 through 1.11, especially Rules 1.7(a)(2) and 1.8(a), (b) and (f)), and to adhere scrupulously to the requirements of Rule 1.6 relating to disclosure of confidential information. The promotion of the law-related services must also in all respects comply with Rules 7.1 through 7.3, dealing with advertising and solicitation. In that regard,

94 lawyers should take special care to identify the obligations that may be imposed as a
95 result of a jurisdiction's decisional law.

96 [11] When the full protections of all of the Rules of Professional Conduct do not 97 apply to the provision of law-related services, principles of law external to the Rules, for 98 example, the law of principal and agent, govern the legal duties owed to those receiving
99 the services. Those other legal principles may establish a different degree of protection 100 for the recipient with respect to confidentiality of information, conflicts of interest and 101 permissible business relationships with clients. See also Rule 8.4 (Misconduct).

Rule 6.1. Voluntary Pro ~~b~~Bono ~~l~~Legal ~~s~~Service.

~~(a) A lawyer should render public interest legal service. Lawyers have Every lawyer has a professional responsibility to provide pro bono legal services. The professional responsibility established under this Rule is aspirational rather than mandatory in nature. The professional responsibility to provide pro bono legal services may be discharged by:~~

~~(1) annually providing at least 36 legal services to those unable to pay. A lawyer should aspire to render at least 50 hours of pro bono legal services; or~~

~~(2) making an annual contribution of at least $10 per hour for each hour not provided under (a)(1) above to an agency which provides direct services as defined in (b) below.~~

~~(b) Guidelines in publico legal services per year. In fulfilling this responsibility include, the lawyer should:~~

~~(1a) providing provide a substantial majority of the 3650 hours of pro bono legal services without fee or expectation of fee to:~~

~~(a)(1) (i) persons of limited means; or~~

~~(a)(2) (ii) charitable, religious, civic, community, governmental and educational organizations in matters which that are designed primarily to address the needs of persons of limited means; and~~

~~(2b) providing provide any additional services through:~~

~~(b)(i1) delivery of legal services at no fee or substantially reduced fee to individuals, groups or organizations seeking to secure or protect civil rights, civil liberties or public rights, or charitable, religious, civic, community, governmental and educational organizations in matters in furtherance of their organizational purposes, where the payment of standard legal fees would significantly deplete the organization's economic resources or would be otherwise be inappropriate;~~

~~(b)(ii2) delivery of legal services at a substantially reduced fee to persons of limited means; or~~

~~(b)(iii3) participation in activities for improving the law, the legal system or the legal profession.~~

~~(c) A lawyer may also discharge the responsibility to provide pro bono publico legal services by making an annual contribution of at least $10 per hour for each hour not~~ provided under paragraph (a) or (b) above to an agency that provides direct services as defined in paragraph (a) above.

(d) Each lawyer is urged to report annually to the Utah State Bar whether the lawyer has satisfied ~~his or her the lawyer's~~ professional responsibility to provide pro bono legal services. Each lawyer may report this information through a simplified reporting form that is made a part of the Bar's annual dues statement. ~~The form may contain the following categories to report whether the lawyer has provided~~

(e) In addition to providing pro bono legal services ~~or made contributions:~~

(1) I have personally provided _____ hours of pro bono legal services during this past reporting year;

(2) (i) I hereby submit $ _____ to the Utah Access to Justice Foundation in meeting my obligation, or

(ii) I have contributed $ _____. (Only contributions, a lawyer should voluntarily contribute financial support to organizations which that provide direct legal services as defined in (b) should be reported).

COMMENT to persons of limited means.

Comment

[1] Every lawyer, regardless of professional prominence or professional work load, has a responsibility to provide legal services to ~~persons of limited means. The Utah State Bar urges all lawyers to provide 36 those unable to pay. Personal involvement in the problems of the disadvantaged can be one of the most rewarding experiences in the life of a lawyer. All lawyers are urged to provide a minimum of 50~~ hours of pro bono ~~legal~~ services annually. It is recognized that in some years a lawyer may render greater or fewer hours than the annual standard specified ~~of 36 hours~~, but during the course of ~~a the lawyer's~~ legal career, each lawyer should ~~aspire to~~ render on average per year, the number of hours set forth in this Rule. Services can be performed in civil, ~~administrative~~, criminal or quasi-criminal matters for which there is no government obligation to provide funds for legal representation, such as post-conviction death penalty appeal cases.

[2] ~~The rule Paragraphs (a)(1) and (a)(2)~~ recognizes the critical need for legal services that exists among persons of limited means by providing that a substantial majority of the legal services rendered annually to the disadvantaged be furnished without fee or expectation of fee. Legal services under these paragraphs consist of a full range of activities, including individual and class representation, the provision of legal advice, legislative lobbying, administrative rule making and the provision of free training or mentoring to those who represent persons of limited means. The variety of these activities should facilitate participation by government lawyers, corporate counsel, and others, even when restrictions exist on their engaging in the outside practice of law.

[3] Persons eligible for legal services under the paragraphs (ba)(1)(i) and (a)(ii) are those who qualify for participation in programs funded by the Legal Services Corporation and those whose incomes and financial resources are slightly above the guidelines utilized by such programs but nevertheless, cannot afford counsel. Legal services can be rendered to individuals or to organizations such as homeless shelters, battered women's centers and food pantries that serve those of limited means. Lawyers providing pro bono legal services on their own need not undertake an investigation to determine client eligibility. Rather, a good faith determination by the lawyer of client eligibility is sufficient. The term "governmental organizations" includes, but is not limited to, public protection programs and sections of governmental or public sector agencies.

[4] Because service should must be provided without fee or expectation of fee or with a substantially reduced fee, the intent of the lawyer to render free or reduced fee legal services is essential for the work performed to fall within the meaning of paragraphs (ba)(1)(i) and (a)(ii). Accordingly, services rendered cannot be considered pro bono if an anticipated fee is uncollected, but the award of statutory lawyers'attorneys' fees in a case originally accepted as pro bono would not disqualify such services from inclusion under this section. Lawyers who do receive fees in such cases are encouraged to contribute an appropriate portion of such fees to organizations or projects that benefit persons of limited means. It is recognized that some pro bono services provided to individuals slightly above program income guidelines may be provided at significantly reduced fees, based on the resources of the individuals.

[5] While it is possible for a lawyer to fulfill the annual responsibility to perform pro bono services exclusively through activities described in paragraphs (ba)(1)(i) and

(a)(ii), to the extent that any hours of service remained unfulfilled, the remaining commitment can be met in a variety of ways as set forth in paragraph (b)(2). Constitutional, statutory or regulatory restrictions may prohibit or impede government and public sector lawyers and judges from performing the pro bono services outlined in paragraphs (b)(1)(i) and (a)(ii). Accordingly, where those restrictions apply, government and public sector lawyers and judges may fulfill their pro bono responsibility by performing services outlined in paragraph (b)(2).

[6] Paragraph (b)(2)(i) includes the provision of certain types of ~~pro bono~~ legal services to those whose incomes and financial resources place them above limited means. It also permits the pro bono lawyer to accept a substantially reduced fee for services. Examples of the types of issues that may be addressed under this paragraph include First Amendment claims, Title VII claims and environmental protection claims. Additionally, a wide range of organizations may be represented, including social service, medical research, cultural and religious groups.

[7] Paragraph (b)(2)(ii) covers instances in which lawyers agree to and receive a modest fee for furnishing pro bono legal services to persons of limited means. Participation in judicare programs and acceptance of court appointments in which the fee is substantially below a lawyer's usual rate are encouraged under this section.

[8] Paragraph (b)(2)(iii) recognizes the value of lawyers engaging in activities that improve the law, the legal system or the legal profession. Serving on bar association committees, serving on boards of pro bono or legal services programs, taking part in Law Day ~~activities, taking part in and other~~ law related education activities, acting as a continuing legal education instructor, a mediator or an arbitrator and engaging in legislative lobbying to improve the law, the legal system or the profession are a few examples of the many activities that ~~may~~ fall within this paragraph.

[9] Because the provision of pro bono ~~legal~~ services is a professional responsibility, it is the individual ethical commitment of each lawyer. Nevertheless, there may be times when it is not feasible for a lawyer to engage in pro bono services. At such times a lawyer may discharge the pro bono responsibility by providing financial support to organizations providing free legal services to persons of limited means. ~~Such financial support should be reasonably equivalent to the value of the hours of service that would~~

~~have otherwise been provided.~~ In addition, at times it may be more feasible to satisfy the pro bono responsibility collectively, as by a firm's aggregate pro bono activities.

~~[10] [9a] The Utah Rule, unlike the Model ABA Rule, contains paragraph (c), which explicitly allows lawyers to discharge their pro bono services responsibility by annually contributing at least $10 per hour for each hour not provided under paragraphs (a) and (b). While the personal involvement of each lawyer in the provision of pro bono legal services is generally preferable, such personal involvement may not always be possible. The annual contribution alternative allows a lawyer to provide financial assistance to increase and improve the delivery of pro bono legal services when a lawyer cannot or decides not to provide pro bono legal services through the contribution of time. Also, there is no prohibition against a lawyer's contributing a combination of hours and financial support.~~

~~[10]~~ Because the efforts of individual lawyers are not enough to meet the need for free legal services that exists among persons of limited means, the government and the profession have instituted additional programs to provide those services. Every lawyer should financially support such programs, in addition to either providing direct pro bono services or making financial contributions when ~~providing~~ pro bono ~~legal~~ services is not feasible.

~~[11] Paragraph (b)(1) recognizes the pressing need for legal services to be provided to persons of limited means without fee or expectation of fee. That type of service is a greater priority than services rendered at a reduced fee to those same persons. For the majority of Utah's practitioners, this preference for 'no-fee' service is reasonable. However, a substantial number of Utah's lawyers practice in communities in which (or with clientele for whom) the cost of living is high and wages are low. For example, Utah's rural counties have average wages ranging from 60% to 80% of the Salt Lake County norm, while cost of living is from 90% to over 100% of the national norm. The same is true of some Wasatch Front communities. These lawyers may have a practice which consists generally of rendering services at reduced fees to persons of limited means. The general preference of 'no-fee' service may not apply to these Law firms should act reasonably to enable and encourage all lawyers in the same manner as to lawyers who rarely render such service.~~

~~[12] While the personal involvement of each lawyer in the provision of pro bono legal services is generally preferable, such personal involvement may not always be possible or produce the ultimate desired result, that is, a significant maximum increase in the quantity and quality of pro bono legal services provided. The annual contribution alternative recognizes a lawyer's professional responsibility to provide financial assistance to increase and improve the delivery of pro bono legal services when a lawyer cannot or decides not to provide firm to provide the pro bono legal services through the contribution of time. Also, there is no prohibition against a lawyer contributing a combination of hours and financial support.~~

~~[13] called for in this Rule.~~

[11a] The Utah Rule, unlike the Model ABA Rule, contains paragraph (d) concerning voluntary reporting to the Utah State Bar. Voluntary reporting is designed to provide a basis for reminding lawyers of their professional responsibility under this Rule and to provide useful statistical information. ~~[14]~~ The intent of this Rule is to direct resources towards providing representation for persons of limited means. Therefore, only contributions made to organizations described in subsection (b) should be reported. ~~[15] The 36-hour standard for the provision of pro bono legal services is a minimum. Additional hours of service are to be encouraged. Many lawyers will, as they have before the adoption of this Rule, contribute many more hours than the minimum.~~ ~~[16]~~ Reporting records for individual attorneys will not be kept or released by the Utah State Bar. The Utah State Bar will gather useful statistical information at the close of each reporting cycle and then purge individual reporting statistics from its database. The general statistical information will be maintained by the Bar for year-to-year comparisons and may be released, at the Bar's discretion, to appropriate organizations and individuals for furthering access to justice in Utah.

[12] The responsibility set forth in this Rule is not intended to be enforced through disciplinary process.

Rule 6.2. Accepting Appointments.

A lawyer shall not seek to avoid appointment by a tribunal to represent a person except for good cause, such as:

(a) Representing the client is likely to result in violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct or other law;

(b) Representing the client is likely to result in an unreasonable financial burden on the lawyer; or

(c) The client or the cause is so repugnant to the lawyer as to be likely to impair the client-lawyer relationship or the lawyer's ability to represent the client.

Comment

[\[1\]](#) A lawyer ordinarily is not obliged to accept a client whose character or cause the lawyer regards as repugnant. The lawyer's freedom to select clients is, however, qualified. All lawyers have a responsibility to assist in providing pro bono publico service. See Rule 6.1. An individual lawyer fulfills this responsibility by accepting a fair share of unpopular matters or indigent or unpopular clients. A lawyer may also be subject to appointment by a court to serve unpopular clients or persons unable to afford legal services.

Appointed Counsel

[\[2\]](#) For good cause a lawyer may seek to decline an appointment to represent a person who cannot afford to retain counsel or whose cause is unpopular. Good cause exists if the lawyer could not handle the matter competently, see Rule 1.1, or if undertaking the representation would result in an improper conflict of interest, for example, when the client or the cause is so repugnant to the lawyer as to be likely to impair the client-lawyer relationship or the lawyer's ability to represent the client. A lawyer may also seek to decline an appointment if acceptance would be unreasonably burdensome, for example, when it would impose a financial sacrifice so great as to be unjust.

[\[3\]](#) An appointed lawyer has the same obligations to the client as retained counsel, including the obligations of loyalty and confidentiality, and is subject to the same limitations on the client-lawyer relationship, such as the obligation to refrain from assisting the client in violation of the Rules.

1 Rule 6.3. Membership in Legal Services Organization.

2 A lawyer may serve as a director, officer or member of a legal services organization,
3 apart from the law firm in which the lawyer practices, notwithstanding that the 4 organization serves persons having interests adverse to a client of the lawyer. The 5 lawyer shall not knowingly participate in a decision or action of the organization:

6 (a) If participation in the decision would be incompatible with the lawyer's obligations
7 to a client under Rule 1.7; or

8 (b) Where the decision could have a material adverse effect on the representation of 9 a client of the organization whose interests are adverse to a client of the lawyer or on 10 the representation of a client of the lawyer or the lawyer's firm.

11 Comment

12 [\[1\]](#) Lawyers should be encouraged to support and participate in legal service
13 organizations. A lawyer who is an officer or a member of such an organization does not 14 thereby have a client-lawyer relationship with persons served by the organization.
15 However, there is potential conflict between the interests of such persons and the 16 interests of the lawyer's clients. If the possibility of such conflict disqualified a lawyer
17 from serving on the board of a legal services organization, the profession's involvement 18 in such organizations would be severely curtailed.

19 [\[2\]](#) It may be necessary in appropriate cases to reassure a client of the organization 20 that the representation will not be affected by conflicting loyalties of a member of the 21 board. Established, written policies in this respect can enhance the credibility of such 22 assurances.

1 Rule 6.4. Law Reform Activities Affecting Client Interests.

2 A lawyer may serve as a director, officer or member of an organization involved in 3 reform of the law or its administration notwithstanding that the reform may affect the 4 interests of a client of the lawyer. When the lawyer knows that the interests of a client
5 may be materially benefitted by a decision in which the lawyer participates, the lawyer
6 shall disclose that fact but need not identify the client.

7 Comment

8 [\[1\]](#) Lawyers involved in organizations seeking law reform generally do not have a
9 client-lawyer relationship with the organization. Otherwise, it might follow that a lawyer 10 could not be involved in a bar association law reform program that might indirectly affect 11 a client. For example, a lawyer specializing in antitrust litigation might be regarded as 12 disqualified from participating in drafting revisions of rules governing that subject. In 13 determining the nature and scope of participation in such activities, a lawyer should be 14 mindful of obligations to clients under other Rules, particularly Rule 1.7. A lawyer is 15 professionally obligated to protect the integrity of the program by making an appropriate 16 disclosure within the organization when the lawyer knows a private client might be 17 materially benefitted.

Rule 6.5. Nonprofit and Court-Annexed Limited Legal Services Programs.

(a) A lawyer who, under the auspices of a program sponsored by a nonprofit organization or court, provides short-term limited legal services to a client without expectation by either the lawyer or the client that the lawyer will provide continuing representation in the matter:

(a)(1) is subject to Rule 1.7 and 1.9(a) only if the lawyer knows that the representation of the client involves a conflict of interest; and

(a)(2) is subject to Rule 1.10 only if the lawyer knows that another lawyer associated with the lawyer in a law firm is disqualified by Rule 1.7 or 1.9(a) with respect to the matter.

(b) Except as provided in paragraph (a)(2), Rule 1.10 is inapplicable to a representation governed by this Rule.

Comment

[1] Legal services organizations, courts and various nonprofit organizations have established programs through which lawyers provide short-term limited legal services such as advice or the completion of legal forms that will assist persons to address their legal problems without further representation by a lawyer. In these programs, such as legal-advice hotlines, advice-only clinics or pro se counseling programs, a client-lawyer relationship is established, but there is no expectation that the lawyer's representation of the client will continue beyond the limited consultation. Such programs are normally operated under circumstances in which it is not feasible for a lawyer to systematically screen for conflicts of interest as is generally required before undertaking a representation. See, e.g. Rules 1.7, 1.9 and 1.10.

[2] A lawyer who provides short-term limited legal services pursuant to this Rule must secure the client's informed consent to the limited scope of the representation. See Rule 1.2(c). If a short-term limited representation would not be reasonable under the circumstances, the lawyer may offer advice to the client but must also advise the client of the need for further assistance of counsel. Except as provided in this Rule, the Rules of Professional Conduct, including Rule 1.6 and 1.9(c), are applicable to the limited representation.

31 [3] Because a lawyer who is representing a client in the circumstances addressed
32 by this Rule ordinarily is not able to check systematically for conflicts of interest, 33 paragraph (a) requires compliance with Rule 1.7 or 1.9(a) only if the lawyer knows that 34 the representation presents a conflict of interest for the lawyer, and with Rule 1.10 only
35 if the lawyer knows that another lawyer in the lawyer's firm is disqualified by Rules 1.7
36 or 1.9(a) in the matter.

37 [4] Because the limited nature of the services significantly reduces the risk of 38 conflicts of interest with other matters being handled by the lawyer's firm, paragraph (b)
39 provides that Rule 1.10 is inapplicable to a representation governed by this Rule except 40 as provided by paragraph (a)(2). Paragraph (a)(2) requires the participating lawyer to 41 comply with Rule 1.10 when the lawyer knows that the lawyer's firm is disqualified by 42 Rules 1.7 or 1.9(a). By virtue of paragraph (b), however, a lawyer's participation in a 43 short-term limited legal services program will not preclude the lawyer's firm from 44 undertaking or continuing the representation of a client with interests adverse to a client
45 being represented under the program's auspices. Nor will the personal disqualification 46 of a lawyer participating in the program be imputed to other lawyers participating in the 47 program.

48 [5] If, after commencing a short-term limited representation in accordance with this 49 Rule, a lawyer undertakes to represent the client in the matter on an ongoing basis, 50 Rules 1.7, 1.9(a) and 1.10 become applicable.

1 Rule 7.1. Communications ~~concerning~~ Concerning a ~~lawyer's~~ Lawyer's
2 ~~services~~ Services.

3 A lawyer shall not make a false or misleading communication about the lawyer or the 4 lawyer's services. A communication is false or misleading if it

5 ~~(a) Contains~~ contains a material misrepresentation of fact or law, or omits a fact
6 necessary to make the statement considered as a whole not materially misleading;.

7 ~~(b) Is likely to create an unjustified expectation about results the lawyer can achieve,~~
8 ~~or states or implies that the lawyer can achieve results by means that violate the Rules~~
9 ~~of Professional Conduct or other law; or~~

10 ~~(c) Compares the lawyer's services with other lawyers' services, unless the~~ 11 ~~comparison can be factually substantiated.~~

12 Comment

13 [1] This Rule governs all communications about a lawyer's services, including 14 advertising permitted by Rule 7.2. Whatever means are used to make known a lawyer's
15 services, statements about them ~~should~~ must be truthful. ~~The prohibition in paragraph~~ 16 ~~(b) of statements that may create "unjustified expectations" would ordinarily preclude~~ 17 ~~advertisements about results obtained on behalf of a client, such as the amount of a~~ 18 ~~damage award or the lawyer's record in obtaining favorable verdicts, and~~ 19 ~~advertisements containing client endorsements. Such information may create the~~ 20 ~~unjustified expectation that similar results can be obtained for others without reference~~
21 ~~to the specific factual and legal circumstances.~~

22 [2] Truthful statements that are misleading are also prohibited by this Rule. A 23 truthful statement is misleading if it omits a fact necessary to make the lawyer's 24 communication considered as a whole not materially misleading. A truthful statement is 25 also misleading if there is a substantial likelihood that it will lead a reasonable person to 26 formulate a specific conclusion about the lawyer or the lawyer's services for which there 27 is no reasonable factual foundation.

28 [3] An advertisement that truthfully reports a lawyer's achievements on behalf of 29 clients or former clients may be misleading if presented so as to lead a reasonable 30 person to form an unjustified expectation that the same results could be obtained for 31 other clients in similar matters without reference to the specific factual and legal

32 circumstances of each client's case. Similarly, an unsubstantiated comparison of the 33 lawyer's services or fees with the services or fees of other lawyers may be misleading if 34 presented with such specificity as would lead a reasonable person to conclude that the 35 comparison can be substantiated. The inclusion of an appropriate disclaimer or 36 qualifying language may preclude a finding that a statement is likely to create unjustified 37 expectations or otherwise mislead a prospective client.

38 [4] See also Rule 8.4(e) for the prohibition against stating or implying an ability to 39 influence improperly a government agency or official or to achieve results by means that 40 violate the Rules of Professional Conduct or other law.

Rule 7.2. Advertising.

(a) Subject to the requirements of Rules 7.1 and 7.3, a lawyer may advertise services ~~through public media, such as a telephone directory, legal directory, newspaper or other periodical, outdoor advertising, radio or television, or~~ through written ~~or,~~ recorded or electronic communication, including public media.

~~(b) A copy or recording of an advertisement or written communication shall be kept for two years after its last dissemination along with a record of when and where it was used.~~

~~(c) (b)~~ A lawyer shall not give anything of value to a person for recommending the lawyer's services;¹ except that a lawyer may:

~~(b)~~(1) pay the reasonable costs² of ~~advertising~~ advertisements or ~~written~~ communication³ permitted by this Rule;

~~(b)~~(2) pay the usual charges of a ~~lawyer referral service~~ legal service plan or a lawyer referral service, ~~or other legal service organization;~~

~~(b)~~(3) pay for a law practice in ~~compliance with the Rules of Professional Conduct, including Rule 1.17; or~~ accordance with Rule 1.17; or

~~(b)~~(4) divide a fee with another lawyer as permitted by Rule 1.5(e).

(c) Any communication made pursuant to this Rule shall include the name and office address of at least one lawyer of the firm responsible for its content.

Comment

[1] To assist the public in obtaining legal services, lawyers should be allowed to make known their services not only through reputation but also through organized information campaigns in the form of advertising. Advertising involves an active quest for clients, contrary to the tradition that a lawyer should not seek clientele. However, the public's need to know about legal services can be fulfilled in part through advertising. This need is particularly acute in the case of persons of moderate means who have not made extensive use of legal services. The interest in expanding public information about legal services ought to prevail over considerations of tradition. Nevertheless, advertising by lawyers entails the risk of practices that are misleading or overreaching.

[2] This Rule permits public dissemination of information concerning a lawyer's name or firm name, address and telephone number; the kinds of services the lawyer will undertake; the basis on which the lawyer's fees are determined, including prices for specific services and payment and credit arrangements; a lawyer's foreign language ability; names of references and, with their consent, names of clients regularly represented; and other information that might invite the attention of those seeking legal assistance.

[3] Questions of effectiveness and taste in advertising are matters of speculation and subjective judgment. Some jurisdictions have had extensive prohibitions against television advertising, against advertising going beyond specified facts about a lawyer, or against "undignified" advertising. Television is now one of the most powerful media for getting information to the public, particularly persons of low and moderate income; prohibiting television advertising, therefore, would impede the flow of information about legal services to many sectors of the public. Limiting the information that may be advertised has a similar effect and assumes that the Bar can accurately forecast the kind of information that the public would regard as relevant. Similarly, electronic media, such as the Internet, can be an important source of information about legal services, and lawful communication by electronic mail is permitted by this Rule. But see Rule 7.3(a) for the prohibition against the solicitation of a prospective client through a real-time electronic exchange that is not initiated by the prospective client.

[4] Neither this Rule nor Rule 7.43 prohibits communications authorized by law, such as notice to members of a class in class action litigation.

Record of Advertising

~~Paragraph (b) requires that a record of the content and use of advertising be kept in order to facilitate enforcement of this Rule. It does not require that advertising be subject to review prior to dissemination. Such a requirement would be burdensome and expensive relative to its possible benefits, and may be of doubtful constitutionality.~~

Paying Others to Recommend a Lawyer

[5] ~~A lawyer is allowed~~ Lawyers are not permitted to pay others for channeling professional work. Paragraph (b)(1), however, allows a lawyer to pay for advertising and ~~written communications permitted by this Rule, to pay for a law practice in compliance with the Rules of Professional Conduct, including Rule 1.17, and to pay referral fees permitted by Rule 1.5(e), even if such fees are paid on a fee-per-case~~

63 ~~basis. Fees may not be paid to a lawyer referral service or to a legal services~~
64 ~~organization on a fee-per-case basis. This restriction does not prevent an organization~~
65 ~~or person other than the lawyer from advertising or recommending the lawyer's~~
66 ~~services. Thus, a legal aid agency or prepaid legal services plan may pay to advertise~~
67 ~~legal services provided under its auspices. Likewise, a lawyer may participate in lawyer~~
68 ~~referral programs and pay the usual fees charged by such programs. Paragraph (c)~~ 69 ~~does not prohibit paying regular compensation to an assistant, such as a secretary, to~~
70 ~~prepare communications permitted by this Rule, including the costs of print directory~~
71 ~~listings, on-line directory listings, newspaper ads, television and radio airtime, domain-~~
72 ~~name registrations, sponsorship fees, banner ads and group advertising. A lawyer may~~ 73 ~~compensate employees, agents and vendors who are engaged to provide marketing or~~
74 ~~client-development services, such as publicists, public-relations personnel, business-~~
75 ~~development staff and website designers. See Rule 5.3 for the duties of lawyers and~~ 76 ~~law firms with respect to the conduct of nonlawyers who prepare marketing materials for~~ 77 ~~them.~~

78 [6] A lawyer may pay the usual charges of a legal service plan or a lawyer referral
79 service. A legal service plan is a prepaid or group legal service plan or a similar 80 delivery system that assists prospective clients to secure legal representation. A lawyer 81 referral service, on the other hand, is an organization that holds itself out to the public to 82 provide referrals to lawyers with appropriate experience in the subject matter of the 83 representation.

84 [7] A lawyer who accepts assignments or referral from a legal service plan or 85 referrals from a lawyer referral service must act reasonably to assure that the activities
86 of the plan or service are compatible with the lawyer's professional obligations. See 87 Rule 5.3. Legal service plans and lawyer referral services may communicate with 88 prospective clients, but such communication must be in conformity with these Rules.
89 Thus, advertising must not be false or misleading, as would be the case if the 90 communications of a group advertising program or a group legal services plan would 91 mislead prospective clients to think that it was a lawyer referral service sponsored by a 92 state agency or bar association. Nor could the lawyer allow in-person, telephonic, or 93 real-time contacts that would violate Rule 7.3.

94 [7a] Utah Rule 7.2(b)(2) differs from the ABA Model Rule by permitting a lawyer to 95 pay the usual charges of any lawyer referral service. This is not limited to not-for-profit 96 services. Comment [6] to the Utah rule is modified accordingly.
97

1 Rule 7.3. Direct Contact with Prospective Clients.

2 (a) A lawyer shall not by in-person contact or other real-time communication solicit
3 professional employment from a prospective client ~~with whom the lawyer has no family~~
4 ~~relationship, prior or current professional relationship, or close personal friendship,~~
5 when a significant motive for the lawyer's doing so is the lawyer's pecuniary gain.
6 ~~"Real-time communication" means in-person, telephonic, electronic, radio, wire,~~
7 ~~wireless or other similar communication directed to a specific recipient and~~
8 ~~characterized by the immediacy and interactivity of response between individuals, such~~
9 ~~as that provided through standard telephone connections and Internet "chat rooms."~~
10 unless the person contacted:

11 (a)(1) is a lawyer; or

12 (a)(2) has a family, close personal, or prior professional relationship with the lawyer.

13 (b) A lawyer ~~may~~ shall not solicit professional employment from a prospective client
14 by ~~any written, recorded or electronic communication directed to a specific recipient~~
15 ~~concerning a specific cause of action under the following circumstances or by in-person~~ 16 ~~contact or other real-time communication even when not otherwise prohibited by~~ 17 paragraph (a), if:

18 (b)(1) The person the prospective client has made known to the lawyer a desire not 19 to ~~receive communications from~~ be solicited by the lawyer; or 20 (b)(2) The communication the solicitation involves coercion, duress or harassment.

21 (c) Every written, recorded or electronic communication from a lawyer soliciting
22 professional employment from a prospective client ~~and with whom the lawyer has no~~
23 ~~family relationship, prior or current professional relationship, or close personal~~
24 ~~friendship, shall prominently known to be in need of legal services in a particular matter~~
25 shall include the words "Advertising Material" on the outside envelope, if any, and at the 26 beginning of any recorded or electronic communication, unless the recipient of the 27 communication is a person specified in paragraphs (a)(1) or (a)(2). For the purposes of 28 this subsection, "written communication" does not include advertisement through public 29 media, including but not limited to a telephone directory, legal directory, newspaper or 30 other periodical, outdoor advertising, radio or television.

(d) Notwithstanding the prohibitions in paragraph (a), a lawyer may participate with a prepaid or group legal service plan operated by an organization not owned or directed by the lawyer that uses in-person or other real-time communication to solicit memberships or subscriptions for the plan from persons who are not known to need legal services in a particular matter covered by the plan.

Comment

[1] There is a potential for abuse inherent in direct in-person or other real-time communication by a lawyer with a prospective client ~~known to need legal services~~. These forms of ~~solicitation by contact between~~ a lawyer ~~of and~~ a prospective client subject the ~~lay person~~ layperson to the private importuning of ~~a the~~ trained advocate in a direct interpersonal encounter. The prospective client, who may already feel overwhelmed by the circumstances giving rise to the need for legal services, may find it difficult fully to evaluate ~~fully~~ all available alternatives with reasoned judgment and appropriate self-interest in the face of the lawyer's presence and insistence upon being retained immediately. The situation is fraught with the possibility of undue influence, intimidation ~~and overreaching, particularly where the physical, emotional or mental state of the prospective client is such that the prospective client could not exercise reasonable judgment in employing a lawyer, and over-reaching~~.

[1a] "Real-time communication" means telephonic, electronic, radio, wire, wireless or other similar communication directed to a specific recipient and characterized by the immediacy and interactivity of response between individuals, such as that provided through standard telephone connections and Internet "chat rooms." This Comment is not included in the ABA Model Rule 7.3, and is added to clarify that the definition of real-time communication is broad enough to cover real-time communication of all types.

[2] The ~~This~~ potential for abuse inherent in direct in-person and other real-time solicitation of prospective clients justifies its prohibition, particularly since lawyer advertising ~~and written and recorded communication~~ permitted under Rule 7.2 ~~offers~~ offer alternative means of conveying necessary information to those who may be in need of legal services. Advertising and written and recorded communications that may be mailed or autodialed make it possible for a prospective client to be informed about the need for legal services, and about the qualifications of available lawyers and law firms, without subjecting the prospective client to direct in-person or other real-time persuasion that may overwhelm the client's judgment.

[3] The use of general advertising and written~~—and—~~ recorded or electronic communications to transmit information from lawyer to prospective client, rather than direct in-person or other real-time communications, will help to ~~ensure—ensure~~ that the information flows cleanly as well as freely. The contents of advertisements and communications permitted under Rule 7.2 ~~are required to be—can be permanently~~ recorded so that they cannot be disputed and may be shared with others who know the lawyer. This potential for informal review is itself likely to help guard against statements and claims that might constitute false ~~or—and~~ misleading communications in violation of Rule 7.1. The contents of direct in-person ~~communications—~~or other real-time communication between a lawyer and a prospective client can be disputed and may not be subject to third-party scrutiny. Consequently, they are much more likely to approach (and occasionally cross) the dividing line between accurate representations and those that are false ~~or—and~~ misleading.

[4] There is far less likelihood that a lawyer would engage in abusive practices against an individual who is a former client, or with whom the lawyer has a close personal or family relationship, ~~prior or current professional relationship or close personal friendship, or where or in situations in which~~ the lawyer is motivated by considerations other than the lawyer's pecuniary gain. ~~Although not easily defined, a close personal friendship should be a mutually acknowledged friendship~~Nor is there a serious potential for abuse when the person contacted is a lawyer. Consequently, the general prohibition in Rule 7.3(a) and the requirements of Rule 7.3(c) are not applicable in ~~these—those~~ situations. ~~Also, paragraph (a) Rule 7.3(a) is not intended to prohibit a lawyer from participating in constitutionally protected activities of public or charitable legal—legal~~-service organizations or bona fide political, social, civic, fraternal, employee or trade organizations whose purposes include providing or recommending legal services to its members or beneficiaries. ~~Also, a lawyer may solicit professional employment by written, recorded or other electronic communication to persons not known to need legal services of the kind provided by the lawyer in a particular matter but who are so situated that they might in general find such services useful.~~

[5] But even permitted forms of solicitation can be abused. ~~Any~~ Thus, any solicitation ~~that~~ which contains information ~~that~~ which is false or misleading within the meaning of Rule 7.1, ~~that~~ involves coercion, duress or harassment within the meaning of Rule 7.3(b)(2), or ~~that~~ involves contact with a prospective client who has made known to the lawyer a desire not to be solicited by the lawyer within the meaning of Rule 7.3(b)(1) is prohibited. Moreover, if after sending a letter or other communication to a client as permitted by Rule 7.2 the lawyer receives no response, any further effort to communicate with the prospective client may violate the provisions of Rule 7.3(b).

[6] This Rule is not intended to prohibit a lawyer from contacting representatives of organizations or groups that may be interested in establishing a group or prepaid legal plan for their members, insureds, beneficiaries or other third parties for the purpose of informing such entities of the availability of and the details concerning the plan or arrangement which the lawyer or lawyer's firm is willing to offer. This form of communication is not directed to a prospective client. Rather, it is usually addressed to an individual acting in a fiduciary capacity seeking a supplier of legal services for others who may, if they choose, become prospective clients of the lawyer. Under these circumstances, the activity which the lawyer undertakes in communicating with such representatives and the type of information transmitted to the individual are functionally similar to and serve the same purpose as advertising permitted under Rule 7.2.

[7] The requirement in Rule 7.3(c) that certain communications be marked "Advertising Material" does not apply to communications sent in response to requests of ~~prospective~~ potential clients or their ~~representatives~~ spokespersons or sponsors. General announcements by lawyers, including changes in personnel or office location, do not constitute communications soliciting professional employment from a client known to be in need of legal services within the meaning of this Rule.

~~Although the requirement to place the words "Advertising Material" on written communication from a lawyer soliciting employment from a prospective client may not ensure the accuracy and reliability of the contents, it puts the prospective client on notice of the nature of the communication.~~

[7a] Utah Rule 7.3(c) requires the words "Advertising Material" to be marked on the outside of an envelope, if any, and at the beginning of any recorded or electronic

124 communication, but not at the end as the ABA Model Rule requires. Lawyer 125 solicitations in public media that regularly contain advertisements do not need the 126 “Advertising Material” notice because persons who view or hear such media usually 127 recognize the nature of the communications.

128 [8] Paragraph (d) of this Rule permits a lawyer to participate with an organization
129 that uses personal contact to solicit members for its group or prepaid legal service plan, 130 provided that the personal contact is not undertaken by any lawyer who would be a 131 provider of legal services through the plan. The organization must not be owned by or 132 directed (whether as manager or otherwise) by any lawyer or law firm that participates 133 in the plan. For example, paragraph (d) would not permit a lawyer to create an 134 organization controlled directly or indirectly by the lawyer and use the organization for 135 the in-person or other real-time electronic solicitation of legal employment of the lawyer
136 through memberships in the plan or otherwise. The communication permitted by these 137 organizations also must not be directed to a person known to need legal services in a 138 particular matter, but is to be designed to inform potential plan members generally of 139 another means of affordable legal services. Lawyers who participate in a legal service
140 plan must reasonably assure that the plan sponsors are in compliance with Rules 7.1, 141 7.2 and 7.3(b). See Rule 8.4(a).

1 Rule 7.4. Communication of ~~f~~Fields of ~~p~~Practice.

2 (a) A lawyer may communicate the fact that the lawyer will accept employment in 3 specified areas of practice. A lawyer whose practice is limited to specified areas of 4 practice may communicate that fact. A lawyer shall not hold himself out publicly as a 5 specialist and shall not indicate any certification or designation as a specialist, except as 6 follows:

7 (a) does or does not practice in particular fields of law.

8 (b) A lawyer admitted to engage in patent practice before the United States Patent
9 and Trademark Office may use the designation "Patent Attorney" or a substantially 10 similar designation; and.

11 (b) In accordance with any plan regulating lawyer specialization approved and 12 promulgated

13 (c) A lawyer engaged in Admiralty practice may use the designation "Admiralty," 14 "Proctor in Admiralty" or substantially similar designation.

15 (d) A lawyer shall not state or imply that a lawyer is certified as a specialist in a 16 particular field of law, unless:

17 (d)(1) the lawyer has been certified as a specialist by an organization that has been 18 approved by an appropriate state authority or that has been accredited by the American 19 Bar Association; and

20 (d)(2) the name of the certifying organization is clearly identified in the 21 communication by the Utah Supreme Court.

22 COMMENT

23 See In re Utah State Bar Petition for Approval of Changes in Disciplinary Rules on 24 Advertising, 647 P.2d 991 (Utah 1982).

25 Comment

26 [1] Paragraph (a) of this Rule permits a lawyer to indicate areas of practice in 27 communications about the lawyer's services. If a lawyer practices only in certain fields 28 or will not accept matters except in a specified field or fields, the lawyer is permitted to 29 so indicate. A lawyer is generally permitted to state that the lawyer is a "specialist," 30 practices a "specialty" or "specializes in" particular fields, but such communications are

31 subject to the “false and misleading” standard applied in Rule 7.1 to communications 32 concerning a lawyer’s services.

33 [2] Paragraph (b) recognizes the long-established policy of the Patent and 34 Trademark Office for the designation of lawyers practicing before the Office. Paragraph 35 (c) recognizes that designation of Admiralty practice has a long historical tradition
36 associated with maritime commerce and the federal courts.

37 [3] Paragraph (d) permits a lawyer to state that the lawyer is certified as a specialist 38 in a field of law if such certification is granted by an organization approved by an 39 appropriate state authority or accredited by the American Bar Association or another 40 organization, such as a state bar association, that has been approved by the state
41 authority to accredit organizations that certify lawyers as specialists. Certification 42 signifies that an objective entity has recognized an advanced degree of knowledge and 43 experience in the specialty area greater than is suggested by general licensure to 44 practice law. Certifying organizations may be expected to apply standards of 45 experience, knowledge and proficiency to insure that a lawyer’s recognition as a 46 specialist is meaningful and reliable. In order to insure that consumers can obtain 47 access to useful information about an organization granting certification, the name of 48 the certifying organization must be included in any communication regarding the 49 certification.

1 Rule 7.5. Firm Names and Letterheads.

2 (a) A lawyer shall not use a firm name, letterhead or other professional designation
3 that violates Rule 7.1. A trade name may be used by a lawyer in private practice if it
4 does not imply a connection with a government agency or with a public or charitable 5 legal services organization and is not otherwise in violation of Rule 7.1.

6 (b) A law firm with offices in more than one jurisdiction may use the same name or 7 other professional designation in each jurisdiction, but identification of the lawyers in an 8 office of the firm shall indicate the jurisdictional limitations on those not licensed to 9 practice in the jurisdiction where the office is located.

10 (c) The name of a lawyer holding a public office shall not be used in the name of a 11 law firm, or in communications on its behalf, during any substantial period in which the 12 lawyer is not actively and regularly practicing with the firm.

13 (d) Lawyers may state or imply that they practice in a partnership or other 14 organization only when that is the fact.

15 Comment

16 [1] A firm may be designated by the names of all or some of its members, by the 17 names of deceased members where there has been a continuing succession in the 18 firm's identity or by a trade name such as the "ABC Legal Clinic." A lawyer or law firm 19 may also be designated by a distinctive website address or comparable professional 20 designation. Although the United States Supreme Court has held that legislation may 21 prohibit the use of trade names in professional practice, use of such names in law
22 practice is acceptable so long as it is not misleading. If a private firm uses a trade name
23 that includes a geographical name such as "Springfield Legal Clinic," an express
24 disclaimer that it is not a public legal aid agency may be required to avoid a misleading
25 implication. It may be observed that any firm name including the name of a deceased
26 partner is, strictly speaking, a trade name. The use of such names to designate law 27 firms has proven a useful means of identification. However, it is misleading to use the 28 name of a lawyer not associated with the firm or a predecessor of the firm, or the name 29 of a nonlawyer.

30 [2] With regard to paragraph (d), lawyers sharing office facilities, but who are not in 31 fact ~~partners~~ associated with each other in a law firm, may not denominate themselves

32 as, for example, "Smith and Jones," for that title suggests ~~partnership in the practice of~~ 33 that they are practicing law together in a firm.

34

Rule 8.1. Bar Admission and Disciplinary Matters.

An applicant for admission to the Bar, or a lawyer in connection with a Bar admission application or in connection with a disciplinary matter, shall not:

(a) Knowingly make a false statement of material fact; or

(b) Fail to disclose a fact necessary to correct a misapprehension known by the person to have arisen in the matter; or knowingly fail to respond to a lawful demand for information from an admissions or disciplinary authority, except that this Rule does not require disclosure of information otherwise protected by Rule 1.6.

Comment

[1] The duty imposed by this Rule extends to persons seeking admission to the ~~b~~Bar as well as to lawyers. Hence, if a person makes a material false statement in connection with an application for admission, it may be the basis for subsequent disciplinary action if the person is admitted, and in any event may be relevant in a subsequent admission application. The duty imposed by this Rule applies to a lawyer's own admission or discipline as well as that of others. Thus, it is a separate professional offense for a lawyer to knowingly make a misrepresentation or omission in connection with a disciplinary investigation of the lawyer's own conduct. ~~This Paragraph (b) of this~~ Rule also requires correction of any prior misstatement in the matter that the applicant or lawyer may have made and affirmative clarification of any misunderstanding on the part of the admissions or disciplinary authority of which the person involved becomes aware.

[2] This Rule is subject to the provisions of the Fifth Amendment of the United States Constitution and corresponding provisions of state constitutions. A person relying on such a provision in response to a question, however, should do so openly and not use the right of nondisclosure as a justification for failure to comply with this Rule.

[3] A lawyer representing an applicant for admission to the ~~b~~Bar, or representing a lawyer who is the subject of a disciplinary inquiry or proceeding, is governed by the rules applicable to the client-lawyer relationship, including Rule 1.6 and in some cases Rule 3.3.

1 Rule 8.2. Judicial ~~e~~Officials.

2 (a) A lawyer shall not make a public statement that the lawyer knows to be false or 3 with reckless disregard as to its truth or falsity concerning the qualifications or integrity
4 of a judge, adjudicatory officer, or ~~of~~ a candidate for election or appointment to judicial 5 office.

6 (b) A lawyer who is a candidate for judicial office shall comply with the applicable
7 provisions of the Code of Judicial Conduct.

8 Comment

9 [1] Assessments by lawyers are relied on in evaluating the professional or personal 10 fitness of persons being considered for election or appointment to judicial office.
11 Expressing honest and candid opinions on such matters contributes to improving the 12 administration of justice. Conversely, false statements by a lawyer can unfairly 13 undermine public confidence in the administration of justice.

14 [2] When a lawyer seeks judicial office, the lawyer should be bound by applicable
15 limitations on political activity.

16 [3] To maintain the fair and independent administration of justice, lawyers are 17 encouraged to continue traditional efforts to defend judges and courts unjustly criticized.

18 [3a] Utah has not adopted ABA Model Rule 8.2 because the Utah Rule 8.2 provide 19 appropriate protection to the judiciary.

20

1 Rule 8.3. Reporting Professional Misconduct.

2 (a) A lawyer ~~having knowledge who knows~~ that another lawyer has committed a 3 violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct that raises a substantial question as to 4 that lawyer's honesty, trustworthiness or fitness as a lawyer in other respects, shall 5 inform the appropriate professional authority.

6 (b) A lawyer ~~having knowledge who knows~~ that a judge has committed a violation of 7 ~~the~~ applicable Rules of Judicial Conduct that raises a substantial question as to the 8 judge's fitness for office shall inform the appropriate authority.

9 (c) This Rule does not require disclosure of information otherwise protected by Rule 10 1.6 or information gained by a lawyer or judge while participating in an approved 11 lawyers assistance program.

12 ~~(d) This rule does not require disclosure of information provided to or discovered by~~ 13 ~~members of the Utah State Bar during the course of their work on the Lawyers Helping~~ 14 ~~Lawyers Committee, a committee which has as its purpose the counseling of other bar~~
15 ~~members about substance abuse or psychological or emotional problems.~~

16 Comment

17 [1] Self-regulation of the legal profession requires that members of the profession
18 initiate disciplinary investigation when they know of a violation of the Rules of 19 Professional Conduct. Lawyers have a similar obligation with respect to judicial 20 misconduct. An apparently isolated violation may indicate a pattern of misconduct that 21 only a disciplinary investigation can uncover. Reporting a violation is especially 22 important where the victim is unlikely to discover the offense.

23 [2] A report about misconduct is not required where it would involve violation of Rule 24 1.6. However, a lawyer should encourage a client to consent to disclosure where 25 prosecution would not substantially prejudice the client's interests.

26 [3] If a lawyer were obliged to report every violation of the Rules, the failure to report
27 any violation would itself be a professional offense. Such a requirement existed in many 28 jurisdictions but proved to be unenforceable. This Rule limits the reporting obligation to 29 those offenses that a self-regulating profession must vigorously endeavor to prevent. A 30 measure of judgment is, therefore, required in complying with the provisions of this 31 Rule. The term "substantial" refers to the seriousness of the possible offense and not the quantum of evidence of which the lawyer is aware. A report should be made to the bar disciplinary agency unless some other agency, such as a peer review agency, is more appropriate in the circumstances. Similar considerations apply to the reporting of judicial misconduct.

[4] The duty to report professional misconduct does not apply to a lawyer retained to represent a lawyer whose professional conduct is in question. Such a situation is governed by the rules applicable to the client-lawyer relationship.

[5] Information about a lawyer's or judge's misconduct or fitness may be received by a lawyer in the course of that lawyer's participation in an approved lawyers or judges assistance program. In that circumstance, providing for an exception to the reporting requirements of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this Rule encourages lawyers and judges to seek treatment through such a program. Conversely, without such an exception, lawyers and judges may hesitate to seek assistance from these programs, which may then result in additional harm to their professional careers and additional injury to the welfare of clients and the public.

Rule 8.4. Misconduct.

It is professional misconduct for a lawyer to:

(a) ~~Violate-violate~~ or attempt to violate the Rules of Professional Conduct, knowingly assist or induce another to do so, or do so through the acts of another;

(b) ~~Commit-commit~~ a criminal act that reflects adversely on the lawyer's honesty, trustworthiness or fitness as a lawyer in other respects;

(c) ~~Engage—engage~~ in conduct involving dishonesty, fraud, deceit or misrepresentation;

(d) ~~Engage-engage~~ in conduct that is prejudicial to the administration of justice;

(e) ~~State-state~~ or imply an ability to influence improperly a government agency or official or to achieve results by means that violate the Rules of Professional Conduct or other law; or;

(f) ~~Knowingly-knowingly~~ assist a judge or judicial officer in conduct that is a violation of applicable ~~Rules of Judicial Conduct or other law; or rules of judicial conduct or other law.~~

~~(g) Engage in sexual relations with a client that exploit the lawyer-client relationship. For purposes of this subdivision:~~

~~(1) "Sexual relations" means sexual intercourse or the touching of an intimate part of another person for the purpose of sexual arousal, gratification, or abuse; and~~

~~(2) Except for a spousal relationship or a sexual relationship that existed at the commencement of the lawyer-client relationship, sexual relations between a lawyer and a client shall be presumed to be exploitative. This presumption is rebuttable.~~

Comment

[1] Lawyers are subject to discipline when they violate or attempt to violate the Rules of Professional Conduct or knowingly assist or induce another to do so through the acts of another, as when they request or instruct an agent to do so on the lawyer's behalf. Paragraph (a), however, does not prohibit a lawyer from advising a client concerning action the client is legally entitled to take.

[2] Many kinds of illegal conduct reflect adversely on fitness to practice law, such as offenses involving fraud and the offense of willful failure to file an income tax return. However, some kinds of offenses carry no such implication. Traditionally, the distinction was drawn in terms of offenses involving "moral turpitude." That concept can be construed to include offenses concerning some matters of personal morality, such as adultery and comparable offenses, that have no specific connection to fitness for the practice of law. Although a lawyer is personally answerable to the entire criminal law, a lawyer should be professionally answerable only for offenses that indicate lack of those characteristics relevant to law practice. Offenses involving violence, dishonesty,~~or~~ breach of trust, or serious interference with the administration of justice are in that category. A pattern of repeated offenses, even ones of minor significance when considered separately, can indicate indifference to legal obligation.

[3] A lawyer who, in the course of representing a client, knowingly manifests by words or conduct bias or prejudice based upon race, sex, religion, national origin, disability, age, sexual orientation or socioeconomic status, violates paragraph (d) when such actions are prejudicial to the administration of justice. Legitimate advocacy respecting the foregoing factors does not violate paragraph (d). A trial judge's finding that peremptory challenges were exercised on a discriminatory basis does not alone establish a violation of this rule.

[4] A lawyer may refuse to comply with an obligation imposed by law upon a good faith belief that no valid obligation exists. The provisions of Rule ~~1.2(e)~~1.2(d) concerning a good faith challenge to the validity, scope, meaning or application of the law apply to challenges of legal regulation of the practice of law.

[5] Lawyers holding public office assume legal responsibilities going beyond those of other citizens. A lawyer's abuse of public office can suggest an inability to fulfill the professional role of ~~attorney~~ lawyers. The same is true of abuse of positions of private trust such as trustee, executor, administrator, guardian, agent and officer, director or manager of a corporation or other organization.

~~Subdivision (g) proscribes sexual exploitation of the lawyer's client. A lawyer who commences a sexual relationship with the client during legal representation may be exploiting the client's trust in the lawyer, the client's vulnerability in a stressful situation, or the lawyer's superior professional position. A sexual relationship that exploits the client's trust in the lawyer compromises the lawyer-client relationship.~~

~~If the client is an organization, references to the client in this subdivision include any individual who oversees the client's interests in the representation and gives instructions to the lawyer on behalf of the organization.~~

~~The proscription of subdivision (g) applies only to a lawyer who is directly involved in the representation of the client.~~

~~Rule 8.5. Jurisdiction.~~

~~A lawyer admitted to practice in this jurisdiction is subject to the disciplinary authority of this jurisdiction although engaged in practice elsewhere.~~

~~COMMENT~~

~~In modern practice lawyers frequently act outside the territorial limits of the jurisdiction in which they are licensed to practice, either in another state or outside the United States. In doing so, they remain subject to the governing authority of the jurisdiction in which they are licensed to practice. If their activity in another jurisdiction is substantial and continuous, it may constitute practice of law in that jurisdiction. See Rule 5.5.~~

~~If the rules of professional conduct in the two jurisdictions differ, principles of conflict of laws may apply. Similar problems arise when a lawyer is licensed to practice in more than one jurisdiction.~~

~~Where a lawyer is licensed to practice law in two jurisdictions which impose conflicting obligations, applicable rules of choice of law may govern the situation. A related problem arises with respect to practice before a federal tribunal, where the general authority of the states to regulate the practice of law must be reconciled with such authority as federal tribunals may have to regulate practice before them.~~

Rule 8.5. Disciplinary Authority; Choice of Law.

(a) Disciplinary Authority. A lawyer admitted to practice in this jurisdiction is subject to the disciplinary authority of this jurisdiction, regardless of where the lawyer's conduct occurs. A lawyer not admitted in this jurisdiction is also subject to the disciplinary authority of this jurisdiction if the lawyer provides or offers to provide any legal services in this jurisdiction. A lawyer may be subject to the disciplinary authority of both this jurisdiction and another jurisdiction for the same conduct.

(b) Choice of Law. In any exercise of the disciplinary authority of this jurisdiction, the rules of professional conduct to be applied shall be as follows:

(b)(1) for conduct in connection with a matter pending before a tribunal, the rules of the jurisdiction in which the tribunal sits, unless the rules of the tribunal provide otherwise; and

(b)(2) for any other conduct, the rules of the jurisdiction in which the lawyer's conduct occur, or, if the predominant effect of the conduct is in a different jurisdiction, the rules of that jurisdiction shall be applied to the conduct. A lawyer shall not be subject to discipline if the lawyer's conduct conforms to the rules of a jurisdiction in which the lawyer reasonably believes the predominant effect of the lawyer's conduct will occur.

Comment

Disciplinary Authority

[1] It is longstanding law that the conduct of a lawyer admitted to practice in this jurisdiction is subject to the disciplinary authority of this jurisdiction. Extension of the disciplinary authority of this jurisdiction to other lawyers who provide or offer to provide legal services in this jurisdiction is for the protection of the citizens of this jurisdiction. Reciprocal enforcement of a jurisdiction's disciplinary findings and sanctions will further advance the purposes of this Rule. See Rules 6 and 22, Utah Rules of Lawyer Discipline and Disability.

[1a] Utah has declined to adopt the portion of ABA Model Rule 8.5 Comment [1] providing that a lawyer who is subject to Utah disciplinary authority under Rule 8.5(a) is deemed to have appointed a court-designated official to receive service of process. This would be a substantive procedural rule that is not appropriate for these Rules. The last sentence of ABA Comment [1] is an unnecessary comment on jurisdiction in civil matters, and Utah has declined to adopt it.

Choice of Law

[2] A lawyer may be potentially subject to more than one set of rules of professional conduct that impose different obligations. The lawyer may be licensed to practice in more than one jurisdiction with differing rules or may be admitted to practice before a particular court with rules that differ from those of the jurisdiction or jurisdictions in which the lawyer is licensed to practice. Additionally, the lawyer's conduct may involve significant contacts with more than one jurisdiction.

[3] Paragraph (b) seeks to resolve such potential conflicts. Its premise is that minimizing conflicts between rules, as well as uncertainty about which rules are applicable, is in the best interests of both clients and the profession (as well as the bodies having authority to regulate the profession). Accordingly, it takes the approach of (i) providing that any particular conduct of a lawyer shall be subject to only one set of rules of professional conduct, (ii) making the determination of which set of rules applies to particular conduct as straightforward as possible, consistent with recognition of appropriate regulatory interests of relevant jurisdictions, and (iii) providing protection from discipline for lawyers who act reasonably in the face of uncertainty.

[4] Paragraph (b)(1) provides that, as to a lawyer's conduct relating to a proceeding pending before a tribunal, the lawyer shall be subject only to the rules of the jurisdiction in which the tribunal sits unless the rules of the tribunal, including its choice of law rule, provide otherwise. As to all other conduct, including conduct in anticipation of a proceeding not yet pending before a tribunal, paragraph (b)(2) provides that a lawyer shall be subject to the rules of the jurisdiction in which the lawyer's conduct occurs, or, if the predominant effect of the conduct is in another jurisdiction, the rules of that jurisdiction shall be applied to the conduct. In the case of conduct in anticipation of a proceeding that is likely to be before a tribunal, the predominant effect of such conduct could be where the conduct occurs, where the tribunal sits or in another jurisdiction.

[5] When a lawyer's conduct involves significant contacts with more than one jurisdiction, it may not be clear whether the predominant effect of the lawyer's conduct will occur in a jurisdiction other than the one in which the conduct occurred. So long as the lawyer's conduct conforms to the rules of a jurisdiction in which the lawyer reasonably believes the predominant effect will occur, the lawyer shall not be subject to discipline under this Rule.

[6] If two admitting jurisdictions were to proceed against a lawyer for the same conduct, they should, applying this Rule, identify the same governing ethics rules. They should take all appropriate steps to see that they do apply the same rule to the same conduct and in all events should avoid proceeding against a lawyer on the basis of now-inconsistent rules.

[7] The choice-of-law provision applies to lawyers engaged in transnational practice, unless international law, treaties or other agreements between competent regulatory authorities in the affected jurisdictions provide otherwise.